NECESSARY KNOWLEDGE.

The Emerald wishes to call especial attention on the part of the Oregon students to the copy of the resolution amending various portions of the Student-Body constitution which is contained in this issue. Something like two columns of space have been devoted to the printing of this resolution, and this has not been done merely to fill up space. It is a matter of moment to every student in the university that these prospective amendments should be thoroughly read and understood if an intelligent opinion is to be rendered on them at the next Student-Body meeting Wednesday, March 4.

A feature story, or several of them, concerning the encounter of belligerently inclined canines, might prove of more interest to some of The Emerald's readers than the amendments affecting the new Student Council, but it should not be so. The resolutions introduced at this morning's Student-Body meeting may not thrill the sport enthusiast, and hold him spellbound until he is brought up short by the final dash at the end of the story. But it is of vital importance to the Oregon men and women of the present and of the future college generations. Just take a little time off and find out what the Student-Council is and why you ought to vote for it.

ARE YOU GOING?

Considerable displeasure has been shown at the failure of the Oregon men to respond to the call for rooters issued yesterday to aid in winning the second O. A. C. game. The statement has been made that the old Oregon spirit was shown through this one incident, to be entirely lacking. This should not be taken too seriously as the real sentiment of the Oregon student body, nor should it be believed for a moment that Oregon spirit is in the slightest degree on the ebb.

Whether supporting a winning or a losing team, Oregon rooters have always displayed their propensity to root and root hard, to back up the team in every possible way. This same is true at the present time. The key to the entire matter lies in the fact that sufficient preparation was not given for the O. A. C. trip. Until Assembly hour Wednesday morning no idea was given out that any such trip was contemplated, and the time left (about six hours) was too short for the average student to make up his mind.

But another chance is presented in the game Saturday night which will be played in Corvallis, and now is the time for those in charge of the rooters to make all plans necessary to insure the presence of at least 100 Oregon men at Saturday night's game. As to the contest staged for the Oregon Gym, Friday evening, it goes without saying that the whole bunch of Oregon backers will be on hand. In regard to the game on the night following, there is no reason why a good aggregation of Oregon men cannot be gathered together to hold up the University end of the yelling on the Corvallis floor.

To the Editor:

This is the second little criticism that I have of the system here at Oregon. The first one was published in the Emerald and was concerned with the conditions of atmosphere to be found in the library. There may be more of them from time to time but I shall criticize nothing which can not be remedied.

During my four years in the University, I have noticed several things harmful to the students' best interests, and it is in the hope that my few words will not go entirely unheeded that I jot them down.

Just eight times in half as many years I have stood for the delay and confusion incident to registration in the University. It is the same story each time, i. e., a wait of several hours to half a day in duration in order to get as far as the registrar's window. If it is second semester registration, the chances are that when I get this far I am told I have to have the first semester's receipt, and as a result have to start in all over again. After getting the card to be signed by the different professors one is lucky to get out of the office at all. The only exit to the by this time, much to be desired exterior is through a three-foot door that has between its confines two incoming lines. One has the alternative of going in President Campbell's office and jumping out of the window or squeezing back out the way he came. Now the point is this: Out in the main hall where the registration windows should be located we are confronted with a wall unbroken save by a door which is always carefully covered with no admittance signs. Why not put the registration windows opening on this main hall? Two full lines could be conveniently accommodated and could be of any length, as they might extend through either of the large doors at the ends of the hallway. Of course, I personally do not have to waste any more time in pilgrimages to the inner office and in pushing most of the students out of it in order that I may get in; but the question is, How much longer are the registering students going to be forced to put up with such conditions?
