CABS, FLOWERS MEET DISFAVOR

SENIOR CLASS PUTS BAN ON EXPENSIVE LUXURIES AT FORMALS

DISCUSSED CAPS GOWNS

Committee on Invitations Appointed and Other Arrangements Made for Class Graduating Exercises Next June.

The Senior class held a meeting yesterday afternoon, at which Cecil Sawyer, representing the women, and Hawley Bean, representing the men, were chosen as delegates from Oregon to the Oratorical contest which will be held in Albany, March 13.

The Senior play was discussed, and judging from the reports of the committee it is likely that "Fifty Miles from Boston" will be the one that is chosen if the necessary arrangements can be made. The play is to be put on during Junior week-end and the Seniors expect to start to work on it as soon as possible.

A discussion was taken up concerning the use of cabs and flowers at formal functions of the University. It was decided that the Senior class should go on record as taking a direct stand against the use of cabs and flowers at all formal functions. Both men and women were decidedly in favor of this motion.

A committee consisting of Alfred Collier, chairman, Vernon Genn, and George Stevens was appointed to secure the construction of a large bulletin board to be placed near Deady Hall. This board is to be marked off with spaces for the four different classes and one large space for the University at large. All notices to be placed on it instead of on the boards of the various buildings.

William Murphy and Otto Heider were appointed to look after the securing of caps and gowns for the Seniors. These men are expected to make such arrangements as will be needed in order for the Senior class to secure caps and gowns without trouble.

Of the committee on invitations, Edith Still was appointed chairman with Maude Mastick and Wallace Cauffield as assistant members.

Professor Frederic S. Dunn, class adviser, gave a short talk on the preparation for commencement. He stated that he hopes that every student in the University can be induced to stay for commencement so that they may become accustomed to what occurs during commencement week and learn what is to be done by them in the future. He offered a number of criticisms on the actions of past Senior classes, citing a number of deplorable occurrences. He stated further that the present Senior class is going to be drilled as a primer class in abcs so that everything will run smoothly this year.

WATCHES TO REPLACE FIRST PLACE MEDALS

Stanford Track Authorities Make Changes in Regard to Interscholastic Meet

Stanford University, Feb. 26.—Watches will replace gold medals as trophies for first places in the Stanford interscholastic track and field meet this year. This was the decision reached by the board of governors on Saturday afternoon. Never before has such an innovation been introduced on the Pacific Coast in preparatory school meets, but it is something which has gained great commendation in the Eastern interscholastic meets.

The winner of each event will receive a watch of standard quality and workmanship inclosed in a gold filled case. Timepieces will also be awarded to the members of the winning relay team and to the winners of the singles and doubles championship in tennis.

In making this change from a gold medal to a watch the board believes that they are awarding the contesting athletes something more useful and something that will be prized more highly than a medal. The watches will be of special design and engraved. As yet the contract for these watches has not been placed. Details in regard to the make, number of jewels, and kind of case will be decided this week.

Besides giving watches for first place, second and third place men will receive silver and bronze medals, respectively as heretofore, attached to best pigskin leather with buckles to match the medals.

Souvenir medals, which allow the athletes entrance to the different events going on that week which they are here, were given last year for the first time to every contesting athlete. The medals were so unique and so well liked by the "prep" school boys that the board has decided to continue this scheme and will award every entry on arrival at the campus a souvenir medal, similar to the one used last year, only with a different shaped S. These medals are brass with German silver coating and bear the inscription "Stanford Interscholastic 1914."

The housing facilities of the Western Reserve Law School are doubled with the completion of the large addition to the law school building.

More than 3,000 farmers of New York state are attending the seventh annual farmers' week, held under the auspices of the College of Agriculture of Cornell University.

In an effort to regulate "rushing" by the various secret societies an interfraternity council has been formed at the University of Vermont.

Another attempt is being made at Bowdoin to limit the number of extra-curricular activities in which the individual student may participate.

The plan includes the formation of a limitations board whose duty it shall be to see that no undergraduate carries too heavy a program of "outside" affairs.

45 PER CENT HAVE COLLEGIATE PARENTS

Princeton Freshmen Statistics Show Eighteen Is Average Age

Princeton University, Feb. 23.—Eighty-four colleges and universities are represented by the parents of the students in the present freshman class at Princeton university this year, but of its 430 members only sixteen claim that both their parents are college graduates. Figures were today made public by the university authorities which show that 233, or 55 per cent of the entering students, have parents without college education. The fathers of 129 freshmen graduated from college, and of this number forty-five claim Princeton as their Alma Mater. Fourteen boys state that their mothers are entitled to wear the collegiate hoods. The average age of the class is slightly more than 18 years, the class birthday being August 13, 1895. The occupations of the fathers of the entering students range from that of policeman to that of secretary of the United States treasury. In these figures it is curious to note but one father is recorded as "teacher."

There are, however, eight "professors," "Business" and "manufacturing," of course, lead the list of occupations by a large margin, 140 fathers being registered under these heads. The other leading occupations are lawyers, 39; bankers, 30; physicians, 20; ministers, 19; real estate, 19; broker, 11; insurance, 11; engineering, 10; publishers, 10. Of the total number, 148 are engaged in professional work, 256 in some business field and 26 are either retired or claim no occupation. In religious preferences the freshmen are led by the Presbyterians, who number 155, the Episcopalians figuring as a close second with 131. The other leading figures are Catholic 36, Methodist 28, Congregational 17.

During the last week of January the Freshmen at Louisiana wore goggles and eyeglasses.

CALIFORNIA PROFESSOR OBJECTS TO WOMAN'S DAY

"Imposition on Men and Impertinence to Women," Says Herbert Cory

Berkeley, Cal., Feb. 25.—In today's issue of Brass Tacks, the college weekly, the practice of observing woman's day at the University of California is attacked by Dr. Herbert E. Cory, of the department of English. He says woman's day tends to hark back to the "mid-victorian" and "chivalric" conception and treatment of women.

"Woman's day has always impressed me as an imposition on the men and a gross impertinence to the women.

"Romantic love—real romantic love that does not fear the present of the intellectual and the rational, that can idealize not only in the evening salon, but on the morning after at the breakfast table—real romantic love, which is the only love worth the name, scorns equally that form of pseudo-idealism called sentiment and that form of purblind ignorance known as commonsense," is Dr. Cory's statement.
