TWO CO-EDS GET 'H' CARDS

OTHER HIGH GRADES ARE REPORTED AMONG STUDENTS

OFFICIAL REPORTS LACKING

In Defeating Lemon-Yellow List. Comparative Standing of Clubs and Organizations to Be Compiled in Few Days.

Because of the rush of business attendant to registration, the Registrar's office will be unable to furnish a complete list of students receiving highest grades during the last semester for several days.

But two all "H" cards were given this year. They belong to Beulah Stebno, who attained like honors last year, and Anna Neufeld.

Frederic Malzer, a freshman from Baker, lacked but one hour of securing an all "H" card, receiving 15 hours "H" and one hour "M." His "H's" were secured in Greek, English, German and higher algebra, which are among the most difficult courses in college, while his one "M" was given in the one hour practical ethics course for freshmen.

Beulah Stebno Highest. Probably the highest grades given to any junior except Beulah Stebno were received by Lewis Bond, of Eugene and a member of last year's tennis team. Bond was given 12 hours "H" and four hours "S." He also enjoys the distinction of being the youngest member of the Junior class.

Maude Mastick, of Portland, was given senior honors by receiving eleven hours "H" and 10 hours "S." Miss Mastick was one of the three who received "H's" in Tausco-ed, while the other two, considered one of the hardest courses in college.

Relative scholarship standings of the various clubs and fraternities will be compiled by the Registrar shortly.

Over Thirty Flunk. According to unofficial reports, between 30 and 40 University students failed to make the required nine hours, necessary to remain in college. The list of flunkers includes five seniors, five freshmen, the remainder being divided between the sophomore and junior classes.

It is not known how many will be reinstated by the Faculty, which will meet this evening to consider the statement petitions. Several of the number lacked only an hour or two of making the required nine.

Thirty-one freshmen and seven old students registered in the University Monday. More new students registered today, so that it is expected the list will reach 50 before registration closes.

CUT-RATE TIME EXTENDED

Special Price on Oregana Will Be Kept Open Until February 15.

The two dollar and a half subscription rate for the Oregana will be extended to February fifteenth for the benefit of the new students and on account of the examinations. A good canvass will be made of the whole school and a special effort will be made to give the new students an opportunity to take advantage of this offer. It was only after a thorough investigation of the condition of affairs that Sam Michael consented to extend the time and every one who has not taken advantage of the two dollar and half rate, paying one dollar and a half when subscribing and the other dollar when they receive the book, are urged to subscribe as soon as possible.

DONALD AND MORRIS WIN IN ORATORICAL TRYOUTS

To Represent "U" at Intercollegiate and International Peace Contests

Speaking on the subject, "Universal Democracy, the Extinction of War," James Donald secured the first choice of the judges at the oratorical tryout held Friday night, January 13, and will represent the University of Oregon in the annual state inter-collegiate oratorical contest to be held March 13 in Albany.

At the same tryout Victor Morris won the choice of the judges for the position of Oregon orator in the state international peace contest. At this contest as in the other, all the colleges of the state will be represented, the winner to receive a prize of $75, while the second best will be given a $50 prize.

Similar contests will be held all over the United States, and the best speakers from the various districts will meet early in the summer at Lake Mohonk for the final competition.

OREGANA PRINTING AND BINDING CONTRACTS LET

All Work Will Be Done in Eugene. Date Set for Completion Is May 2

Ben Dorris, advertising manager of the Oregana, has let the bids for the Oregana to Yorlan Printing house and Eaton's for binding. There will be one thousand copies of five hundred pages each. The book will be bound in cloth and will be stamped in gold on the front cover and back. The publication will be finished and ready for delivery on May second.

Four hundred copies will be sent to public libraries, high schools, Y. M. C. A. in the state. Each University in the United States will also receive one, to let the other schools see what Oregon is like.

Dorris reports the price on the binding and printing as cheaper than the price made on any previous book.

All Oregana photos must be in by the end of this week. The time is short and the prints are hard to make. All persons who are using last year's pictures must go to the photographer and order the prints for this year. Leave them at the gallery and they will be collected by an agent from the Oregana. Juniors and Seniors must especially attend to this.

All drawings for the Oregana should be given to Thornton Howard as soon as possible.

Editor Lee Hendricks of the 1915 Oregana says he expects to spend the busiest time of his ordinarily tranquil life during the next two or three months, with the work of getting out the big book on time on his hands.

The signing of contracts by Manager Dorris for printing and binding yesterday means that the first sections of the book will go to press as soon as the printer can accommodate them," said Hendricks yesterday. "With examinations over I expect the members of my staff to get their departments in shape within the next few days.

