TELL IT TO THE COUNCIL

The resolution passed by the Student Body Wednesday morning, recommending that students having grievances to voice or radical innovations to broach shall first submit them to the Student Council, is wise and should be followed.

It was for just this purpose that the Council was created last spring by the Student Body. Composed of the 12 most representative students in the University, meeting regularly and considering carefully every proposition referred to it, the Council should be and is the proper filter through which all important legislation should travel on its way to the Student Body.

The Council has no power either to make or unmake laws, and its disapproval of a measure does not mean that the measure cannot be put up to the Student Body for its final adoption or rejection. But the Council does serve as a safeguard against dangerous and ill-advised action, as well as a source of constructive legislation.

That the Student Body has confidence in its creature is proved by the fact that every suggestion thus far made by the Council has been approved by the Student Body.

There are at present undercurrents of dissent in the Student Body which should find an outlet. Many of the grievances doubtless arise from misunderstandings and could be aired and adjusted to the satisfaction of everyone. Others are valid, and it is the Council's duty to present these to the Faculty, the Student Body officers, or others responsible, and with their co-operation devise a remedy.

The Council meets regularly every second Wednesday, and special meetings for urgent business may be called at any time. The Emerald urges the students to increase the prestige and the usefulness of the Council by giving it something to do.

TO CARTOONISTS

The editor of the Emerald has been favored with several clever sketches from an unknown contributor. However, we cannot use them because they are drawn in pencil and are otherwise unsuited for being reproduced as cuts. Cuts from which cartoons are printed can be made only from drawings in ink. Furthermore, it is preferable that the paper be rolled or left flat, and not folded, since the creases may spoil the cut.

The Emerald will publish all the cartoons it can afford, and will be only too glad to receive suitable drawings.

The girls at Oregon Agricultural College showed their spirit before the Washington game by holding a football rally within their dormitory.

is not known who is to be "Tick's" successor.

Cook says that he is now in better condition to play a good game than he was before he had the mumps.

At the next meeting of the graduate managers of the Northwest Conference it is to be proposed by the representatives from Whitman and W. S. C. that the six different teams meet each other twice during a season. They want one game played at home with each team in the conference and one with each team in their respective towns.

Washington will line up Saturday practically the same as they did against O. A. C. There is a chance that Leader, who has been out with a broken wrist, will be in at end.

Late reports from Seattle say that the field is dry and in perfect condition, that unless it should rain from now on without break there is no chance of playing in the mud.

Dobie claims to have lots of speed in his backfield. The poor showing made against O. A. C. is attributed to the fact that the heavy backfield was not able to get a start in the mud.

Although Cornell is laid up, he will be on the bench ready for a call at any time. Should things break bad for Oregon at any stage of the game, Cornell will go in. It is no long shot that he won't go in anyway.

Johnnie Beckett will be in the Oregon lineup right from the start. Beckett will oppose Miller in punting. Up to date, Beckett has averaged 43 yards against Miller's 35.

Those Loose Leaf Memory and Photo Books at Cressey's are better. They are cloth lined. Some others are paper lined. Note the difference.
