

MITCHELL GETS LUCKY AND WINS LUCKY CUP

Sigma Nu Freshman conquishes Rivals in Cock Fight—Stag Mix a Success

Clifford Mitchell is the first to gain glory as the winner of the Lucky Y. M. C. A. cockfight cup contest. In a hot contest in the finals with Callison at the mix Friday night, he showed champion gamebird class.

The pillow fight, also closely contested, was won by Jim Cossman.

It is hard to say who was the hot-handed hot-hander, but some mighty biffs were recorded.

Short, snappy talks were given by Bert Lombard, President of the University Y. M. C. A., President Campbell, Dean Straub, Dr. Ralph Bennett and Mr. O'Donnell, director of the Patterson playground, of Portland.

The "rube" band was a great hit. Its appearance was a surprise to the mix officials. Probably they were enticed by the chocolates and doughnuts served soon after their arrival.

A taste of Oregon was given the guests by a serpentine of singing, dancing, exam-free students, led by Elton Loucks.

ABORIGINAL OF MAN AND MONKEY SAME, SAYS SWEETSER

"Man is not descended from monkey, but both man and monkey are descended from some animal which resembles both. Man is going to one extreme and the monkey to the other," said Professor A. R. Sweetser, head of the Department of Biology in an address before his student class at the Methodist church Sunday, January 31. Professor Sweetser's topic was the Life of Henry Drummond, the great scientist.

"Drummond was a man some people called a free-thinker, but there is not a man in history who portrayed the work of God as has this scientist in his 'Ascent of Man,' where the theory of evolution is advanced. Drummond believes that it is impossible for a man who has studied nature not to realize that God has created some form of life in the beginning, that man and all other animals have been growing from the most simple form to the most complex," said Professor Sweetser.

THIEF MAKES WAY WITH TWO LENSES FROM STEREOPTICON

Between the hours of 5:00 and 7:00 P. M. last Monday, the stereopticon was stolen from the Architectural Building.

The principal part of the machine was left outside the building, where it was found, but three condensing lenses were removed from it. One of these was dropped upon the railroad track, but the thief got away with two of the large condensers.

The disabled stereopticon is now in Professor Percy Adams' office awaiting the indefinite purchase of new condensers.

Meanwhile the architectural students will have to go without the illustrated lectures on the history of architecture.

BASEBALL SUPPLANTS HEAD HUNTING—SMITH

spent six months in Manila, studying the Philippine forest methods. But with all their progressive ideas, Dr. Smith evidently does not believe the people of the islands capable of self-government. To show the ignorance of the native legislature, he cited the case of the refusal of the lower house to vote an appropriation of $30,000.00 for stamps. They could not seem to understand that stamps were revenue.

"Unfortunately, the Philippine question is political," stated Dr. Smith. "It should not be political; it should be strictly economic and educational. People physically independent may be economic slaves. People living in ascending air currents usually lack initiative. Land masses afford greater barriers to commerce than large bodies of water. The lack of a common language is a very great barrier to common thought. The Philippines are hampered by these things; when we shall have removed these obstacles, then this question shall be solved."

Athletes will not be permitted to hold class offices at the University of Chicago hereafter.

DR. EDWARD SHARP TO SPEAK AT VESPERS

Professor of Albany College Will Deliver Address on "Evidential Value of a Life of Christ"

The principal address at the Vesper service to be held in Villard Hall at 4:30 next Sunday will be delivered by Dr. Edward M. Sharp, of Albany College, who will speak on "The Evidential Value of a Life of Christ."

The program in full, given under the direction of Professor Ralph Lyman, is as follows:
