

THORNE AND O'DONNELL QUIT

FRICITION IN DEPARTMENTS LEADS TO LOSS OF PROFESSORS

THEY MAY RETURN TO DUTY

Buck and George Fly off the Handle and Return Depends Upon Attitude of Students.

Apparently without announcing their decision, two professors of the University suddenly severed their connections with the institution the latter part of last week. No explanations have been officially given out by the University authorities. It appears that there was some friction in both the German and Mathematics departments and the action of Prof. O'Donnell and Prof. Kempthorne was the direct outgrowth of this. Prof. O'Donnell said the action was necessary for his own peace of mind as well as the ultimate good of the University.

As we go to press we are glad to state that the two scions of knowledge will again be at their posts of duty on Monday, if the students have returned from their sojourns to the home nests. After rustivating for a week on the headwaters of the Willamette, both men feel that they resume work without neglecting the call of the wild.

Otto's is the students' headquarters for Candles, Ice Creams and Lunches.

Princeton will erect a $300,000 stadium that will seat 41,000 persons. It will be completed in time for the Yale game next fall.

A fractured arm was the only injury received at the freshman-sophomore rush at Cornell last Saturday. The fact that the field was a quagmire saved bruises, but not clothes.

Two hundred couples danced on the main floor of the Minnesota armory ignorant of the fact that firemen were fighting a stubborn blaze in the basement which for a time threatened to destroy the building.

mate, has many of the same qualities and at the same time is not susceptible to injuries of the head, due to his enormous growth of cranial vegetation.

The selection of the linemen is much more difficult on account of the dearth of material.

At the end positions Pattee and Leggett should put up a strong plea against any team. Both are natural athletes and with a few centuries of seasoning should be world-beaters.

Bingham and Henry Fowler are a wonderful pair of tackles and easily have seats reserved in the tackle section. Both are aggressive and their powerful physiques make them invaluable.

The writer is puzzled over the selection of suitable guards. Cleve Simpkins is sure of his position. He is liable to break up a game at any moment with a flowery oration. Oberteuffer would probably fall upon the other guard position and hold his place well.

At center again we find a wealth of material. Ray Williams, Hermes Wrightson, Tatsigama, and Sommers are all playing a wonderful game. Williams has an advantage over his competitors on account of less weight to carry on the top of his head. He is also a careful trainer and several years of rest have caused him to be a going demon.

This team, the writer thinks, is so evenly balanced and composed entirely of such experienced men that the captaincy would be hard to place and for that reason he suggests that the athletes meet and choose their own leader. If there are any objections to the above personnel, please report them to the coach and he will make changes as he sees fit.

Scene in Oliver Morosco's tremendously successful comedy

"PEG O' MY HEART"

Which will be at the Eugene Theatre on Tuesday, April 21, 1914.

Fresh from Eastern triumphs where it played the large cities to absolutely the capacity of the theatres, Oliver Morosco's production of "Peg O' My Heart," the comedy of youth, laughter and love will play at the Eugene Theatre on Tuesday, April 21.

"Peg," the winsome little Irish girl, who, in real life is Peggy O'Neil, is a character that has strongly gripped the heart of the theatre-going public. Miss O'Neil is unusually well supplied with the natural traits that makes this part a reality; for her own life draws a close parallel to the story of the play. Mr. Morosco, in selecting this young actress for such an important role, had in mind the "type" rather than the artistic reputation of the candidate for the title role. Miss O'Neil had played in the "Top O' the Morn'g," where she made a decided impression. In the comparison of the parts the versatility of this youthful star is readily seen; in that production her part was of the rough soubrette style.

J. Hartley Manners is the author of the play, and a superior cast of Irish and English players, including Martin Sabine, Maggie Holloway Floher, Roland Hogue, Jane Meredith, Fraser Coulter, A. T. Hendon, Olin Field and Joseph Yanner interpret the several important roles.

EVELYN NESBIT THAW IN "MARIETTE"

A Musical, Dancing Divertissement at Eugene Theatre, Wednesday April 2.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the most talked-of woman in the world, will give an engagement of one night at the Eugene Theatre on Wednesday, April 22, in a French musical divertissement, "Mariette," by Maurice Volny, from a successful engagement at the Alhambra Theatre, London. Mrs. Thaw is supported by a big company.

Mrs. Thaw has but recently returned to the stage. For six years after the unfortunate affair with which her name was connected, she remained in seclusion perfecting herself in her chosen profession, the stage. It was not until this spring, when she thought that all notoriety connected with her name had died down, that she decided to appear. She selected the London Hippodrome as the theatre for her first appearance, for fear that if she returned to the stage in New York she would be accused of making capital out of the publicity given the actions of her husband.

It was not until Mrs. Thaw's artistic success in London was assured that she accepted an engagement to appear in America. On her appearance in New York she was judged entirely on her artistic merits and was enthusiastically praised. In appearing outside of New York Mrs. Thaw has carefully avoided any publicity which bordered upon the sensational.

Mrs. Thaw's dancing partner, Jack Clifford, will be seen in this production under the direction of Emil Agoust, of the Alhambra Theatre, London.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO CONSUMERS OF ICE.

We wish to announce to the general public that the Eugene Ice Factory is located at 56 Ninth Avenue, and not at the Kappa Alpha Theta house. So many patrons lately have called up the Theta house and asked for ice that we think this announcement necessary.

VARSITY BALL TEAM

Kerry and Llewellyn did the buffer stunt and from telegraphic dispatches Oregon's Freshman catcher stood the gaff admirably. But one error was chalked up against the Lemon-Yellow, while Washington spilled the beans five times.

The Varsity play a double header today. Lyle Bigbee is scheduled to pitch the morning game, and either Welch, Bryant or Fleming will start the vesper session. Motschenbacher may go behind the bat for one of the battles today.

The Denny Field diamond is hard and dry, and the fielders are finding no necessity of fielding in a sitting posture.

The Chicago alumnae of Wellesley College have subscribed $2500 to the rebuilding fund.

Thirty-five men have responded to the call of the Indiana football director for indoor football practice. The candidates will be taught the science of the different plays by diagrams on a blackboard.

"Nonsense, Gertrude," returned the mistress of the house, "you mean kittens—cats don't have chickens."

"Was them chickens or kittens the master brought home last night?"

"Chickens, of course."

"Well ma'am them's what the cat's had."

Boston Transcript, April 4.—Yale academic undergraduates have voted down the proposed honor system in examinations. A three-fourths vote of the total enrollment in the department — 1397—was necessary, and the vote stood 587 for and 355 against. The honor system exists in the Sheffield Scientific school.
