

U. OF W. TEAM DOWNED 24-9

FINAL GAME OF BASKETBALL SERIES WON BY OREGON

SHOOTING OF VARSITY POOR

Contest Marked by Wide Passes and Fumbles. Fenton Secures 18 Points While Savage Made All for Washington

(By Fred B. Dunbar)

In a slow and uninteresting game, replete with fouls, bad passes, fumbles and wide shots at the basket, Oregon swamped the University of Washington in basketball last night by a score of 24 to 9. Oregon had all the better of the passing and dribbling but the basket shooting was poor.

Washington's men were unable to find their stride and from the start of the game they were practically at the mercy of the Varsity. Wild passes and fumbles were the order of the day. Practically all the playing was done in Oregon territory, and only the inability of Oregon to find the basket kept the score down to 24 points. Oregon showed up considerably the better but at times the passing was off and many wild throws and fumbles were made. The baskets made by Oregon were the more difficult tried while the easy ones were missed.

Fenton High Point Winner.

For Oregon, Fenton was the highest point winner, making 18 of the 24. The other three baskets were made by Sims, Bradshaw and Walcott. For Washington Savage at forward made all the points, throwing one basket and making the rest from the foul line. In this he excelled, missing one throw out of eight attempts. Rice at forward and Sims at guard played the most spectacular games, while Walcott against Savage kept his man to one basket and tossed one in himself. Fenton made some difficult shots and kept the rooters in anxious excitement whenever he secured the ball. L. Bigbee and Koch were substituted for Rice and Walcott in the last three minutes of play but too late to get going properly. Washington's playing was desultory, Savage being the only player showing up to any extent.

Oregon Outplays Opponents.

The first half ended with the score 8 to 2 in Oregon's favor and it was evident that Oregon was outplaying the visitors. In the second half Washington slowed up even more and Oregon began to find the basket to the extent indicated by the score. During this period Bradshaw played a much better game than usual, taking the ball down the field time after time, recovering and receiving in good style but unable to locate the little hoop.

At times the play would liven up and real basketball was played but only to slow up again. Time was taken out during the second half while the referee jogged down the street half a block to recover the ball which was knocked through both doors which stood open, down the steps and into the street. After being run down, brought back and wiped off, the game proceeded.

Washington lost to O. A. C. Thursday night by a score of 20 to 13. Tonight they play O. A. C. the sixth and last game before returning home from their trip.

Dr. Stewart of O. A. C., was on the sidelines last night getting a line on the Oregon team in preparation for the Oregon Aggie games which start next week. The first is played here Tuesday night. The following night Oregon meets O. A. C. in Corvallis, on February 27 in Eugene, 28 in Corvallis.

RED ISSUE OF EMERALD TO BE EDITED IN APRIL

Campus Geniuses to Substitute Regular Staff for Spicy Publication

The Red Emerald, it is reported, will come to life again probably in April. This special edition of the Emerald is like the regular issue in many respects, save that it is published in winter and summer and winter and summer. The summer issue is green, yellow and pink will be too loud for it, because if it cannot be read it wishes to be heard. The contents will consist of rich, rare and racy material with a variety of style and quality. The publishers will not be connected with the Emerald Staff, but will be literary artists who have no previous chance to show their genius. In other words they will be dark horses in the fields of Hearstism. The wandering bards and barkeeps of the campus, will likely contribute, but with what material, no one knows, not even themselves. Likely it will be about the heart.

In 1911 a red issue of the Emerald was published with great success by Mason Roberts, '13, and his band of cohorts. Last year Sigma Delta Chi, a journalistic fraternity, published a similar edition.

The gentle knocks of spring have started to arouse the sleeping writers and by April all will be fully awake and ready to pour out the feelings of their souls in print.

AMENDMENT WILL BE SUBMITTED WEDNESDAY

Senior Committee Will Draw up Articles at a Meeting Tomorrow

The representative committee of Seniors, appointed to draw up amendments to the student-body constitution, will have its final meeting tomorrow morning and pass finally upon articles of amendment arranged by the special committee of five chosen sometime ago. The meeting will be held tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Kappa Kappa Gamma House, and President Motschenbacher is anxious that all the members of the committee attend, because the amendments agreed upon at this time will go before the student-body for approval or disapproval at regular assembly hour next Wednesday morning. Other matters of importance will also be taken up at this time.

In its general nature the amendment draughted by the special committee will establish a student council with 12 or 13 members, which will take over some of the powers now delegated to the executive committee of the student-body; and will assume such others as the faculty is willing to release at this time or share in common with the council. The basis of representation upon this committee has not yet been definitely decided, but will be part of the proposition to be submitted to the student-body Wednesday morning.

The special committee met last Thursday night and settled upon the proposition to be considered tomorrow by the whole committee. The committee was appointed nearly three months ago to consider and frame some more satisfactory plan of handling student-body problems; and the student council system in some form is generally favored by the members of the committee. The University of Washington has preceded Oregon in the adoption of the student council plan.

