NINE DOLLARS RICHER

The Alumni Association is nine dollars richer than it was before the first editorial call for dues was published in this column.

Customary annual bills, payable in June out of the dues for 1915-16 will total between $325 and $350.

The Secretary has decided to supplement the editorial notice with the customary letter. This letter will go out this week if possible. Meanwhile, the receipt book is never closed.

In sending in dues, please do not fail to indicate your view concerning the attitude which the alumni should take toward the publication matter. Should this page be continued? Should an alumni publication be substituted therefor? If so, how should it be financed? Should the alumni have no official organ whatever?

SENIOR GIRLS WELCOMED BY LOCAL ALUMNAE ASSN.

On Saturday last, the Senior women of the University of Oregon were welcomed into prospective fellowship with the alumnae of the University at a reception held at the home of Mrs. Frank Chambers.

After formal welcome and a hearty response on behalf of the Seniors, and a musical program, several serious talks as to the purpose of the alumnae were given.

Mrs. Mary Straub Stafford told of the objects for which the local alumnae are working, especially of their hope that they may be recognized by the A. C. A. She outlined also the requirements imposed by the A. C. A.

Miss Ruth Guppy continued the discussion in the same vein, paying especial attention to the feature of the women's building. A building, such as demanded by the A. C. A., would probably cost about $50,000. A small fund is already started and hopes are entertained that the building may become a reality in the near future. Such a building must contain a gymnasium and other features for the exclusive use of the women of the University.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

GEORGE HUG PROMOTED

McMinnville Selects Oregon Graduate as City Superintendent Over Many Applicants

McMinnville (Special to the Alumni Section)—George W. Hug, a graduate of the University of Oregon in the class of 1907, will head the schools of McMinnville. W. R. Rutherford, the present superintendent, well known to Oregon people through his attendance at several summer sessions of the University, leaves McMinnville in June to become superintendent of the city schools of Eugene.

Hug was selected from a large number of candidates. First, the Board of Education narrowed the list to four or five of the most desirable; then they made an exhaustive study of the records of these men, even taking trips to the towns in which they are at work. The result was the selection of Mr. Hug.

The new superintendent is 33 years of age, was educated in the county schools of Union County, in Elgin and LaGrande high schools and at the University.

Before coming to college he was a teacher for two years. Since graduation he has been continuously principal of the Eugene High School. In 1913 he was instructor in secondary education in the summer school of the University. For five years Mr. Hug was supervisor of the practice teachers of the University.

While in college, Mr. Hug was President of the Student Body, President of the Delta Alpha Club, which later became a chapter of Beta Theta Pi, captain of the track team for two years, all-Northwest center, and for two years a member of the Athletic Council.

As an alumnus, Mr. Hug has served as a member of the Athletic Council since graduation. He has been Secretary of the Northwest Athletic Council.

As a school man, Mr. Hug has been called to serve on many important committees, among the most important of which are the committee which made the new high school course of study; the committee which worked out the rules for standardization of high schools; the committee on the formation of an athletic association among the high schools of the state; and the executive committee of the Oregon State Teachers' Association.

ALUMNA AT BAKER SENDS SOME INTERESTING ITEMS

To the Editor:—Some time ago I noticed in the alumni section that you wanted the addresses of Eulalia Palmer '97, and of Adele McMurren Hunt, '05.

The former is now Mrs. Warren and lives at 1404 Third Street, Baker, Oregon. Mrs. Hunt's address is Keating, Oregon. Ira Staggs, '17, and Ber-nice Phillips Staggs, '17, are now engaged in farming near Keating.

We enjoy the alumni section of the paper and hope that some publication of the same will continue.

CASTEEL EXPRESSES IDEAS CONCERNING PUBLICATION

United States Reclamation Service, Okanogan, Washington.

To the Editor:—I am in favor of having an alumni publication, but should a plan for putting out this publication at least quarterly be not worked out, let us continue the alumni page in the Emerald. I have followed this alumni page very closely and believe that others do the same. It means much to those who seldom see another alumnus.

CALVIN CASTEEL, '03.

SONS ARE BORN IN TWO FAMILIES OF ALUMNI

Two prospective members have been added to the class of 1938, during the past two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Loris Johnson, of 211 Clinton street, New York City, have sent to Eugene word of the birth of a son. Similar good news comes from Will T. Neill, '12, and Ruth Rolfe Neill, '11, residents of Portland.

LEGGETT FAVORS SOME WAY TO KEEP INFORMED

To the Editor:—In regard to having a publication, I would say that we should by all means have some means with keeping up with what our fellow alumni are doing. I don't know which would be better, a publication of our own or the section in the Emerald, but by all means let us have some means of communication.

I am preaching for the Christian church at Coquille and Bridge, in Coos County.

JOHN F. LEGGETT.

Co-eds at the Hamline university have been forbidden to say, "You know me, Al," or "Hello Bill" to any of their boy friends. "It is vulgarity," says the dean, "and robs the university of its dignity." Oregon's not so bad after all.
