THAT ROOTERS' SPECIAL

The Associated Students yesterday adopted the only effective means of conserving and concentrating their forces against O. A. C. They voted to ride to the game in a body, and, after the claims of both roads had been fairly presented and considered, they selected one of them as the fittest, under the existing circumstances, to transport Oregon's delegation.

Now it is up to every one of us, as loyal Oregon rooters, to take that train, and that one only. It matters not what our personal preferences may be. This is a case in which the good of Oregon outweighs all other considerations.

Some of us disagreed with the majority as to which was the most advantageous road. If so, we have had our say and have been fairly beaten. It is up to us on this, as upon all questions, to bow to the will of the greater number.

Cheer Leader Vosper and his aides will organize their rooting campaign on the assumption that they now have the united Student Body back of them. It is absolutely necessary that every man stand by the decision of yesterday morning's meeting. Any man who refuses to take the rooters' train, if it is possible for him to do so, should be considered as much a traitor to Oregon as if he were to sit in the Aggie section and root for Stewart's team.

Another thing. Let us shed no tears of sympathy for the wronged and broken-hearted railroad company which will not be allowed to furnish the rooters' train. At present no one knows which it will be, because the students have chosen one road should the game be played in Portland, and another should it be in Corvallis.

In either case, the deal is entirely fair, for each line has had a hearing and each will do a fat business, wherever the game goes. The fact that the rooters are to use one train does not mean that the girls and co-eds and townspeople must patronize that road. In fact, outsiders are more likely to prefer some other train than that chartered by Vosper's crew.

Both railroad lines have shown the students courtesies and given our enterprises support. Incidentally, they have reaped a few shekels off of us. They will continue to divide the student trade, as in the past, and the road giving us the best treatment will continue to get the business.

At Indiana, the university alumni offer a cup to the Varsity football player who recovers the greatest number of fumbles during the season. The glory of the winner of such a trophy would be somewhat clouded by the implication that no other man had missed as many chances.

SPOTLIGHT SPURTS

By Mandell Weiss.

A department of Dramatic Art and Public Speaking, similar to the class in Dramatic Interpretation in this University, has been established at Drake College. Professor Evans well head the new department.

The class in Dramatic Interpretation attended in a body the performance of Milestones, given at the Eugene Theatre last Thursday. A number of the faculty members also made up the audience. One faculty member highly praised the production as being the best play that has visited Eugene for many moons.

The Professor's Love Story, the three-act English comedy, which was presented on the campus by members of the Class in Dramatic Interpretation last spring and later given in Southern Oregon by the class, has been chosen as the Senior play by the graduating class of Kansas University.

Janet Young, '14, who has not appeared on the cast of the Baker players for a period of four weeks, returns in the best bit of work to her credit as "Zaza," the niece of "Magie," in the play called "Maggie Pepper." She will be remembered as having taken an active part in all the dramatic offerings while at the University.

The Dramatic Club, which for a while looked as though it would make its exodus as a college activity, promises now to take on life again. A meeting has been called by some of the members for Thursday, to decide the fate of the organization. The reason for this delayed action is due to the failure of any of the officers to return to school this year. An indebtedness of $60 stares the club in the face.

Rupert Harvey, the leading member of the Milestones Company, gave a short talk to the class in Dramatic Interpretation last Thursday. In the early part of the day he addressed Professor Howe's class in Contemporary Literature on the "Inner Meanings of Ibsen." In conclusion, Mr. Harvey read three scenes from "Emperor and Galilean," illustrating Ibsen's dramatic effect, his style, diction and his literary excellence.

"A miracle must happen if the concert of the Men's Glee Club on December 3 is to approach in quality and finish of style to that of last year's club," commented Director Lyman. "We have as good material this year as we had in previous ones, in fact a little better, but the men suffer from the common disease known as laziness. This condition is probably due to the reduction of practice hours from five to four a week. However, if there is not a noticeable improvement in the next few days, I am afraid I shall be obliged to call for six hours."

The 20 men of the Glee Club, attired in full dress suits, will expose themselves to the photographer's lens today. The pictures will be used for advertising the itinerary.

Senior girls at Drake University have adopted shoes of Drake blue with white buttons as their insignia.

The preliminaries for selecting the Oregon representative to the Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest will be held on January 6, 1915. The contestants will be limited to 1,500 words. The finals will be held January 22.

The preliminaries for selecting the University of Oregon representative to the Intercollegiate Peace Contest will be on January 6. The speeches will be limited to 18 minutes. The final tryout will be held February 12.

DATES FOR DEBATES

February 26, the O. A. C. debate. One team remains here and one goes to Corvallis. March 12, one team goes to Seattle to debate Washington, and one goes to Palo Alto to debate Stanford. April 2, the debate with Montana, at Eugene.

CORNELL TO HAVE NEW ARMORY COSTING $321,412

Bids have been received for the gigantic new armory for Cornell University. The work was divided between six different firms, the amount of the contracts totalling $321,412.00. The building will be of the Tudor design of architecture and will be constructed of gray stone taken from local quarries. It will be nearly ten times as large as the present drill hall, its dimensions being 412 feet long and 228 feet wide. When completed it will be the largest university armory in this country.

At the University of Pennsylvania, the upperclass women have posted the following rules for the Freshies:

1. All Freshmen must address upperclass women as "Miss."
2. Frosh girls must wear only green hair ribbons.
3. Frosh must politely hold doors open for upperclass.
4. Must never come to classes late.
5. Must know their songs.
6. Must be able to locate all college buildings on request.
7. Must sit properly in class.
8. Must take no notice of the opposite sex.

Eleven students at the University of Washington are 16 years old. Ten students are between the ages of 44 and 53. There are more students 19 years of age enrolled than any other age.

Soccer and Rugby will share the same field for the first time in the history of the University of California Saturday afternoon, when the Blue and Gold eleven lines up against the Olympic Club.

Y. M. C. A. EDITION OF EMERALD WILL APPEAR DEC. 3

The Y. M. C. A. edition of the Emerald, which was to have appeared today, has been postponed and will probably appear December 3. It was deemed best to devote the Thursday Emerald both this week and next to special football editions, so the Y. M. accepted the later date.

The edition December 3, besides containing a large number of stories, will be used in launching the Association subscription campaign, which will continue three days.

In the last two games played at the University of Kansas, the women students for the first time in the history of the institution participated in the serpentine, following the football victories.
