Under the caption printed above, the Evergreen, of Washington State honor of the visiting Alpha Phis and College, calls attention to a phase of the inter-collegiate debating question Tau Chapter. which had not occurred to us. Since it is pertinent to a recent editorial of ours, we publish the following ex-

"Coaches in debate are about as much in demand by high schools as coaches in athletics. Practically every high school in the state is in some forensic leeague. Consequently applicants for teachers' positions who are able to coach debate have an added qualification that gives them an advantage over others in getting good situations and good salaries.

"However, nobody is qualified for a debate coach unless he has had experience in the game himself. Athletics generally require for director one who has had athletic training, but debate always demands the services of somebody who 'knows the ropes.'

"Many who are now students here expect to be high school teachers, at least for a short time, after they leave aid in the interpretation of history, W. S. C. It behooves all these people to prepare themselves well for the commercial relations of the variwhatever they may have to do in the ous nations, with an intensive study future, and one valuable part of ad- of the more important countries, parequate preparation is experience in inter-collegiate debate."
