

SENIORS TO PROVIDE NOLAND MEMORIAL

RESOLUTION MADE IN FRESHMAN YEAR REVIVED BY CLASS OF 1915

DORRIS APPOINTS COMMITTEE

Bronze Tablet Will be Placed in New Administration Building in Honor of Classmate

A bronze tablet in honor of Virgil Noland, 'ex-'15, who died in 1911, will be placed in the new Administration Building if the report of Sam Michael, Edith Moxley and Rose Sieler, committee in charge, is accepted by the class of 1915. In 1911 a resolution was made by the 1915 class to provide a memorial to Virgil Noland, in their Freshman year. The resolution has now been revived and the above committee named by Ben Dorris, President of the Senior class, will have the matter in charge.

G. J. Mitchell, Assistant Professor of Geology, then staying at the Sigma Nu house, tells of the accident which resulted in Noland's death.

"Noland was a Freshman, and had earned a position as left guard on the football team. One noon at the training table he told 'Bill' Hayward he had a bad cold. Bill sent him home, giving him instructions to sweat it out in the electrical blanket, which was the property of the Sigma Nus. Noland did so. At 1:30 P. M., Ben Chandler went up to Noland's room and asked him how he felt. He replied that he was all right but pretty hot. No more attention was paid to him till after dinner that night when Ed. Geary went up to Noland's room and found him dead. Upon investigation it was found Noland had smothered to death by the excessive heat of the blanket. Doctors were called, but too late."

ANGELL DOES NOT WANT PRESIDENCY AT SEATTLE

Chicago Scholar Writes He Is Not a Candidate—Institution's Poverty Believed Cause

University of Washington.—James Rowland Angell, who recently visited the University of Washington, is not a candidate for the presidency of that institution.

A general feeling pervades the campus that the reason for Dean Angell's refusal to have his name considered is the failure of the state to provide what he thinks necessary equipment and adequate maintenance appropriations. He made these criticisms flatly and openly when he inspected the University at the request of the regents, and faculty men know of no reason why he should have changed his mind in the meantime.

One statement he made while on the campus, was: "What the state of Washington needs is a campaign of education concerning the needs of the University."

TRIP TO CRATER LAKE FOR GEOLOGY CLASS IS PLANNED

A trip to Crater Lake for the Geology class some time during the spring or early summer months is being considered by Prof. Warren D. Smith and G. J. Mitchell, of the Geology Department.

Professor Mitchell states that the plans may not materialize on account of the expense, which will probably be 25.00 for each student.

The trip will be made by train to Medford, and from there by stage to the lake.

"The main object of the trip," says Professor Mitchell, "will be pleasure."

WESTERN GIRLS ARE SLOW ATHLETICALLY—SAYS MENTOR

Miss Davis, Assistant Physical Director, Says Easterners are Better Developed, but Westerners Have Better Complexions

The average Western girl has no idea of play or sport. She has to be driven to it," said Miss Harriet Thompson, assistant director of physical education, Tuesday afternoon.

"The first thing the Eastern college woman says when she visits the campus is: 'What's the matter with your girls? Don't they like to play?'"

This lack of energy Miss Thompson believes is due largely to the mild and gentle climate. People can be lazy so easily in Oregon. This spirit of 'take-it-easy' gradually becomes a part of their characters.

"The difference in strength between the girls of the two localities is striking," she continued. "For example, the average lung capacity of girls in our gymnasium is 163 cubic inches. This compares rather poorly with 220 cubic inches in several middle Western colleges. In the same way our average arm strength, 24 kilograms, must be compared to 48 kilograms. The strength of the University of Oregon girls' back is 70 kilograms, contrasted with 185 kilograms in these schools beyond the Rocky Mountains."

"Western girls do have the better complexions. That is one thing they can thank the climate for. But it does seem queer to me to watch a bunch of girls come up from the dressing rooms and huddle round a radiator until the very last bell rings and they are compelled to begin to play and take a bit of exercise."

"Oregon young woman are a little larger and a great deal slower than women who live farther east," Miss Thompson said, "and if they ever get started they can outclass the students from these other colleges, for they have not the vigorous climate to endure. Especially ought they to walk, for in this country one can walk miles and miles without getting tired. The only reason I know for this difference in strength is that every sport here stops for six months in the year, while in the East every girl has her favorite sport. She skates or coasts, or sleigh-rides, or walks, the whole winter through. She must play fast, too, or she gets uncomfortably cold."

Miss Thompson is not alone about her belief about the lack of play spirit and vigor in Oregon girls. Miss Davis, Dr. Stuart and Professor Sweetser profess to share it.

INITIAL GLEE CLUB CONCERT TO BE STAGED THURSDAY NIGHT

EUGENE THEATRE WILL BE SCENE OF MUSIC LOVERS' TREAT. DIRECTOR LYMAN ARRANGES MERITORIOUS PROGRAM. DRESS SUITS TABOOED

By Mandell Weiss. The stage is all set for the initial appearance of the Men's Glee Club on Thursday evening, December 3, at the Eugene Theatre. A programme of extraordinary merit has been arranged for the occasion and Director Lyman promises that the concert will appeal even to those of the keenest appreciation.

The programme has been divided into three parts. First, will be presented the classical selections, interpreted by solos, quartet and groupe singing. Part two will be devoted entirely to Oregon songs. The last part will include the "stunts," skits and features of the entertainment.

Director, president and manager of the club all join in claiming that this year's club is one of the best that has ever represented the University. "Quality was the thing sought this year," said President Heidenreich, "and we have secured it." Manager Michael is expecting a large audience.

"The Glee Club is a University activity, and it can only thrive through the support of the students," said Michael. We guarantee everybody that attends the concert his money's worth.

HARDESTY ELECTED TO HEAD RELIEF MOVEMENT

Fred Hardesty was elected to represent the Associated Students in the meetings of the Christmas War Relief Association, a Eugene organization which is raising funds to aid European war sufferers, at the regular meeting of the Student Council Wednesday evening.

The Association was organized two weeks ago and is composed of representatives from various church and civic organizations of Eugene, Springfield and other neighboring towns. The object of the organization is to prepare a Christmas box of clothing and other necessities of life to send to the European war sufferers at Christmas. The University will be asked to assist by giving money and clothing.

tions scheduled for the week end evenings necessitated the holding of the concert on a week night. The management intends no dress suits to be worn in the audience.

The program in full will include:

- PART ONE
- Jolly Fellows—Rhys-Herbert.
- Tenor Solo—Songs of Araby—Clay Paul Sprague.
- Gretelein—Beam from Yonder Star—Buck—Sprague, Lyman, Gillette, Heidenreich.
- Baritone Solo—Song of the Sword—Clough Leichter—William Wawter.
- The Violet (Old German Folk Song)—Kauffman.

- PART TWO

"NO MUCKERISM" POLICY MEETS WITH APPROVAL

E. E. Brodie, proprietor of the Daily Enterprise, of Eugene City, and president of the State Editorial Association, has the following to say in regard to a recent editorial in the Emerald, in which a plea was made that "muckerism" be eradicated from college journalism.

"I am glad to see that the University paper has taken such a fine stand in relation to sustaining a position for good sportsmanship as indicated by the enclosed clipping. This is the right spirit and is entitled to the highest commendation."

Mr. Brodie included his comments on college journalism in a letter to Prof. E. W. Allen, in which he asked Mr. Allen to serve as vice president of the Association for Lane County.

COOK, PARSONS, AND BECKETT MAKE ALL-NORTHWEST TEAM

Dr. Stewart Only "Authority" to Ignore Oregon Players, but He Loves His Bovinologists

Cook at guard, Parsons at half, and Beckett at tackle, were the popular choices of football coaches and critics for All-Northwest honors, according to today's Oregonian.

Out of nine All-Northwest dopsters, eight picked Sam Cook for a guard position. Strangely enough, Dr. Stewart, of O. A. C., was the only would-be arbiter to leave Cook off his mythical team. Although he did not slight "Prunes" Moore, the Aggie guard who was badly outclassed by Sam in the Corvallis game.

Still more curiously, the Doctor does not fancy a single Oregon man. He is broad-minded enough, however, to name five of his own Aggie players on his all-star combination.

Since Stewart had such a constellation of stars on his list, and the Oregon players were individually so inferior, some difficulty naturally arises in explaining the 3 to 3 tie between the two teams. It would seem that the verdict of the majority of the spectators at the Corvallis battle, that the cow-valets lacked something besides proficiency at football, was well founded.

In contrast to Dr. Stewart's attitude, Coach Bezdek, of Oregon, picks four Aggie players on his All-Northwest aggregation.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE CONTINUES WORK TO AID WAR SUFFERERS

About 20 women of the Women's League are doing actual work in behalf of the war sufferers. Several of the members who knit are making wristlets and scarfs for the soldiers who are fighting in Belgium, and others are making warm woolen garments for the women and children. The materials are purchased by the League, and by charitable organizations of Eugene. Several sewing machines have been offered for the use of the women doing the Red Cross sewing.

The finished garments are sent to Portland, from where they are shipped to Europe through the Red Cross agency.

NANCE CORNELL GETS FOOTBALL CAPTAINCY

TWO OREGON PLAYERS SECURE UNANIMOUS VOTE FOR ALL-NORTHWEST

ENTIRE TEAM MAY RETURN

Coach Bezdek and Saptain-Elect Hope to Make 1915 a Big Football Year for Oregon

By Harry Kuck. As a fitting climax to a successful season, the 18 football artists who have won their letters this year have chosen Nance Cornell, one of the headiest football players that ever stepped on a Northwest gridiron, as their 1915 captain.

"Nance" is a Junior and has won his big "O" all three years of his football career at Oregon. His clever headwork and remarkable open field running have been responsible for many Lemon Yellow scores. He would have undoubtedly been chosen All-Northwest quarterback this fall had he been able to participate in more games. He has been practically out of football since the Idaho game, in which his knee was badly injured.

All football critics who have ventured to select an All-Northwest eleven for the past season agree unanimously upon the following men: Tyler, of W. S. C., for one end; Anderson, of Washington, for one tackle; Cook, of Oregon, for one guard; and all contrive to get Parsons, of Oregon; Lutz, of O. A. C.; and Miller, of Washington, in the backfield.

There is a difference of opinion upon the other choices. For the other end job only two men have been named: Huntley, of O. A. C., and Hunt, of Washington. Although Hunt played a bang-up game against Oregon at Seattle, his work in the other games has only been mediocre. Huntley is favored for the position.

All critics but Varnell, of Spokane, think that Beckett, of Oregon, is the best all around tackle in the conference, but Varnell gives Laythe, of O. A. C., the preference. Groniger, of Idaho, is another sterling tackle, who deserves honorable mention in picking the season's stars.

There seems to be no consensus of opinion as to who should be Sam Cook's running mate in the peerless mythical aggregation. Coach Bezdek of Oregon and Roscoe Fawcett, of the Oregonian, pick Moore, of O. A. C.; R. A. Cronin, of the Oregon Journal, picks Seagraves, of Washington; and George Varnell shifts Groniger, of