When a member of the Oregon faculty receives requests from far-off Hungary for information as to his methods of fly extermination, it looks as if the State University were pretty well on the map.

America will be represented by a soccer eleven in the 1916 Olympic games at Berlin.

"WE CAN" SAYS ELBERT BEDE

PROMINENT EDITOR GIVES TALK BEFORE CLASSES IN JOURNALISM.

GREAT INVENTORS ARE CITED

President of Oregon Editorial Association and Editor of Cottage Grove Sentinel Is Firm Believer in Will.

"We Can." On this theme Elbert Bede, editor of the Cottage Grove Sentinel and president of the Oregon Editorial Association, spoke yesterday to the combined journalism classes. "I spoke on this subject first to the employes of a cannery, but today I treat it with another meaning as applied to journalists," said Mr. Bede.

"A famous newspaperman once said that he could draw electricity from the clouds—his name was Benjamin Franklin (do you remember him, Mr. Dymont?)—and people told him that he could not do it. His answer was, 'I can!' and he did.

"Robert Fulton said he could run boats with steam; people laughed, but he said, 'I can!' and he did. And today the great ocean steamships, with their great turbine engines, carry enough people to populate Cottage Grove.

Lands Confidence.

Mr. Bede developed his point by further exemplification of the world-wide results of men who have said, "I can!" and have succeeded. He cited the cases of Alexander Graham Bell, who persevered and invented the telephone; of Samuel F. B. Morse, who said, "By dashy-dash-dash, I can invent a telegraph," and who did it in the face of incredulity; of the two bicycle repairers—the Wright brothers—who said, "I can!" and flew; of Mergenthaler, whose invention has made possible the setting of type by machine; and of Edison, who said, "I can!" and made a photograph that "talks better than I can."

"All the progress of the ages has been accomplished by men who refused to acknowledge that there are such words as 'I can't.' The world is looking for young men and women who say, 'I can.'"

A Journalist from Boyhood.

Mr. Bede came to Oregon three years ago from Minnesota, where he ran a newspaper in a small town. He first set type at the age of 8 years in his father's office, had charge of the paper at the age of 16 and leased and ran a paper at the age of 18.

Mr. Bede, at the age of 32, now owns and runs the Cottage Grove Sentinel, considered by many newspapermen over the state as one of the best weeklies in Oregon. At the meeting of the Oregon Editorial Association in Portland, last October, Mr. Bede was elected unanimously to the office of president of that association. This is the first time that anyone not an old-time Oregonian has been chosen for this position.

JUNIORS OFFER PRIZES

Five Awards Will Be Given at Mask Ball.

The committee of the Junior mask has decided to offer five prizes, one for the best dressed man, one for the best dressed woman, one for the best dressed couple, and one each for the best sustained characters, men and women. The judges who will award the prizes will be chosen Monday when the Junior class meets.

The committee wishes it impressed on everyone that the mask is not for the Junior class alone, but for every student in the university, and it hopes that everyone will be able to turn out.

CAST OF PLAY IS ANNOUNCED

DRAMATIC CLUB WILL PRODUCE "A WOMAN'S WAY" ON MARCH 14

JANET YOUNG GIVEN STAR ROLE

Contrary to Custom, Play Will Be Put on at the Eugene Theatre. Thirteen Will Take Part in Play.

(By Edison Marshall)

The cast for "A Woman's Way," to be produced by the Dramatic Club March 14, has been chosen, giving Janet Young the star role. She is Marion Stanton, the woman who has her way.

"The Woman's Way" is a problem play, and is a strong, vital drama of the day. It is the story of a woman, whose husband believed in the double standard of morals.

A newspaper reporter, played by Harold Quigley, scents a good story in Howard Stanton's escapades, but because of the woman, who wants and has her way, the story never reaches the public. It is needless to say Stanton is reformed. The drama shows the clever, eternal-feminine manner by which Mrs. Stanton reforms her husband and preserves his reputation.

Ash Leading Man.

Ralph Ash will play Howard Stanton, Catharine Carson is Mrs. Blake-more and Willard Shaver, who played the leading part in the club's commencement play last year is Mr. Morris.

Harold Quigley's success as a green Freshman in the club's commencement play of last year resulted in his drawing Mr. Lynch, the reporter. Cleve Simkins will play Oliver Whitney, a strong part, and Graham McConnell will play Wilson. Maurice Hill is General Livingston. Bert Jerard as Bob Livingston, Norma Doble as Sally Livingston and Ellice Shearer as Mrs. Livingston are the rest of the family.

Lucille Cogswell will play Mrs. Stanton and Emma Wooten Mrs. Belle Morris. Miss Wooten is the only Freshman woman that drew a part in the play, but her success as an actress during the Astoria Centennial Exposition was the reason for this choice.

May Show at Rex.

