

UNIVERSITY EXHIBITS TAKE WELL AT FAIR

PROGRAM IS WITNESSED BY 50,000 VISITORS; RAIN DOES NOT INTERFERE

EXTENSION WORK FIGURES

Glee Club Gives Musical Program; Emerald Is Distributed Tuesday on Grounds

Complete success marked the University Day at the State Fair in Salem Thursday. Notwithstanding the rainy weather the program arranged for the day went off without a hitch, and from all indications was well received by the 50,000 visitors, representing nearly every locality in the state.

Exhibits, presenting various phases of the University, were taken to Salem at the beginning of the fair and shown during the entire five days. Among these were exhibits from the Department of Biology, Department of Economics, Department of Chemistry, and the University Y. M. C. A. According to Earl Kilpatrick, Field Secretary of the Extension Department, who had charge of the arrangements in Salem, the exhibits were visited by hundreds of people each day.

In addition to the exhibits, lectures were delivered each day except Thursday by various University professors. On Tuesday Dr. Clifton F. Hodges, of the Department of Biology, delivered a lecture on Birds that Eat the Bugs that Eat Our Crops. The Wednesday address was given by H. B. Miller, formerly United States Consul-General to Japan, and at present head of the Department of Commerce. Mr. Miller's subject was, "How the War Will Affect the Interests of the Northwest."

The feature of the Thursday program was the concert given Thursday evening by the University Glee Club. The program lasting an hour was given by the Varsity warblers. While in the Capital City, the club members were entertained by the Salem Commercial Club and former Oregon students.

Twenty-two hundred copies of the "Emerald" were distributed among the fair visitors Thursday. This paper was the regular Thursday edition. From all reports, it created a favorable impression.

FLOWERS BRIGHTEN TABLE WHERE GLADIATORS TRAIN

Theta's Gift of Huge Bouquet of Chrysanthemums Appreciated by Bezdek's Varsity String

The path of a football player, particularly if he be a member of Bezdek's hard working squad, is not generally strewn with flowers. However, the dinners at the training table at the Dormitory found an exception Wednesday evening.

Tired and sore from the night's practice, the champs-to-be wriggled out of their mud-soaked uniforms and into their ordinary clothes as quickly as possible, and made for Mrs. Prescott's establishment with all the speed numerous "Charley horses" would permit. Visions of good warm "eats" were in the mind of each hungry athlete, but no one was prepared for the surprise in store for them.

In the center of the table a huge bouquet of chrysanthemums radiated good cheer over the entire board. It bore a card bearing the compliments of Kappa Alpha Theta. The boys were warm in their thanks—which goes to show that a live football player appreciates such a remembrance just as much as a dead one would—and there will be none of the latter on Bezdek's payroll.

DITCH BECOMES CANAL

Rain God's Offerings Convert Campus Bagbear into a Trap for the Unwary

A ditch about five feet wide and twelve feet deep in places, running like a gigantic scar across the eastern end of the campus is the latest. This crime was committed in the name of repairs to the old system of heating. It resembles a baronial moat in appearance, and if old Jupe Pluvius gets busy with his sprinkling can the Dorm men intend to further this illusion by putting a few ducks on the surface and planting water lilies. This miniature Panama is spanned by sundry substitutes for bridges which no Caesar could describe. A spidery-looking structure, closely resembling a twelve-legged tent pole of a species now extinct, is used to gain access to McClure Hall. An enterprising "Frosh" has already dubbed it "The Bridge of Sighs."

In front of the Dorm is a collection of planks which make a sort of draw bridge. The planks being few and far between, there are many chances for the unwary to slip, slide, or whatever method they prefer, into the bottom of the trench. At the bottom those who have been there say there is a sticky, runny conglomeration of clay, glue, and Russian cement. One Frosh on returning home from a dance mistook the lake for a walk. Of course he had on his new dancing pumps. And yet some people say there's no such thing as luck.

VESPER SERVICE SUNDAY

President Campbell Will Speak and University Talent Will Furnish Music

Vesper services will be held in Villard Hall tomorrow from 4:30 to 5:30. President Campbell will speak on "The Individual and the Social Complex." Reverend H. W. Davis, of the Baptist church will read a scripture lesson and lead in prayer. There will be special music by the Vesper Choir, under the direction of Professor Lyman.

Ben Huntington, '08, candidate for Clerk of Douglas County, was in town on business the past ten days.

J. PLUVIUS AND INJURIES PLAY HAVOC IN BEZDEK CAMP

Conference May Open Without Preliminary Games—Secret Practice is Order of the Day—Training Table May Undergo a Shake-up—Seven Men Are Laid-up

Two things are absolutely certain in the football situation here. One is that there will be no preliminary games whatsoever before the regular schedule commences. The other is that there will not be any superabundance of optimism in Bezdek's camp. The later condition is occasioned by the rapidly increasing list of injured and the fact that Kincaid Park and J. Pluvius do not seem to be on very good terms. It looks like the rainy season has set in for fair.

