

350 SUBSCRIBE FOR OREGANA

PRICE OF YEAR BOOK WILL BE RAISED FROM $2.50 TO $3.00

MAY BE DELIVERED MAY 2

Printing of Annual Will Be Commenced When Stock Arrives, Says Editor Lee Hendricks. Part of Copy in.

Three hundred and fifty subscriptions for this year's Oregoniana have been taken as a result of the low rate subscription campaign that has been conducted for several months by Circulation Manager Sam Michael. The low rate offer closes tonight and the price of the book is raised from $2.50 to $3.00. The copy for the first part of the book has practically been collected and actual printing will begin as soon as the stock arrives.

The order of the departments will be the University Book, first; Faculty and Administration, second; Classes, third; Law School, fourth; Medical School, fifth; and Fraternities, last. The book devoted to classes will be larger than ever before.

Senior pictures will be placed five to the page, with the usual summary placed opposite. The Junior pictures will be arranged in a similar way with the exception that eight pictures will be placed on each page instead of five. A humorous personal write-up will accompany each Junior's picture. The Freshman and Sophomore classes will receive more space than heretofore. Besides the usual group pictures and the pictures of the officers, the class rolls will be printed.

Manager Ben Dorris leaves Monday for Portland for the purpose of getting the copy of the Law and Medical departments. Pictures of the Faculty, Seniors and Juniors and law fraternities will be published in connection with these departments. The Oregoniana will contain the pictures of two new law fraternities that have been established within the last year.

The art staff of the year-book is composed of Thornton Howard, Joe Tominaga, Milton Stoddard and Charles McMillan. Tominaga is drawing the frontpiece, Stoddard the athletic heads and McMillan most of the cartoons. Several campus scenes will be run in three colors and the pictures of President P. L. Campbell and Sam Friendly will be engraved by a special process.

"We are working hard in an endeavor to get the book ready for delivery by May 2," said Editor Lee Hendricks, yesterday.

"The various departments are coming along in good shape, except that the pictures of several Seniors have not been turned in yet. We cannot extend the time for receiving these pictures any longer and some will be obliged to use their old ones. All pictures must be in by the first of next week and those failing to do so will be left out.

"There has been some good stuff put in the feature box in the Library and the box will be left there for two or three weeks longer."

For the purpose of accommodating Portland alumni, Circulation Manager Sam Michael will place books on sale in Portland stores as soon as the books are printed.

Books for distribution in the University will probably be left at the Y. M. C. A. Book Exchange, where the subscribers may get their books. In order to avoid any discrepancies or mistakes, a list of subscribers will be kept at the Exchange. Michael also states that he shall personally supervise the delivery of the book. Those not calling for their book will be notified.

PLANS UNDER WAY FOR COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM

King Lear Will Be Presented on Campus by Drama Class

"Plans for the Commencement program are now under way and many new features will be presented," said Allie Grout, president, of the Senior class, yesterday. "At the last Senior meeting Professor Dunn outlined the general arrangements followed in previous years; and the class of 1914 intend to follow these traditions made by other classes. Cap and gown will be the graduating costume.

"We expect to have the Alumni Ball," says Grout, "and it will be one of the best ever given. The Alumni Association of Portland has promised to support us strongly in this, and we are looking for a large number of their delegates to be present."

King Lear, the play chosen for presentation, will be played on the Campus one afternoon during Commencement week. It will be presented by the Class in Dramatic Interpretation of the Public Speaking Department, under the patronage of the University of Oregon Drama League. Professor A. F. Reddie will be the director. This play was written about 1605. It is arranged in five acts, having fifteen scenes. Much dancing and music runs throughout the entire performance. The fool affords diversion from the tragic experiences of King Lear. The orchestra is in charge of Miss Winifred Forbes and the dancing will be coached by Dr. Bertha Stuart. Miss Upleger will take care of the decorations and Mrs. Minnie Washburne will look after the finances.

INTER-CLASS DRILL TEAMS WILL CONTEST FOR TROPHY

Combination Track Meet and Demonstration to Be Held April 9.

"There will be no regular girls' indoor meet this year," said Miss Harriet Thompson, assistant in the Women's gymnasium, yesterday. "Instead, we are planning a combination track meet and demonstration April 9. About 210 girls will take part.

"Because we have no place to practice, there will be no races scheduled. The apparatus work and drills will be competitive. Freshmen and Sophomores will be pitted against each other for the possession of the Hayward cup." The trophy is now held by the Sophomores.

