Many alumni have favored strongly a separate publication in the interests of graduates and former students of the University of Oregon. Whatever the merits of the proposition, the condition of Association finances is such that no such venture can well be undertaken at present.

Through arrangement with the editor and manager of the Oregon Emerald, confirmed by the annual meeting of the Alumni last June, one page each week in this paper is to be at the disposal of the Alumni. Without cost aside from annual dues, we shall thus be able to enjoy some of the advantages of an alumni organ and at the same time keep in touch with the life of the campus through the student paper. These columns are open to all news that concerns any graduate or former student of the University. The purpose of the alumni section will be served if it shall promote the feeling of good fellowship among us as alumni, strengthen us in our loyalty to Alma Mater, and unite us more strongly in striving for what shall seem the best interests of Old Oregon.

Miss Bessie Kidder, '08, was married last spring to Mr. E. H. McDaniels, and is now at home in Medford. The wedding took place at the Kidder home, with a reception at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. W. S. Hamilton. Mr. McDaniels is in the forest service.

Miss Ruth Gibson, '13, is now Mrs. Wayde Bagnall, at home at the Nortonia Hotel, Portland.

Miss Victoria Mitchell, '06, was married in June to Mr. A. J. Crow. Mr. and Mrs. Crow have a ranch near Merlin, Oregon.

J. Dean Collins, '10, and his bride, who was Miss Julia Mosher, of Dallas, are now at the home of friends in Portland, where Mr. Collins is on the staff of the Portland Oregonian.

Friends of Miss Hazel Bradley, '12, must now address her as Mrs. Hand, Weiser, Idaho.

Miss Susan Elizabeth Hayes, '03, became Mrs. Virgil Cooper, September 9. The wedding took place at Baker. After October 1, Mr. and Mrs. Cooper will be at home at 500 East 42nd St. North, Portland.

Roseburg, Oregon.—(Special to the Alumni Section.)—Dr. Geo. E. Houck, of this city, who is at the head of the surgical and hospital corps of the State of Oregon military forces, is a graduate of the Medical Department of the University.

Dexter Rice county judge of Douglas county, and a prominent lawyer, is a graduate of the Law Department of the University.

Other prominent men here who have attended the University and are now in the prime of life, are Albert Abraham, a Roseburg attorney, W. W. Cardwell, another Roseburg attorney, and O. P. Coshov, still another attorney. An interesting tradition of Cardwell is that he is one of the characters in Rex Beach's Alaska novel, "The Spoilers," and that Beach chose him for his part, while Cardwell lived in Alaska.

RECENT MARRIAGES AMONG ALUMNI MANY

Many weddings of interest to alumni have been noted in society columns of papers throughout the state during the past few months.

Miss Alice Erna Stoddard, '11, became the wife of George H. Benschadler on June 11. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, 16 East 16th St., Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Benschadler live at Canby, Oregon.

W. Wilshire Bristow, '10, was married on August 22, in Astoria, to Miss Nellie S. Salvon. They will be at home in Eugene after October 1st.

Cecil Kenyan Lyans, '09, was married June 10, to Miss Laura Belle McDowell, at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania.

Miss Lilla Irvin, '08, recently married John R. Leach, a Portland druggist, whose home is at 5133 68th St. Mr. and Mrs. Leach left last week for an extended visit East. They will be gone about two months and will visit Niagara, Quebec, Washington, Boston, New Orleans, Mammoth Cave and the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

Byron Goodall, formerly a student at the University, was married on June 10th to Miss Frances Mary Glanz, at Hammond, Oregon. Mr. and Mrs. Goodall visited Eugene the first of September. They are living at Fort Canby, Washington, where Mr. Goodall is in the Government service.

Curtis A. Gardner, '08, and Miss Hattie E. Hyde, '11, were married on June 13, at the M. E. Church of Eugene, the Rev. H. S. Wilkinson performing the ceremony. Miss Anne McMicken, '13, was maid of honor. Among the bridesmaids and ushers were Miss Marion Stowe, Miss Ellice Shearer, '14, and Francis Day Curtis, '11.

Cole M. Stanton, '01, who teaches Greek and Latin in a private school at Pomfret Center, Connecticut, paid the University a brief visit on the opening day of the semester. This was the first time that Mr. Stanton had visited the campus since he left it thirteen years ago as a graduate. He comes West every two years to visit his mother at Roseburg.

Laurie Shannon VanValzah, '10, is now an interne in the Southern Pacific Hospital at San Francisco. Appointments to internships in these hospitals are awarded only to young doctors who have made exceptionally good records as students. VanValzah was graduated last June with honors from the Medical School of Johns Hopkins.

Charles W. Converse, '02, formerly secretary-treasurer of the alumni, is now a graduate student at the University of California. Until the abolition of the Engineering Department at the University, Mr. Converse was assistant professor of Electrical Engineering.

George O. Goodall, '02, is the author of several successful motion picture plays.

Ralph D. Moores, '12, has been elected secretary of the promotion department of the Salem Commercial Club. Mr. Moores, who was formerly editor of the Emerald, is also secretary of the social department of the Salem club.

Mark Paulson, '13, who has come to be one of the leading educators in "An active association is a potent factor in making a strong institution."—Mrs. Ida Dunn Pruett, '82.

Best wishes for Old Oregon.—Eva S. Rice, '80.

"I like the idea of home-coming day tremendously."—Wm. Rueter, '11.

"I sincerely hope everyone pays, so that our alumni will be prosperous."—Fred Anunsen, '14.

Alumni subscribers who fail to get any copies of The Emerald will confer a favor by notifying the manager. We are anxious that no one miss any paper.

GRADS WILL RETURN FOR HOME COMING DAY

All alumni who can find time to visit Eugene on October 10 will receive a royal welcome at the hands of the student body. "Homecoming Day" is the name applied to the occasion by the students, who feel that they should have the alumni present in considerable numbers at some time during the regular college year.

"Many alumni come to Eugene every commencement time," says Tom Boylen, '15, president of the student body, "but they see very few evidences of regular college work. Most of the students, except the Seniors, have gone home. We hope to popularize the idea of having one day each fall, after college is well started, upon which the alumni will be made royally welcome by the students and faculty. I am sending out letters to all alumni in the Willamette Valley outside of Eugene, urging them to make the trip if their time will permit."

Visiting alumni will be shown the improvements on the campus and the new buildings. Special interest will attach to the changed interior of Deady Hall. They will be able to see what the new departments of Commerce, Architecture and Law are undertaking.

Instead of the alumni football game, heretofore an annual event, the game against Whitman, a contest which may figure heavily in deciding the Northwest championship, will take place on Kincaid Field, and visiting alumni will be guests of honor. The alumni will also be spectators of the annual underclass mix, which has been postponed for their benefit. In the evening, an informal party will afford a chance to meet students and faculty.