The play will probably be given at the Rex theater. This is an innovation for plays given by university students.

The cast is as follows: Marion Stanton.....Janet Young Howard Stanton.....Ralph Ash Mrs. Blakemore.....Catharine Carson Mr. Morris.....Willard Shaver Oliver Whitney.....Cleve Simkins Wilson.....Graham McConnell Gen. Livingston.....Maurice Hill Bob Livingston.....Bert Jerard Mrs. Livingston.....Ellice Shearer Mr. Lynch.....Harold Quigley Sally Livingston.....Norma Doble Mrs. Stanton.....Lucille Cogswell Mrs. Belle Morris.....Emma Wooten

Y. M. VACANCIES FILLED

Erie Lane '14, and V. Motschenbacher Elected to Office.

At a recent meeting of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet Erie Lane, '14, was elected to the cabinet position of chairman of the mission department. The vacancy was caused because Merle Moore has given up his work in the university this semester.

John Black, president of the Y. M. C. A., who has also given up his work for this semester, has gone home, and his place will be filled by Vice-President Vernon Motschenbacher until the regular election on March 18.

RETURN TENNIS TOURNEY WITH O. A. C. TO BE IN MAY

Five Varsity Women Trying Out for Team. Game Proposed With Berkeley

The return women's tennis tournament with O. A. C. will probably be played the first week in May. The first matches of the series were played last spring on the Oregon campus, at which time the match was won by the Oregon team—Frances Addams, ex-'14, and Bess Cowden, '14. The second series was held at Corvallis this fall and won by them.

Those trying out for the team this year are Winifred Bent, '16; Aileen Noreen, '14; Bess Cowden, '14; Edna Harvey, '15; Zella Knox, '17.

A game is also proposed with Berkeley, but owing to the student-body refusing to back the proposition, the whole expense would have to be guaranteed by Berkeley, with no assurance of a return game on the Oregon campus.

A Pim racquet has also been donated by the Eugene gun store for the best women player on the campus. Tryouts for this trophy and others that will be offered by the Women's Tennis Club will be held sometime in the latter part of May. Only the women who belong to the Tennis Club will be eligible to try out for these trophies.

FACULTY TIGHTENS UP ON MID-WEEK AFFAIRS

Latest Rules Forbid Students to Have Friends as Dinner Guests

The printed rules and regulations of the Student Affairs Committee, that were distributed around to the various houses at the beginning of the second semester, and were thought to be the same as the previous rules, have just been discovered to be slightly different in regard to two of the restrictions: namely, "There shall be no social affairs, either formal or informal, from Monday morning until Friday at 3 p. m., inclusive, except under special permission of the committee" and "Not more than two formal social affairs shall be held by one organization during any one semester."

The other rules remain the same—the definition of formal and informal affairs, the mode of presenting petitions, the restrictions and the scheduled events.

The first change in the rules is construed by the majority of the committee to mean that no faculty member be especially invited to a house for dinner during the mid-week, though, if he should "drop in" it would be no offense to entertain him. Also to have a single friend for dinner without any special preparation or without any intent to make much of an affair out of it will not be a breach of this regulation, though entertaining several friends with a special preparation will be considered a violation of this restriction.

JOURNALISM DEPARTMENT GETS FAVORABLE NOTICE

Printer-Journalist Devotes Half Column to the Oregon School.

The Department of Journalism has received a half-column notice in the January number of the Printer-Journalist, which commends highly Professor E. W. Allen and the work being carried on by the department. The article ranks the Oregon department among the four largest schools of journalism in the United States. While attending the convention of the teachers of Journalism at Madison, Wis., this fall, Professor Allen was interviewed several times about the work of the Oregon school.

PRACTICE TO BE LIMITED

INCREASE OF REGISTRATION IN SCHOOL OF EDUCATION EXCESSIVE.

70 TEACHERS TO GRADUATE

Thirty-one Students Assigned Practice Work in Schools of Lane County this Semester—Largest Class on Record.

The School of Education has the largest number of students registered this semester since its organization. In fact, so great has been the demand for the professional work, Professor Ayer, Dean of the School of Education, has been obliged to place a limit on the registration in the practice course. This has become necessary in order to insure the strict supervision of practice teaching which has been inaugurated this year as a definite part of the technical work of the School of Education.

Despite the fact that the standards have been raised materially in all of the courses in education, Professor Ayer reports that the university will graduate this year the largest number of teachers in its history, and that, because of higher standards and better selection, the class will be the best yet sent out.

31 Practice Teaching.

The number of students registered in practice teaching this semester is 31, which is the high limit with the present supervisory force. The class is distributed as follows:

70 Seniors Will Teach.

This group, together with 27 who took practice work during the first semester and a number who for various reasons have been excused from the practice course, will constitute a class of some 70 trained teachers, ready to enter the state service this year. Three of the class graduated at the mid-year and have already accepted teaching positions.