Besides Crowell and Bigbee, who have been out for some time, Trainer Hayward has the following patients: Cornell, Callison, Cawley, Nelson, Teggart, Powrie, and Beckett.

All the injuries except those to Cornell and Nelson, who are suffering from bad knees, are minor; but even minor injuries are detrimental to the rapid development of team work. Cornell probably will not be able to get back into harness for a week. These circumstances put the team about a week behind time, and time is precious at this stage of the game.

Secret practice has been the order of things for the entire past week. Coaches and players have been working hard, very hard; but the material is green and the progress has not been what it should be. The personnel of the team is being changed nearly every night. The last machine, as seen in action Friday and Saturday, is: Risley, center; Cook, right guard; Philbin, right tackle; Powrie, right end; Snyder, left guard; Cawley, left tackle; Weist, left end; Sharpe, quarter; Malarkey, left half; Parsons, right half; Bryant, fullback.

This is merely a temporary lineup, however.

For the last few nights emphasis has been laid upon signals; but every man was told to appear in suit at 2:00 o'clock today. Practice will take form of a game between first and second teams. The public will not be admitted to this game.

There has been only one change in the training table so far; Risley was added Thursday night. Sharpe is booked for one of the choice berths in the very near future. Coach Bezdek says that he intends to make more changes very shortly. "Some of the men that are on the table are not doing us any good. They will be replaced by others who are more deserving."

UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA 'PREXY' VISITS

A. W. Hendrick Holds Conference With President Campbell and Journalism Professors

A. W. Hendrick, the newly installed president of the University of Nevada, at Reno, came to Eugene Wednesday morning for a conference with President P. L. Campbell and the Professors of the Journalism Department. Dr. Hendrick was formerly Dean of Whitman College, at Walla Walla.

At noon, President Hendrick and Professor C. V. Dymont left on the P. E. & E. for a brief visit to the Agricultural College at Corvallis. Dr. Hendrick and Mr. Dymont are both University of Toronto men. The former was a Senior when the latter was a freshman, and the two are bound together by a long-existing friendship.

President Hendrick says the European war has greatly slackened the operation of the Nevada mines, cutting off the market for metals and making it almost impossible to obtain the necessary cyanide. He predicts great growth for the state of Nevada, however, both through the extension of the mining industry and through the bringing of more land under ditch for cultivation. He says his policy as President of the State University will include the strengthening of the school of mines, and the broadening of courses on a basis of general culture.

You'll find that education's the only thing lying around loose in this world, and it's about the only thing that a fellow can have as much of as he is willing to haul away. Everything else is screwed down tight and the screwdriver lost.

Two new gymnasiums, one for men and the other for a woman's building, to cost approximately $210,000, will be started at Stanford this week. The new structures will be of faced brick, harmonizing with the general color scheme and architecture of the University buildings.

PRESIDENT IS HOST TO 38 SOPHOMORES

Participants in Alleged Violation of Anti-Hazing Rule Warned to Mend Their Ways

An even three dozen Sophomores, indicted for hazing, filled President Campbell's office yesterday afternoon, and were released after an admonishment by the President and Dean Straub, and after their promise to refrain from any future activities in the way of enforcing Freshman discipline.

The alleged hazing consisted in the marching of some 75 Frosh down town to purchase their green caps, a custom which has been followed among the fraternities for the past four years. The parade took place the morning of September 16, and was followed by a large number of upperclassmen and outside spectators, in addition to the Sophomore escort.

The President and Dean maintained that the parade, particularly in its more spectacular features, such as the "missing link," violated the faculty edict against hazing. They also said that several Eugene citizens had objected to the exhibition, one woman having declared her intention of refusing to allow her son to enter the University on its account.

The Sophomores disclaimed any intention to break the statutes, and said the parade was an annual custom and was a source of rare pleasure to the Freshmen.

Closing the meeting, President Campbell placed the 38 Sophomores on probation. He stated that any future violation of the anti-hazing rule by one of the company will automatically relieve him of the burden of preparing his college recitations.

In spite of the meeting, there was no absence of the usual attentions shown the pilgrims to the Freshman acquaintance party last night. A large crowd, composed of members of all three higher classes and many non-

FROSH BAIT DOESN'T TAKE; SOPHOMORES SMELL RAT

Rocks, Lemons and Ice Creamless Freezer Don't Appeal to "Un-Invited" Guests

"He who laughs last laughs best." This trite expression had another application at the Freshman acquaintance party last night with the Freshman class, the Sophomores, an ice cream freezer and two lemons as the principals.