Another feature will be the dancing. Both of the underclasses will give two dances, the winner to receive a prize. Dr. Stuart will offer a cup to the best individual dancer.

SENIOR PLAY WILL BE SELECTED IMMEDIATELY

"Fifty Miles From Boston" May Be Chosen by Committee, Says Stannard

"I wish we could get some originality into our Senior plays," said Delbert Stannard, who has been chosen to manage the production to be staged by the class of 1914 during Junior Week-End, May 8 and 9.

"There is surely enough talent in the Senior class to compose a burlesque such as would give the local color that is absent in plays written by outsiders. Three years ago, Dean Collins wrote a comedy called 'Out of College.' It was most appropriate for a class play, but no one could be found to compose music to any of the parts. I don't see why some two or three of our number could not get together and write an appropriate college musical comedy."

The Senior Class Play committee has written East for copies of burlesques, from which one will be chosen. The present indications are that "Fifty Miles from Boston" will be selected, if satisfactory arrangements can be made with the owners.

The Senior committee, consisting of Margaret Rankin, Charles Reynolds, Willard Shaver, Delbert Stannard and Rose Basler, will select the Howard; Business Manager, Ben Dorris; Assistants, Walter Dimm and Henry Trowbridge; Circulation Manager, Sam Michael.

PAPER TOWELS URGED

Present "Drying" Methods Prohibited by Oregon Law.

"A little agitation on the part of the students," said Prof. John Boward today, "would place roller paper towels, at present installed in only two of the university buildings, the library and Villard, in all the places where the family towel hangs at present.

"There is a law in Oregon, as well as in other states, that compels all places where people congregate to furnish individual towels, and the University of Oregon is complying with this law in only two instances. The University of California is equipped with sanitary towels in all of its buildings, and there is no reason why the University of Oregon should be behind in a matter of this kind. All it would require to put the thing through would be a little work on the part of the students."

WHITMAN HEADS THE DORM

Senior Elected President of the Association.

The exeunt of twenty men from the Dormitory to organize the Iota Chi fraternity, among which were nearly all the officers of the Dormitory, has resulted in a speedy reorganization of that body. Laurence Whitman, a senior in the University, was elected president for the remainder of the semester. Nominations were put up for house manager and other officers. These will be voted on at the next regular meeting of the Dorm Club.

MAJORITY OF GRADS TEACH

1913 CLASS REPORT IN FAVOR OF PEDAGOGY AS PROFESSION

11 DOING GRADUATE WORK

Occupations Varied; Range From Furniture Dealers to Tax Collectors. But one Woman Reports Marriage.

Teaching is the most popular vocation of the Class of 1913, according to a census recently taken by Registrar Tiffany.

A few weeks ago the registrar sent out a postcard to all members of last year's class, with the request that they answer the questions listed on a return postal attached. Of the 120 members of the class answers were received from 85.

The occupations given in the answers were varied. Thirty-six of the 85 that answered stated that they were engaged in teaching. They are scattered all over the state, although most of them are located in Willamette valley cities. Several are principals and heads of departments of high schools, while one has attained the position of superintendent of schools in a North Dakota city. Almost all of the three dozen are teaching in high schools, due to the fact that the life certificates issued by the university on graduation apply only to high school teaching.

Eleven of last year's grads are doing graduate work in other institutions located in various parts of the United States. One is attending the Oregon Agricultural College, another is pursuing the study of art in New York city, while still another is working for a master's degree in the Iowa State University. The majority of the graduate students are studying law, although a considerable number are preparing for medicine.

Banking, journalism and farming prove equally popular with three replies accredited to each. Of those in the journalistic field, two are city editors, while the third is a reporter. Two of the three are employed on Lane county papers. All of the bankers are located in Southern Oregon.

The other answers received include occupations ranging from a furniture dealer in Eugene to a tax collector in Portland. One is in the lumbering business, another is a freight clerk, while a third is an architectural draughtsman.

One of the class states that his occupation is "seeking employment," while 14 fail to state their occupation at all.

Out of the women that replied, but one stated that she was married. No statistics are available as to how many of the men are bachelors.

Investigation has followed the charge that fraternities are existing sub-rosa at Oberlin, where Greek societies are taboo. It is claimed that such organizations have failed to disband when ordered to do so by college authorities, and that they still initiate new men.

The Student Council plan is in successful operation at Kansas University, according to recent reports.

Princeton football players have been forbidden to write, or have their names signed to sporting articles in metropolitan newspapers. The practice has been branded as bordering too closely on the professional.
