

OREGANA CAMPAIGN TO BEGIN OCTOBER 15

Subscription Lists Will Be Circulated
Next Month; Holt to Go to Portland

With Maurice H. Hyde, Editor-in-Chief, and William P. Holt as Business Manager, acting as the officials in charge, the 1916 Oregana is assured to be very well handled, both financially and editorially.

As has been stated in a previous issue of the Emerald, the feature department, under Lamar Toozee, will be enlarged and perfected to a great extent. This section of the annual is one of the few in which originality can be shown. The other divisions are so well prescribed by previous arrangement that an attempt to change them would probably be unsuccessful.

On the 15th of October the subscription campaign will begin. The most energetic workers from the classes will be selected to canvass the student body in the interests of the book. Although the number of copies sold among the students last year barely exceeded 400, an attempt will be made this year to increase the number to 500 or 600. In addition to these, one copy will be sent to every high school in the state as a gift of the Junior class and as an advertisement of the University. The price of the Oregana up to January 1 will be $2.50. A cash payment of $1.50 will be required and the remainder paid upon the receipt of the book. After January 1 the price will be $3.00. Any solicitor selling fifty or more books will receive one free.

Mr. Holt will go to Portland Saturday, October 3rd, to select the paper and engraver, and to solicit advertising. In speaking of the annual, Mr. Holt says: "In my trip to Portland Saturday I intend to get the bids of the various engraving houses and to select the style of paper. On account of the war in Europe, the United States paper firms have been compelled to manufacture grades of paper which heretofore have been imported, thus raising the price of both the home and imported product. I will attempt to get the best paper for the money and to regulate the size of the book accordingly. In regard to the expenses of the book, I think the 1916 Oregana will cost very nearly $3,500.00. If we find, however, that this is more than the management can raise, the book will be cut down proportionately, for we wish by all means to make it a paying proposition. I am sure our advertisers will respond readily as in previous years, and if the students give the same support, we will be sure of turning out a splendid annual. I understand that the staff will make every effort to have the book published at least a week before Junior Week-End, in order to give the preppers an opportunity to see it also."

The staff is as follows: Editor, Maurice H. Hyde; Associate Editors, Evelyn Harding, Lamar Toozee; Faculty and Administration, Charlie Fenton; Classes, Wallace Eakin; Forensics, Cloyd Dawson; Organization, Rita Fraley; Dramatics, Lucile Watson; Spstor, Fred Dunbar, Harry Crain; Fraternities, Don Onthank; Sororities, Bernice Ely; Jokes, Cleveland Simpkins; Features, Lamar Toozee; Poetry, Chester Fee; Music, Eva Brock; Business Manager, William P. Holt; Circulation, Leslie Toozee; Assistant Manager, Roy Stephens.

The housing of the School of Journalism at the University of Montana has been a problem. First the department was tucked away in a tent; next it was housed in an old bicycle shed. A new home is now being erected—a real newspaper workshop.

STANFORD GRADUATE ACCUSED OF TREASON

The action of C. K. Fields, Stanford '95, in publishing an article on the fortifications of the Panama Canal, in Sunset Magazine, was held to be treason by United States Commissioner Krull in San Francisco Saturday. He states that the violation of the statute was without malicious intent, however, and released Field on his own recognizance. The case will be held over in the federal courts to serve as a precedent for future actions.

FIRST STUDENT BODY MEETING HELD SEPT. 30

Student and Faculty Urge
Participation in College
Activities

Speeches occupied the greater part of the time consumed by the first Student Body meeting and rally of the year, in Villard Hall yesterday morning. Representative students and faculty members of the University spoke on subjects ranging from football to debate, urging student support of all their respective activities and emphasizing the importance of "doing something for Oregon."

Ernest Vosper, acting yell leader, appealed to the students to learn the Oregon yells and to lend their active support in cheering.

"It is yet too early for me to make any definite predictions regarding the track prospects for the coming season," said Bill Hayward, "but the present outlook is very promising. We are depending on the Freshman class for a good representation on the team."

Graduate Manager Albert R. Tiffany announced that the Student Body debt, carried over from past years, and amounting to $2,446.00, has been settled this year, and that, in order to prevent an unfavorable balance at the end of the year, the strictest economy will have to be practiced.

Fred Hardesty succeeded Mr. Tiffany, and solicited the active support of the Student Body in oratory and debate.

Editor Hendricks, of the Emerald said that the college tri-weekly offers splendid opportunities for students interested in Journalism, and that there is more room on the staff for cub reporters.

Coach Bezdek told the students that the prospects for a successful football season are bright and he urged the undivided support of the Student Body as an asset in the development of a championship aggregation.

Representing the women of the University, Lyle Steiwer, President of the Women's League, spoke of the part that the co-ed contingent might also take in the University activities.

Bert Jerard advanced the interests of the Men's Glee Club.

President Campbell, in a short talk, said, "The University is entering upon one of the most successful years in her history. There is a much larger Student Body, new courses are offered, and the general spirit is in the direction of a constructive development."

Allen Eaton gave a few sidelights on the history of the University.

EXPOSITION PAPER FAILS TO MATERIALIZE

the lead in it. Colin V. Dymont visited the fair officials on his way East, and again on his way West, during the summer.

From the fair officials, the following was finally gleaned: An exhibit newspaper under the auspices of the departments of journalism would be given space, provided, first, that the official fair program be not printed; second, that no advertisement be printed; third, that the paper be distributed free; fourth, that it have no source of revenue except from the parent schools.

If it were possible to contrive that an exposition publication be issued without these restrictions, one of the official departments purposed issuing such publication itself. In that event, students in journalism would be permitted to do the work, but must be compensated and receive their expenses wholly from their schools.

An unfavorable report was made by Professor Dymont to the bureau of education, and yesterday the following response arrived:

"At about the time of your visit to San Francisco, I learned of the method in which the exposition authorities proposed to hedge about our project to publish a daily paper on the exposition grounds. I knew that you had been informed along the same lines, so dropped the matter. I quite agree with you that a paper would be an impossibility under the circumstances."

The news will dash the hopes of a number of Oregon students who had visions of getting an assignment to work on the fair daily.

ATHLETIC STOCK HAS BULLISH TENDENCY

tion who the lucky man will be. However, there is at least one basketball player with a "rep" in this neck of the woods and his name is Sharpe. Sharpe was the star forward of the Multnomah Club team last year; he is an accurate basket tosser and fast as lightning. Old men who are likely to make a strong bid for the team are Lyle Bigbee, Fee, Carson Bigbee, Vosper, Sims and Hampton.

Soccer is a comparatively new sport at Oregon. It was established last year. Under the tutelage of Colvin V. Dymont, Oregon's first soccer team made an excellent showing and with the same man at the helm, prospects for a more successful season this year are bright. Last year's squad is back without exception, and there are several stars on hand who were not out last year.

Next in order comes track, and here is the activity in which rival schools will have to hustle some to beat Hayward out of a Northwest championship. With men like Boylen, Sheehan, Lake, Westerfield and Hamstreet in the sprints; Loucks in the quarter; Nelson in the half; Payne, Huggins and Langley in the distances; Parsons in the broad jump; Stuller and Fee in the high jump; Fee in the pole vault; Cook in the shot; Heidenreich in the discus; Cook and Fee in the javelin; and Fee, Hamstreet and Muirhead in the hurdles; Oregon certainly has the makings of one of the best track teams in its history. Muirhead is the best interscholastic track man ever developed in the Northwest, and Hayward expects great things of him in the high jump, both hurdles, the broad jump and javelin. Wilson, of Washington, and Bond, of Eugene High, are two more Freshmen with enviable prep school track records.

There are eight of last year's championship baseball team in school, and with them as a nucleus, Coach Bezdek may be counted upon to put out a mighty strong team. Both of last year's moundmen are on hand. Welch is Bezdek's best bet. This little heaver lost but one game in three years of slab duty. Tuerck hurled excellent ball last year and is expected to be a wizard this season. As to the catching department, both Motschenbacher and Lewellen are absent and this station seems to be an unknown quantity, but the rest of the infield will be ably taken care of. Nelson, on first, Cornell at the keystone bag, Carson Bigbee cavorting in the short pasture, and Lyle Bigbee a strong possibility for third base, makes a formidable defense. Last year's outfielders who will report are Bryant and Buck Bigbee.

Last, but not least, is tennis. Last year Oregon and Washington were tied for the Northwest championship. Washington will be the favorite in this year's tournament, however. She will not lose a man of last year's team, while Oregon can depend upon only one man, Lewis Bond. Bond has been on the team for two years and will be this year's captain. There are, however, several men in school who are expected to show class. Church, Trowbridge, Ogle and others have had lots of tennis experience. Church is expected to make a very strong bid for the team.

TWO OREGON MEN ENTER UPON BUSINESS CAREERS

Harold Young, '14, and Marsh Goodwin, '15, manager of the Emerald last year, have opened an office in Eugene, to transact a general insurance business. Their address is 728 Willamette street.

The firm will act as district managers for the Continental Casualty Company, of Chicago, and as representatives of the Portland firm of McCargar, Bates & Lively, general insurance agents, to handle the Aetna Life Insurance Company, the Aetna Accident and Liability Company, the Hartford Steam Boiler, the Automobile Insurance Company, and the National Fire Insurance Company. They have the agency also for the New Haven Underwriters' Fire Insurance Company, of New Haven, Connecticut.

Mr. Young will devote all his time to the work, while Mr. Goodwin will continue for this year his law course in the University of Oregon.
