COMMITTEE MAY CHANGE SYSTEM

THE PRESENT METHOD OF CHOOSING SUBJECTS IN NEED OF REFORM.

RECORDS TO GOVERN ACTION

Prof. Stafford Offers Suggestion as to Procedure. Committee Undecided as to Compulsory Subjects.

"The four-year courses of the students of the last four classes that have been graduated were, on the whole, broad and judiciously selected," said Dr. W. P. Boynton, chairman of the committee that has been deliberating on a probable change in the method of the student's electing of courses.

The committee has compiled a chart of statistics giving the number of hours during the four years taken by every student that has been graduated during the last four years.

On this chart the subject hours are grouped under three heads or departments—Modern Languages, the Humanities (Social Science, Literature, History, Economics, etc.), and the Sciences. The well-chosen course, says Dr. Boynton, should contain subjects from all three of these departments.

The study of this chart reveals the fact that the large percentage of students have selected their subjects so as to have them distributed throughout the three departments, though a few have selected narrow courses, confining their studies often to one department.

"Our idea is," explained Boynton, "that, as David Starr Jordan says, 'a student should know something about a lot of things and a lot about some thing.'"

The members of the committee are still undecided as to whether they will favor the group system of electing studies, making compulsory certain subjects that are related to the major subject or whether they will vote to retain the present system that gives the student freedom in his electing.

They are studying, however, the results of the past records of students in the University in an effort to reach a conclusion concerning the possible need of a change.

Prof. Stafford believes that a vocational system should be included in any new plan adopted.

"Studies might well be arranged in courses so as to be suggestive to the student in regard to a vocation. Students who are, upon coming to college, undecided as to a vocation, would then have assistance in making their decision. Such a system would be possible under the present or any plan of regulating elective courses. The number of cases which might be covered would be infinite."

Sophomore class hour committee meeting, Dr. Straub's room, Villard, Wednesday afternoon at 4. Final arrangements for class hour. Desired that all committee members be present.

A meeting of the Junior class will be held immediately after assembly tomorrow morning in Prof. F. S. Dunn's room, Deady Hall. Important and all members of the class are urged to be present.

DR. TAYLOR TO LECTURE

"Injuries to Eye, Ear and Nervous System" For First Aid Class.

"Injuries to the Eye, Ear and Nervous System" will be the subject of the third lecture in the First Aid series. It will be given by Dr. James B. Taylor in Deady Hall tomorrow night.

"More extensive advertising than before will be done to acquaint the students with this series, and urge their attendance," said Charles Koyl, yesterday.

"The attendance at the series is not what it should be for so practical a course. Information and advice is given, which will prove of great benefit at some time when least expected."

The Freshman class will hold a meeting immediately after assembly Wednesday morning in Villard Hall. Dean John Straub has an important announcement to make and at this time the picture of the class for the Oregon will be taken.

2 TENNIS TOURNAMENTS PLANNED FOR NEXT WEEK

All Entries Must Be Handed in Before Saturday Morning.

Drawings for two tennis tournaments will be held Saturday morning, and all persons that wield the racket are requested to sign up before that time.

The Seth Laraway Company has offered a cup, to be known as the Laraway cup, to the winner of the Freshman tournament. Those wishing to enter will find the card posted at the south end of the cement court. The other tournament will be a handicap, to which all students are eligible.

After the tournaments, which will be held next week, six men will be chosen for the squad. Others may be added later, when they show improvement.

Oregon will see this year the six conference teams of the Northwest in action for the first time. Washington, champions for the past two years, Idaho, Whitman, W. S. C. O., A. C. and Oregon will meet on the local court, May 23 and 24.

"U." MEDICS GIVEN CAMPUS

850 beds in close proximity to the State Medical College.

Quarters Needed Badly.

Mr. Farrell, it is said, has a sympathetic interest in medical education. While he realizes that it is more the province of the large educational foundations and private individuals than of public service corporations to support educational institutions, in this instance the railroad company happened to own land that is an attractive college site and seriously considered the request that it be donated, when urged by Dr. Mackenzie.

The medical department, which is rapidly becoming an important unit of the State University, is located at present in an old wooden structure on Twenty-third street, opposite the Good Samaritan Hospital.

It has occupied these quarters for 22 years, and is badly cramped for room.

President Judson of the University of Chicago is soon to leave for the Orient. He made his last appearance before the Seniors, Saturday, when he attended a luncheon given in his honor.
