SOPH SAINTS GUARD THE GATES OF PEARL

ST. PETER, RECORDING SERAPH,
AND HEAVENLY BUTLER

FOX-TROTTERS CHEER SOULS

Near Musical Comedy Danced Outside
Alabaster Walls to "High
Jinks" Music

Heaven holds greater inducements than ever to the students of the University of Oregon, since the Sophomore class presented "an original extravaganza," by Edison Marshall, entitled, "At the Pearly Gates," during the first class hour of the year, on Wednesday morning.

As the title denotes, the scene was laid at the gates of Heaven.

Ralph Ash carried out the part of Saint Peter, the Recording Seraph was impersonated by Edison Marshall, and Martin Nelson was the Celestial Butler. All were dressed in white robes and wore artificial halos around their heads.

The various souls, seeking admittance at the pearly gates of heaven, were required by the discontented Peter and the Recording Angel to present entertainment for the souls (the audience) within. Wallace Martyn, in the character of an Englishman, was the first soul to apply for admission, and produced some "English" wit for the edification of the "souls within."

The next knock on the gate was from Leo Furney, who had quite a chat with his friend, the Celestial Butler, Martin Nelson, who finally secured for him a job in heaven cleaning the "golden spitoons."

Milton Stoddard, in the character of a dead Scotch artist, appeared the "angels within" by a series of charcoal sketches depicting the college coded, a pipe course and others. Four lady seraphs from within them rendered a quartet of angelic music.

A sign, "Professors Need Not Apply," might as well have been posted on the road to heaven, as the professors were uniformly excluded and sent "below" to be put on a bed of coals and the draught turned on. On the other hand all "rough-neck" students in the person of Carl Naylor were admitted with the greatest despatch. Charles Koyl's fate was to solicit money from his "Satanic Majesty" to keep the college Y. M. C. A. going.

Echo Zahl and Wallace Martyn supported by a chorus of "Festive Fox Trotters," were encored again and again by the "saved souls" in a near-musical comedy. The chorus girls and boys tangoed and one-stepped around the stage, formed in line and "walked" off while Miss Zahl fussed away from the arms of the enamored Martyn to the tune of "High Jinks."

The chorus dancers were: Echo Zahl, Margaret Spangler, Margaret Pratt, Bernice Lucas, Madge Barry, Frances Mann, Katie Schaefer, Mildred Brown, Marjorie McGuire, Wallace Martyn, Bert Breeding, Paul Hendricks, Rex Kay, George Colton, Bob McMurray, Bob Fitzmaurice, Lloyd Bailey, John Beckett.

ADVERTISING COURSE GAINS
RECOGNITION IN CHICAGO

R. E. Gano, managing editor of the "Judicious Advertising," a monthly advertising paper published in Chicago, which circulates among advertising men, has written that the forthcoming number will contain an article about the establishment of advertising classes at the University. Some of the lectures to be given here will also be published.

50 WOMEN TO DANCE WITHOUT AID OF MEN

Campus Dianas to Stage Party Which Should Pass Faculty Board of Censorship

Mere man will be as negative a quantity at the girls' dance to be given Friday afternoon, March 26, in Hayward's Arena, as he is at the annual April Frolic, or in Dr. Stuart's courses.

The stepping party is an innovation in the University. Twenty-five girls will take men's parts. Each will invite a "girl." In order to avoid confusion, the "men" will be attired in middy blouses and dark skirts.

Twenty-five cents will be charged. The proceeds will go into the Woman's Building fund.

The committee in charge of the dance is composed of Helen Wiegand, Kate Stanfield, Leura Jerard, Miriam Tinker and Ruth Holmes.

Grinnell College is working on a million dollar endowment campaign.

DR. SCHAFER MISSES TRAIN SO CLASS GETS TIME OUT

University Professor in History Lectures in Extension Work at Halsey

Dr. Joseph Schafer's failure a short time ago to meet his class in Recent American History, was not due to the ankle that he lame last year. Nor was it due to laziness on the part of the buggy horse of Frank H. Porter, who lives at Halsey, where Dr. Schafer lectured in Extension work the night before. In fact, Mr. Porter and Dr. Schafer were dashing along within 100 yards of the depot when the train pulled out. There had been a mistake about the schedule.

Having missed the train, Mr. Porter begged to be allowed to send Dr. Schafer to Harrisburg the next morning and to hire an automobile from there to Eugene, but the Doctor would not consent. He says Mr. Porter was quite anxious that the students should lose none of their precious class time, seeming to recollect his own college days.

SCRIBES ORGANIZE "YE TABARD INN"

Prospective Jack Londons Form Club for Much Needed Mutual Aid and Fellowship

Ye Tabard Inn, a new University club, had its birth recently, when a dozen University men agreed to organize. The dozen men are interested in and are attempting literary work, so that the club can be called a club of scribes.

The charter members are: Chester Fee, Henry Howe, Lee Hendricks, James Cellars, C. B. Castle, Milton Stoddard, Hugh Oliver, Ralph Ash, Leigh Swinson and Edison Marshall. Professor Thatcher is an associate member of the organization.

Most of the personnel of the club have taken either short story or versification work under Professor Thatcher, and one of the aims of the fellowship is to bring about mutual help in writing among the various members.

The name of the club is that of the famous Sussex Inn, where Chaucer's story-tellers sipped their ale.

It is the intention of the charter members to maintain an organization that will continue to exist in the University in future years.

FOR EUGENE CITY TREASURER

Fred G. Stickels has filed his nominating petition with the City Recorder and announced his candidacy for the office of City Treasurer.

Mr. Stickels is a former student of the University and is prominent in city circles. While in college several prominent students were quietly assisted by him in a financial way, enabling them to remain in school and complete the year's work.