This is the way it happened: The Freshmen, remembering last year's acquaintance party, when the ice cream was stolen by the Sophs, and solicitous lest there be a recurrence of the same incident this year, placed two lemons in an empty ice cream packer, put the packer in a freezer, and weighted the whole with rocks. The freezer was placed in the kitchen of the Gamma Phi house, where it might be conspicuous to the eyes of the second year men.

The Freshmen awaited developments. But no Sophomore came. The "ice cream" moveth not.

At the latest report, the Frosh were still waiting.

DANCE TO BE OCTOBER 10

Whitman Team and Alumni Will Be Entertained in Men's Gymnasium

College beaux and belles are on the qui vive over the first Student Body dance of the year, which will be held the evening of October 10th. It was originally scheduled for tonight, but it was postponed one week in order that it might furnish one of the attractions of Alumni Homecoming Day. The Whitman football team, as well as the alumni, will be guests of honor that evening.

Student Body President Tom Boylen announces that he expects the largest crowd that has ever attended an informal affair at the University, and guarantees that the floor, music and punch will all be favorable to a finished exhibition by the Varsity Pavilions.

U OF W PROPOSES TARIFF

Stanford and Oregon Have Yet to Submit Questions for Debate

"Tariff" has been submitted by the University of Washington as the question for the triangular debate between Stanford, Washington and Oregon Universities, to be held the second week in March.

Mr. Prescott, Debate Coach, said yesterday that the subject for this debate is under consideration, awaiting the question to be proposed by Stanford and U. of O. "Each University submits a topic for debate," said Mr. Prescott, "the final subject being decided by an affirmative vote of two of the three institutions. A second vote is taken upon the phrasing of the question. The University of Oregon will send a team to Stanford; Stanford will send one to Seattle; and Washington will send a team to Eugene."

"A debate council was created last spring," continued Mr. Prescott. "Its duties and powers toward the debate correspond to those of the Athletic Council toward athletics."

The high school debating league, composed of the eight districts of the state, will debate on one question this year. This will be "Government Ownership of Railways." Material may be secured either from the state library at Salem or from the library of the University.

STUDENT COUNCIL TO CHOOSE YELL LEADER

FOUR MEMBERS OF STUDENT AFFAIRS COMMITTEE CHOSEN BY PRESIDENT

FIFTH MEMBER TO BE CHOSEN

Tommy Boylen Will Call Meeting Wednesday to Fill Vacancies; No Appointments Yet

A special meeting of the Student Council will be held Wednesday, October 7, according to Tom Boylen, President of the Student Body.

The principal business to be transacted will be the election of a yell leader, the selection of this office having been transferred through an amendment to the constitution last year from the Executive Committee to the Student Council. It is not yet known who will be the candidates. Ernest Vosper is at present acting yell leader, and will preside over the rooting cohorts until a selection is made.

Boylen announces that he has appointed the following Seniors as student members of the Student Affairs committee: Clark Burgard, Earl Blackaby, Beatrice Lilly and Lois Parks.

The Student Affairs committee is composed of four undergraduates and five representatives of the faculty, being headed by President Campbell. The other faculty members are Dr. John Straub, Dr. William M. Smith, Miss Ruth Guppy, Dean of Women, and a fifth, not yet appointed, to succeed Professor Boward, who is enjoying a leave of absence.

The committee has entire charge of all social affairs of the University, and passes upon the petitions of the various organizations for dates on the social calendar. All four of President Boylen's appointees are scintillating social lights, and it is expected that they will hold their own in wresting the coveted dates from the faculty.

Boylen also says that the appointments of members of the Student Council to fill the vacancies caused by the absence of Evelyn Harding and Harry Crain, Junior representatives, and Graham McConnell, Senior member of the body, will be announced as well as a successor to Lyle Steiner, who was chosen as Senior representative last year, but who, since the election has been chosen President of the Women's Council, which also entitles her, ex-officio, to a seat in the Council. Boylen refuses to make any statement as to possible appointments, and says that they will probably not be known until the Student Council meets next Wednesday.

At the special meeting the plans for entertaining the alumni who will be at the University on Homecoming Day, October 10, will also be discussed. A regular meeting will be held October 14, the constitution providing that a meeting be called the second Wednesday of October.

Jerry Martin, '14, has entered the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, at Boston, Mass.

While here Martin was a member of the Glee Club and took a prominent part in University dramatics.

All of the students of the Ohio State University for the past eight years have participated in a scheme to equip their Alma Mater with a set of chimes to cost approximately $750.00.

WOMEN

A mass meeting of the Women's League will be held in McClure Hall, Tuesday, October 6, at 5:00 o'clock. This is the first meeting of the year.