Hazel Barta, now Mrs. Donald certainly deserves credit for being the first member of the staff to complete her work, that of the circulation department. Although only appointed a few weeks ago to fill a vacancy, she prepared all before she was married and it is today. I called and turned it over to the staff members who do it.

I hope all the students will patronize the Oregana newspaper which is located near the entrance to the library, or at least the time I saw it. By patronizing I mean that the students are requested to contribute rather than to pilfer any of our hard-earned jokes.

CHAMPIONSHIP MASK DANCE CHANCES FADE

WASHINGTON BY WINNING TWO GAMES GETS BIG LEAD

OREGON TEAM NOW ON TOUR

By Defeating Lemon-Yellow Quintet by Scores of 28-7 and 30-10, Seattle Team Almost Cinches Honors.

By annexing the first five games played this season, Washington has gained a lead in basketball that will be pretty nearly impossible for any of the other teams in the western division to overcome. The last two games won by Washington were taken from Oregon by the scores of 28 to 7 and 30 to 10, played Saturday and Monday nights.

This puts Oregon in the cellar with O. A. C. with the exception that Oregon has lost only two games so far while the "Aggies" dropped three games in Seattle. Washington heads the column with a percentage of 1000.

The first game at Seattle was the hardest game played on that floor this season. It was hotly contested by the opposing teams from start to finish, and they were evenly matched throughout the game except during the first few minutes in the second half when Washington came back strong, and in half as many minutes five field baskets were chalked up for the home team. This gave them a lead which Oregon could not overcome. The second game played Monday night was a repetition of the first game, Washington again coming back the stronger in the second half, long enough to secure a lead which the visitors could not overcome.

Centers Are Feature.

The feature of both games was the struggle between the two big centers on the opposing teams. In the first game, Fenton who is considered as one of the hardest men on any of the conference teams to handle, was guarded so closely by Savage that he was unable to toss a basket, while Savage secured one. Washington's guards put up a splendid exhibition and kept Oregon from scoring. Oregon perhaps showed flashes of better team work than the northerners, but she was unable to toss the baskets.

Both games were speedy and conceded to have been the hardest fought games played thus far this season on Washington's floor. Washington has a fast quintet and is slated to walk away with the championship. However, all her games played have been on the home floor while the losers had this disadvantage to cope with and this may have something to do with the final reckoning. Oregon's team took the trip in a somewhat crippled condition as Wheeler, crack basket-shooter, had both thumbs sprained before starting and was unable to handle the ball in his usual style.

The Lineup.

The line-up for the first game played Saturday night was: Oregon. Washington. Bigbee, Wolcott. Robinson. Wheeler, Rice. Dickinson. Fenton. Savage. Sims. McFee. Bradshaw. Fancher. Field baskets: Wolcott, Wheeler, Fancher, Dickinson, Savage 2, Robinson, McFee 4. Goals from foul line, Rice 3, Savage 6. Referee James.

MASK DANCE BIG SUCCESS

EIGHTY SENIORS ATTEND LOTTERY DANCE IN COSTUME

FRESHMEN ENTERTAIN DANCERS

Many Unique and Clever Costumes Worn by Class. Function Marks End of Moustache Contest.

Some eighty odd Seniors, men and women, attended the senior masque lottery dance given at the Kappa Sigma house last night, and continued to trip it until nearly morning. Those present at the party, however, were not all dancers, and card tables were prepared for these. Special entertainment was provided for the upperclassmen between dances by Emma Wooten, in recitation, by Milton Stoddard, who figured as a "hoot mon," with an aptitude for making chalk talk, and by Zella Knox in vocal solo.

Costumes were not in evidence until after the house was reached, and after the disguises were donned the only means of identification between partners were the numbers pinned on man and woman. Each man's number was the same as that of the woman whom he had escorted to the dance with the difference that the feminine numbers had the letter "A" added to them.

Costumes Varied.

Sailors and policemen seemed to be mainly in attendance after the music started, and with them appeared an abundance of dancing girls, gypsies and the like. In a majority of cases, the four years' association on the campus was too much for the concealment attempted by the masquers, but in a few instances the identity of some of the girls remained in doubt until after the third number on the program, when in the course of a grand march led by class president, Allie Grout, the masques were removed.

The dance programs were adapted specially to the kind of entertainment given. The cards were divided into two sections, one for the dances themselves and one for classification. Under classification the number of the partner was listed and, in addition, his or her costume, complexion, size and weight. A separate column was reserved for any miscellaneous remarks which might not come under these heads.

Freshmen as Servants.

Freshmen boys in clown costume were in attendance at the door and at the rooms, while freshmen girls, in black dresses and white aprons resided over the punch bowl. At the close of the thirteenth dance, refreshments of ice cream and cakes were served.