THIRTY-FOUR WILL BE STUDENT FAIR GUIDES

CANDIDATES PASS EXAMINATION AND ARE ASSIGNED DATES OF DEPARTURE

TWO TO LEAVE THIS WEEK END

Ernest Vosper and Bryant DeBar Will Return Before Sunday. Dr. Smith Instructs Appointees

Thirty-four students passed the final Student Fair Guide examination, which was given Tuesday afternoon under the supervision of a committee composed of Dr. W. M. Smith, chairman, Dr. J. H. Gilbert, Dr. John Straub, Bert Prescott and Earl Kilpatrick. Each successful candidate has been assigned a date of departure, and each must leave early enough to be ready to report in San Francisco on the Monday following the assigned date. This means that some of those leaving during the summer months from parts more distant than Eugene must arrange to depart on the Friday before the assigned date.

In his instructions to the prospective guides, Dr. Smith cautioned them to secure receipts for the purchase of their railroad tickets and berths, as well as of the meals if possible. This is to forestall any difficulty that might come up in collecting the allowances from the officials. "And be sure to keep yourselves informed about Oregon," added Doctor Smith.

Any whose names appear in the list below, and who find themselves unable to undertake the trip, should notify Doctor Smith in order that substitutions may be made.

The following is a list of those appointed, together with the date upon which each will leave:

FRED STICKELS IS CANDIDATE
FOR EUGENE CITY TREASURER

Fred G. Stickels has filed his nominating petition with the City Recorder and announced his candidacy for the office of City Treasurer.

Heretofore scholars have been elected in all the states in two successive years, none being chosen in the recurring third year. This has been changed, and the election of scholars will spread over three years. No appointment will be made from Oregon in 1917.

Y.W. COMPLETES PLANS FOR MISS BLANCHARD

WOMEN'S GYM TO BE USED; SPECIAL MUSIC WILL ENLIVEN MEETINGS

RECEPTION WILL BE GIVEN

Every Woman in University Has Been Invited. Dr. Weatherford May Speak

A second special dinner to discuss plans for the Leslie Blanchard meetings, beginning tomorrow, was given at the Bungalow by the Cabinet and Women's Greater Oregon Committee of the Y. W. C. A. last evening. The features of the dinner were the cafeteria plan of serving, the Oregon songs, and the booster speeches made by Agnes Dunlap, Miss Julia Burgess, Genevieve Shaver, Eyla Walker, Roberta Killam, Miss Mary A. Gillies and Katharine Bridges. After dinner, sub-committees on personal work, publicity and meeting arrangements met.

Every woman in the University has been mailed a card with the schedule of meetings for Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon. The Women's Gymnasium, with seating capacity for 300, has been secured. Martha Beer, chairman of the arrangement committee, has the promise of special musical numbers for each meeting.

Miss Blanchard, Stanford University '12, and a member of the Delta Delta Delta fraternity, will make the local chapter house her headquarters during her stay from Friday till Wednesday.

A reception will be given for her Friday afternoon in the Bungalow from three to five. The Y. W. C. A. invites every woman in the University to come.

"Charles Koyl has very nearly promised he will let us have Dr. Weatherford for a Saturday afternoon meeting," says Miss Gillies, Secretary of the Y. W. C. A. "If he does, we will announce the time later."

PRE-HISTORIC MAN CHINLESS SAYS W. D. SMITH IN LECTURE

Professor W. D. Smith, head of the Department of Geology, gave a stereopticon lecture Tuesday morning before his class in Advanced Geography. His topic was, "Pre-Historic Man."

"Crude implements are found dating millions of years ago," said Professor Smith. "The indications of these rocks, resembling flint used by the Indians of America in making arrow heads, goes to show that the man of this period had a very poorly developed mind. Skulls have been found near Heidelberg, Germany, which reveal the fact that pre-historic man had no chin."

"The skull of a baby chimpanzee is very hard to distinguish from that of man, but as the chimpanzee matures a very marked change takes place. Some authorities use this fact to believe that the chimpanzee is descended from man, rather than man from the chimpanzee or any other form of ape man."

EXAMINATION FOR OXFORD TO BE HELD OCTOBER 5 AND 6

A qualifying examination of candidates for Oxford scholarships will be held in all states of the Union October 5 and 6, 1915.

OREGON WILL EMPLOY NEW DEBATE TACTICS

Washington Is Desperate After Unsuccessful Season. Home Team Expects to Win

Oregon will use an entirely new line of argument against the Washington debate team here Friday night. This was the statement made by Coach Prescott, who further added that Washington, having lost every contest this year, is becoming desperate and will send their best men against Hardesty and Jaureguy.

"If previous records of debates with the northern University can be used as a criterion, Oregon will have the upper hand. We have won three forensic battles from the Washingtonians during the last five years. We have been even more successful with Stanford, having beaten them four times since 1910."

Professor H. G. Merriam, Professor M. P. Ewer, both from Reed College, and Ralph Hetzel, of O. A. C., will act as judges Friday night.

FACULTY HOLDS MEETING

Pass and Honor System Discussed, and President Campbell Gives Account of Regents' Meeting

The Pass and Honor System, as in use in English and Canadian schools, was extensively discussed at an informal meeting of the faculty Monday night.

Two months ago Professor H. C. Howe proposed this system, but because of a recently made ruling no formal action can be voted upon until the matter has been discussed at a given number of meetings. Sentiment as expressed by different members of the faculty was favorable to a change of some kind.

Another plan mentioned was the weight system. This plan embodies the idea that a student making H or S in a five-hour course be rewarded by six hours H or S; the student making M in that same course be given the customary five hours M; but the person who gets P would receive only four hours credit. This plan was not so well received.

After the discussion President Campbell gave a detailed account of the Regents' meeting held last week.
