

TWO COLLEGE EDITORS IN STATE LEGISLATURE

The Oregon Emerald Was Formerly The Oregon Weekly.

Two members of the State Legislature, one of them having been twice elected speaker of the House of representatives and a university professor, are represented in the list of men who have acted as editors of The Emerald, formerly The Oregon Weekly.

Clifton N. McArthur, who is at present practicing law in Portland, was the first editor of The Oregon Weekly, and was largely responsible for its establishment in 1900. Mr. McArthur, better known as "Pat," is now a state representative from Multnomah county, and is being mentioned as a candidate for congress from the Third district. Mr. McArthur was elected speaker of the House of Representatives in the 1913 session, and also during the session of 1909. He served as secretary to Governor Benson for a time. He is a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity.

Allen Eaton, who is now serving as representative from Lane county, was the second editor of The Weekly. Mr. Eaton was followed by James H. Gilbert, who is now assistant professor of economics at the university.

Among the editors who had charge of The Weekly before its name was changed to The Emerald in 1909 are J. H. Templeton of football fame and Thomas R. Townsend, who first removed advertising from the front page. Townsend was also president of the Student-Body while in college.

When W. C. Nicholas became editor in 1909, The Oregon Weekly became The Emerald, and was issued twice each week. The new name was suggested by the poems of Joaquin Miller, the late poet of the Sierras. Mr. Miller formerly lived in Lane county, and loved to call Oregon the Emerald state.

Last year the size of the paper was changed, and it was, for the first time, issued three times a week. Karl Onthank was editor and Andrew Collier, manager.

HUGH A. MORAN WILL SPEAK

Secretary of Hankow Association Will Be Here Monday.

Hugh A. Moran, general secretary of the Hankow, China, Young Men's Christian Association, will speak at the special meeting of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet at the association headquarters Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Everyone is invited to be present.

Mr. Moran is a graduate of Stanford University, and while in college was awarded the Rhodes scholarship. Monday evening he will speak at the Eugene Y. M. C. A.

NOTED CELLO SOLOIST WILL BE HERE TUESDAY

Frederick Preston Search to Give Last Recital of the Year.

Frederick Preston Search, the noted cello soloist, will give a concert at the Presbyterian church, Pearl street, Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the University School of Music.

This is Mr. Search's first visit to Eugene, although he gave a recital in Portland two years ago. The Oregonian, in reporting the concert, gave Mr. Search a great eulogy, hailing him as one of the greatest of American cello players.

The Search concert will be the last of a series of three recitals that has been given by the School of Music this year. Madame Carreno, the well-known pianist, was here in November, and Sybil Mac Dermid, the prominent soprano, gave a recital about three weeks ago.

Prof. Ralph Lyman, the head of the Music Department, says that the concerts have not been a financial success, principally because of conflicts with other attractions. "Although we have not come out well financially with the recitals given so far," said Prof. Lyman, "we are getting people interested in high-class musical entertainment. Next year there will be an added number of attractions, and the best talent available will be secured."

The prices for the Search concert are 75 cents and $1.

ACKERSON IN LINE FOR RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

Oregon Man, Successful in Recent Examinations, Is Eligible.

(Archie H. Ross)

Luton Ackerson, '15, is the only Oregon man in line for the Cecil Rhodes scholarship. He has passed the examination, although he was not chosen to represent the state at Oxford this year. Automatically, he will be a contestant for the award until he reaches his 25th year, unless he is selected before that time.

Along with Ackerson, Raphael Geisler, '12, of Baker, was a candidate this year, but will have reached the age limit before the next award is made.

Oregon has been represented by more Rhodes scholars in the English school than any other school in the state.

The award carries a scholarship for three years, with a cash allowance of $1,500 a year. At Oxford they have six months school each year, and the rest of the time the student may spend in travel if he chooses.

"It is a very high honor to secure a Rhodes scholarship," said Dr. Straub today. "I don't understand why more young men do not take the examinations. Some states have no representatives at all in Oxford."

GIRLS' FROLIC ON APRIL 4

Committees to Be Appointed Soon Will Prepare for Event.

The Women's League will hold its April frolic on the 4th of April. Meta Goldsmith has charge of the affair. "As yet no definite arrangements have been made," she said, "but I intend to appoint the committees immediately. A charge of 25 cents will be made for spectators, and, as last year, only women will be present. There are to be no out-of-town guests at the frolic except those who have already been invited."

At the meeting of the Women's League yesterday it was decided that the stunts should be but five minutes long and should contain as little talking as possible.

Shorthand by Machine

Demonstrated Here

AT EUGENE BUSINESS COLLEGE

You have read about the new method of writing "shorthand," called "shorthand by machine."

Now come to this school and see a demonstration.

See what the Stenotype—the machine that writes it—means to young men and women who want to get the right start in business.

The STENOTYPE Weight Only 8 Lbs.

The Fastest Writing Machine in the World

Stenotypists are getting better salaries than the ordinary beginners in stenography.

For Stenotypy is a perfect system of plain English spelling, with only the silent letters dropped, and is written legibly, accurately, and fast. Business men want this accuracy and speed.

The Stenotype has but 22 keys and writes at the rate of a word at a stroke. These keys are stamped with plain alphabet letters—the kind you learned when you first went to school. None of the characters of the usual shorthand is employed.

Easy to Learn, and Interesting

Because of its simplicity, Stenotypy is the easiest system to learn, to write and to read, ever devised for fast writing.

Students attain unusual efficiency and are thus in immediate demand in business. We help all graduated Stenotypists get good positions.

Machine Way or Hand Way?

So don't enroll anywhere until you have seen this machine, and have seen our Stenotype students write on it. Let us show you how easily you yourself can write on it.

Decide after this trial if you want to enroll for "The Machine Way in Shorthand" or the "Hand Way." We teach both. Your first steps in business are the important steps. See that you don't go wrong.

We are demonstrating the Stenotype to new students daily. See what the Stenotype will mean to you.
