KEEP IT UP

No longer do we fear for Oregon spirit. If there ever were any grounds to be apprehensive over the state of its health, such grounds have been removed during the past few days. The good old genuine article, the kind the family has used for the past 40 years, is with us again, hardier and livelier than ever.

For which credit is due partly to a "corking good" (to use a Bezdekian phrase) football team, partly to the bunch of rooters who put the fight into the team, and partly to the cheer leaders who put the "pep" into the rooters.

Sunday noon, in spite of Sunday School and other distractions, a sizeable crowd met the train on which Oregon's victorious crowd was slated to return. And, after it had been disappointed the first time, the same crowd showed its spirit by turning out, with reinforcements, to meet the night train.

Another incident which most of us do not know about, and which perhaps we might overlook, was the sending of a couple of telegrams of encouragement to the squad by two women's fraternities. The telegrams reached the boys at Moscow just before they went on the field. Does a thing like that help? Ask any man on the team.

Now let's keep that old spirit marching on. In years no football season has started more propitiously for Oregon than this. Our team has put three conference rivals out of the running. It still has its critical battles before it. As in the past, Washington and O. A. C. loom up as our strongest opponents.

It will be three weeks until our next conference game with Washington. The only contest of any kind scheduled meanwhile is that with Willamette Saturday. What we must avoid is the lapse of enthusiasm which might well occur at this time. Neither the team nor the rooters can afford to loaf on the job.

The coaches will take care of the team's end of it. The cheer leaders have not the same sovereignty, and it is up to us rooters to do our part. This means that we must answer every call of the noise kings, whether it is for afternoon yell practice, a rally, or any like occasion; and above all, each of us must believe and spread the belief that we are going to beat Washington and O. A. C.

For the next month it is the duty of every Oregon rooster, as well as every Oregon player, whenever he is not engaged in study or other lawful pursuit, to think and talk about these two games, and to plan to be in, above, or under one of the cars that carries Oregon's delegation to the O. A. C. game.

SPOTLIGHT SQUIBS

By Mandell Weiss

The task of dramatizing a novel will be part of the work which the class in Dramatic Interpretation will attempt this year. At a request from Professor Reddie, the members of the class were to suggest some book which they thought had possibilities of dramatization. The following were submitted: The Regent, Arnold Bennet; The History of Mr. Polly, H. G. Wells; The American Gentleman; The Iron Woman; and A Night Out. A committee headed by Beulah Stebno and consisting of Josephine Moorhead, Marjorie Cogswell, M. J. Jordan, Mandell Weiss and Professor Reddie, will decide which book should be the final choice. From present indications, The History of Mr. Polly seems to have a winning chance. Professor Howe has signified his intention of helping the work along.

A series of four one-act playlets will be an offering which the class in Dramatic Interpretation will produce at some future time. The playlets chosen are: The Goal, Nance Oldfield, The Twisting of the Rope, and The Forced Marriage. Rehearsals have already been started.

Arrangements for the Glee Club to appear in concert in Portland on "Turkey Day" at the National Theater are under way. Manager Tiffany reports that the concert is almost a certainty.

Rehearsals for Huckleberry Finn are progressing well, and it is the intention of Professor Reddie to present the performance in the early part of November. An error was stated in the last issue regarding the role of Huckleberry Finn. Professor Reddie will appear as Huck. Ralph Ash will appear as the "Royal Dolphin."

A green room, a luxury which a few theatres can boast of, will be a feature of the "Little Theater" in the new Administration Building. It is here that the thespians will meet in "parley to discuss their individual histrionic ability, and also what's what in the dramatic world.

A large handicap will be removed by the completion of the "Little Theater." Dramatic work will then be on a larger and more extensive scale than at the present. A great deal of the expense that is incurred in the renting of the down-town theater will be eliminated.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of the Emerald:

I desire to correct some misapprehension concerning the recent action of the Student Affairs Committee. The rules as affected by the recent action read as follows:

First.—The definition of an informal affair was changed to read as follows: "An informal affair is any simple entertainment (at dinner, theater, driving, boating, etc.) provided there be no formal invitations, no special ceremony in dress or for refreshments."

Second.—All formal and informal affairs must be referred to the Student Affairs Committee by petition. This regulation applies to individual students as well as organizations.

Third.—Any affair, formal or informal, for which permission is not secured, will be counted as a formal.

Fourth.—In exceptional cases, permission for informal affairs may be secured for the men by consulting with Dean Straub; by the women by consulting with Dean Guppy.

As the rules now stand, one formal affair is allowed each organization each semester. The number of informal affairs is not restricted by rule. You will notice, however, that it is necessary to petition for informal affairs as well as for formal affairs, and the committee reserves the right to refuse petitions for informal affairs when it deems it best for the welfare of the University.

There is one other matter not bearing on the above topic which I would like to mention. The University Administration is making a study of the cost of the text-books and supplies which the students are requested to purchase by their instructors. Blanks for this purpose have been sent to each student in the University. On account of the importance of this study, I bespeak the hearty co-operation of each student in turning in promptly his blank filled in, to the Administration office.

W. M. SMITH,

Secretary Student Affairs Committee.