As patrons and patronesses, Mr. and Mrs. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Bezdek, and Miss Julia Burgess, were present.

The music was furnished by Hendershot's orchestra.

GYMNASIUM FIGURES SHOW VALUE OF WORK

New Arrangements Will Be Made for Women's Classes This Semester

That the gymnasium work that is being done in the woman's gymnasium is a benefit to the health and physique of the girls is shown by the measurements of the Sophomore class:

Weight—Fall, 1912-13, 121.8 pounds; spring, 127 pounds. Increase, 5.2 pounds.

Height—Fall, 1912-13, 63 inches; spring, 64.1 inches. Increase, 1.1 inches.

Lung Capacity—Fall, 1912-1913, 188.2 cubic c.; spring, 187 cubic c. Increase, 18.8 cubic c.

The freshmen are not the only ones who flunk out in gymnasium at any rate. The seniors contributed more than their share of flunks. According to a report posted in the Woman's gymnasium a larger percentage of seniors flunked than any other class. Of the Freshmen 37 per cent did not pass; of the Sophomores 35 per cent; of the Juniors, 33 1-3 per cent, and of the Seniors, 37 1/2 per cent.

EIGHT UNIVERSITY MEN TO INVADE COTTAGE GROVE

Booster Meeting to Show Work of College Y. M. C. A. Planned for March First

Sunday night all the churches of Cottage Grove will unite in a big union mass meeting at one of the churches. Charles Koyl will preside and talks will be given by all the members of the deputation.

The purpose of this deputation is to acquaint the people of the state with the work of the Y. M. C. A. This is the second one this year, the first having gone to Woodburn during the first semester.

GOLD EMBOSSED FATIMA CASE IS TOO TEMPTING

Charles Koyl Now Listed as One of Obak Cigar Store Patrons

It was quietly reposing in Obak's show case. The lettering indeed was quite plain and the numerals as they shimmered in gold embossing on the leather of the "cig" case denoted a freshman. Inside the case were the smoker's delights—awaiting the owner. And the owner came. Of medium height, glasses clinched on his nose and his red hair shining he stepped to the counter. Charles Koyl had come to claim his own!

This is no joke, for Koyl admits it. You may see the case but the "cigs" are all gone. Have a Rershey on Charles, boys!

C. E. COURSES LOST TO BOTH

ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT ORDERED OUT AT EACH OF STATE SCHOOLS

BOARD ANNOUNCE DECISION

Hearing on Curricula of University and Agricultural College Closes With Decision Adverse to Both Claims.

Civil Engineering, as such, was ordered eliminated from both the University of Oregon and the Oregon Agricultural College, by the Board of Higher Curricula at its last meeting, held in Portland last Saturday. At its previous meeting the Board had ordered the abolishment of the electrical, chemical and mechanical engineering departments at the University.

President P. L. Campbell said in regard to the decision: "At the present time I am not prepared to make a statement, as I felt that it would be unwise to comment upon the decision at this time." In a few days, upon receipt of details of the Board's action, he will be prepared, he says, to make a statement.

Two Resolutions.

Prof. E. H. McAllister, dean of the engineering college of the University, states that the decision of the board was a complete surprise to him. "I did not expect the board to abolish civil engineering altogether, but rather expected it would be moved to one or the other of the two institutions."

The decision of the board of higher curricula last Saturday took the form of two resolutions, both of which carried unanimously.

1. "The department of civil engineering is eliminated from both institutions and there is to be no further matriculation in this course in either school from the date of the order."

2. "It is to be discretionary with the boards of regents of each school, however, whether they shall maintain the course until it has been completed by those matriculated in it prior to the date of the order."

According to Professor Skelton of the O. A. C., 88 per cent of work in a civil engineering course is also involved in the other courses of engineering and only 12 per cent of the course in civil engineering is needed exclusively for a full degree course in civil engineering.

Defines Intention.

The board not only took up the civil engineering question but it defined what it meant when it ruled at its December meeting to transfer the courses in architecture, music, economics and political science, commerce, education and the graduate school to the University exclusively. As the board defined the rules, however, that the Agricultural College will retain the right to handle such parts of general courses as are essential to the training of its students in the various departments of the institution.

Joseph E. Hedges, a member of the board of higher curricula, states that in the opinion of the majority, "The engineering courses were the only courses in which there was any duplication that was positively unnecessary or expensive to the state. As the order stands, Agricultural College can still teach civil engineering so far as it may be required to the courses leading to degrees in mechanical, electrical, irrigation and other courses of engineering."

There are a little over one hundred students enrolled in the engineering courses at the University about fifty of whom are in the civil engineering course. There are eight instructors in these departments.
