

W. H. DAVIS CONDUCTS SUNDAY'S VESPERS

President Campbell Gives Address on "The Individual and the Social Complex"

The first Vesper services of the year were held Sunday at 4:30 o'clock, in Villard Hall, under the auspices of the University Y. M. C. A. The services were conducted by Rev. W. H. Davis pastor of the First Baptist church.

President Campbell gave an address on "The Individual and the Social Complex." The problem discussed resolved itself into a consideration of how individualism and socialization might be reconciled.

A musical program was given by the Vesper Choir, under the direction of Professor Lyman.

MA PIAO, OF YUNAN, CHINA, VISITS UNIVERSITY

Ma Piao, of Yunan, China, who is doing research work under the direction of the Chinese Imperial Government, was a University visitor yesterday. He was shown around the campus and buildings by Mr. Tiffany.

Mr. Piao is also employed in the interests of the Yunan Railway Bureau, investigating railroad conditions and methods in this country. He is handicapped in this work by his inability to speak English readily.

He is one of the men sent out by the Chinese government to investigate conditions in this country.

STUDENT DISAPPEARS; IS LOCATED MONDAY

Lauren T. Woody, from Palouse, Washington, disappeared on September 28, and was not located until Monday, when his landlady received a card from him, saying that he was unexpectedly called away, and requesting her to take of his belongings, which he had left in his room.

Woody registered at the University on September 22, and attended classes up to the 28th, when he no longer appeared. His absence was noted at the Registrar's office, and his landlady, too, was without information as to his whereabouts, for she called up the Registrar and asked what she should do with Woody's trunk, saying that he had not been in his room since the 28th.

Mr. Tiffany could ascertain nothing concerning the student, and his anxiety was not relieved until Monday.

TWO EXTENSION INSTRUCTORS ORGANIZE CLASSES THIS WEEK

Two University instructors will hold classes this week in the Portland Extension Division, a branch of the University Extension Bureau.

Dr. F. G. G. Schmidt leaves Friday noon to organize his class in advanced German. He will also attend a meeting of the German Literary Society the same evening.

Mrs. M. H. Parsons also leaves Friday noon to reorganize her class in rhetoric.

Both classes meet in the Central Library.

Lyman G. Rice and Irwin Brooks, both of the class of 1914, have entered the banking business in Umatilla county. Rice has a position in the First National Bank of Pendleton, of which his father is the head, and Brooks has a similar position in the First National Bank of Athena. Brooks, who was captain of the Oregon tennis team and a member of the basketball team, is the athletic mentor of Athena.

Professor Arle C. Hampton, ex-'09, who has been principal of the Pendleton high school for the past seven years, spent the summer in Chicago, where he took work in the educational department of Chicago University.

QUESTION BEING CHOSEN MEMBERSHIP GROWS

Debating League Balloting to Decide Question for Annual Tri-State Debate

The Inter-Coast Debating League is now voting on the question to be used for the debates this winter, and the returns are expected at the University some time this week. The question submitted by Stanford is on the Federal ownership of inter-state public utilities; Washington has submitted the tariff question; Oregon, the government ownership of railroads.

As soon as the returns are in, and the decisions known, the results will be published, and all men interested in debating can start preparation by reading up on the selected subject.

UNIVERSITY OFFERS HELP TO STATE TEACHERS

All teachers in each county have been offered assistance from the University of Oregon in covering the required work from the new state reading list. The County Superintendent of Schools, under Section 24 of the school laws of Oregon for 1913, may not register any teacher until he is satisfied that at least one of the state reading list books has been covered. The University suggests that because of pressure of other work, County Superintendents may find supervision of this sort difficult. It has therefore prepared study helps, and is ready to assist the superintendent and the teachers in any of several ways, as indicated in the following letter from the secretary of the Extension Division:

"1. If you care to utilize the facilities of the Extension Division of the University, we will communicate, with your co-operation, with every one of your teachers, advising her of the legal necessity of doing the work, urging her to make selection of the book, and telling her we will send her questions and suggestions and aid her to get the most good possible from the book. When she has completed the reading we will give her a card certifying the fact, which card she shall file with you when she registers her certificate, as evidence that the work has been done.

"2. If you wish yourself to make the selection of book from the list, we shall advise the teachers of the choice and take the matter up in the same way.

"3. If you handle the work through reading circles, we shall be glad to furnish to your office or to the teachers direct, if you request, copies of the study helps on the books which are to be studied. We are also willing, insofar as we can, to send men from our departments to address those reading circle groups. The amount of such assistance, however, is strictly limited by the number of men available and the amount of funds on hand.

"4. If you wish to employ both methods suggested above and group some of your teachers into reading circles under yourself or supervisors, with or without our aid, and require the others who are too remote to attend the circle meetings to do their reading with us, we shall be glad to undertake the work on that basis.

"As the University of Oregon is part of the public school system, there will be no expense to any of the teachers, except, of course, that each teacher will have either to buy or to borrow a copy of the book which she reads."

Instead of the readings which Professor Reddie is accustomed to give during the fall semester of each year, they will be supplanted by numerous one-act sketches to be given by members from his class in Dramatic Interpretation. The dates of these performances will be announced later.

Have the Emerald sent home.
