

SUMMER SCHOOL WILL OPEN MONDAY JUNE 28

Educational Convention and Interdenominational Conference of Ministers to be Features of Session

The eleventh annual session of the University Summer School will open June 28, 1915. The lectures will begin on the following day at 8:00 o'clock. The session closes Friday, August 6, 1915.

A number of well known lecturers will appear before the session at various times. Among these men are G. Stanley Hall, Clark University; J. Duncan Spaeth, Princeton University; Prof. Charles Foster Smith, University of Wisconsin; Prof. E. P. Cubberley, Stanford University; L. R. Alderman, Superintendent of Schools at Portland; Charles R. Frazier, Superintendent of Schools at Everett, Washington; Dr. George Rebec and Dr. H. D. Sheldon, of the University of Oregon. Prof. William S. Morgan, Ph. D., of the Pacific Unitarian School for the Ministry, Berkeley, California, will be the Carnegie Endowment lecturer in International Polity and Conciliation.

One of the features of the session is the sixth annual Educational Conference, headed by Dr. H. D. Sheldon, Dean of the School of Education. Leading educational men and women of Oregon will confer among themselves, and with other citizens, about plans for educational improvement during the conference.

During the first conference session in 1910, the county high school fund was discussed. Since this time a law has been passed by the state legislature embodying the measures discussed at this conference. This special conference will be held during the first two weeks of the session and will employ discussions on a wide range of topics.

Another event in the summer session will be the third Interdenominational Conference of Ministers. During the summer session of 1913 the University of Oregon was selected as a meeting place for interdenominational ministers for three reasons: (1) it is a neutral center, yet in active sympathy with the programs of social amelioration which religious bodies are developing today; (2) it presents in its summer school classes and lectures in Sociology, Ethics, Literature, History, Science and Languages; (3) the library and other facilities are an attraction to the studios, as are the general surroundings to the person seeking a delightful place of recreation. The Ministers' Conference is directed by the participating churches through representative ministers and laymen.

The fee for the summer session, irrespective of the number of courses taken, is $10.00. Six credits are allowed for the six weeks' work.

The faculty of the summer school is as follows:

P. L. Campbell, Joseph Schafer, Lewis R. Alderman, Eric W. Allen, Hugo Bezdek, G. A. Bricker, A. E. Caswell, Timothy Cloran, R. C. Clark, E. P. Cubberley, E. E. DeCou, N. Paul Douglass, M. H. Douglass, Charles R. Frazier, G. Stanley Hall, William S. Morgan, Mrs. M. H. Parsons, C. A. Rice, George Rebec, F. G. G. Schmidt, Henry D. Sheldon, O. F. Stafford, F. L. Stetson, J. Duncan Spaeth, Charles F. Smith, W. D. Smith, W. M. Smith, Bertha Stuart, A. R. Sweetser, J. A. Wells and F. G. Young.

SCIENCE CLUB WILL GIVE DINNER FOR PROF. KEYSER

C. J. Keyser, Professor of Mathematics at Columbia University, who is to deliver the commencement address here, has accepted the invitation of the Science Club of the University for an informal dinner Tuesday, June 15. Professor Boynton is President of the Science Club. Members of the club, the faculty and friends of the University will be invited to this informal banquet.

SEVERAL SENIORS MAY NOT GRADUATE BECAUSE OF CUTS

Several of the present Senior class may not graduate. Among them is Ben Dennis, President. Cuts have accumulated against some of the members of the 1915 class reducing the number of credits below the 120 minimum required for graduation. The faculty committee will decide the matter later and the outcome is doubtful.

300 PLACES SET FOR BIG Y. W. C. A. RALLY

Sororities Let Cooks Off and Go to Rally on President Campbell's Lawn

The annual Y. W. C. A. Conference rally was staged in the form of a dinner for every girl in the University, on President Campbell's lawn, Tuesday evening.

Preparations were made for 300 girls. None of the sorority houses served dinner, leaving the girls free to attend the Y. W. dinner.

This year a new plan was tried. The sorority houses, instead of contributing food, and having as their guests the town girls, contributed the money that dinner ordinarily costs them. The Eugene and Mary Spiller girls, making altogether about 150 girls, gave the food. Thus about $40 is being added to the conference fund.

The whole affair was in charge of Jewell Tozier, chairman of the meetings committee, and Louise Aiken, chairman of the conference committee. The following committees have been appointed:

Soliciting—Sara Barker, Dorothy Collier, Jeannette Calkins, Ruth Willson, Edna Holman, Irma Keithley, Mignon Allen.

Serving—Claire Raley, chairman; Genevieve Chapin, Olive Risley, Joy Gross, Dorothy Dunbar, Leura Jerard, Aline Johnson, Ruth Fraley, Bernice Lucas, Celeste Foulkes, Pearl Reigard, Lurline Brown, Lucy Powers, Doris Ball, Jeannette McClaren, Helen Downing.

received an ovation of no little mention. The press, in commenting on the presentations, spoke in high terms of the work.

The annual spring tour capped the climax of the eventful season, when "My Man and Lady," written by Professor A. F. Reddie, was presented in five towns of Southern Oregon, under the auspices of the schools. "The best amateur performance ever played here," was the unanimous verdict that these places gave to this production. Upon the return a local presentation was given in Villard Hall, and a local critic characterized it as the smoothest play yet. Junction City and Harrisburg were also played, and in both these places the University has won lifelong friends. Other towns in the valley spoke for dates, but owing to the end of the semester, they had to be abandoned.

"Joy," by Galsworthy, was scheduled for out of door production as an entertainment feature of the Commonwealth Conference, but inclement weather prohibited its appearance. This play will be given at the first opportunity next year.

The momentous thing that is occupying the Guild players at the present, is the mammoth out of door commencement play. All forces have joined to make this a truly representative event of the University. The Architectural Department, under the supervision of Professor Lawrence, has worked out a general scheme for the setting, which in design will be a miniature reproduction of a Louis XIV garden.

The Physical Department, under the direction of Miss Goldsmith, is lending its aid to make the dancing a success. The minuet will be the prominent feature of the production. The Music Department has come out strong, and is arranging an elaborate program to be given in conjunction with the play. The costuming is a riot of color and has been artistically arranged so as to prove harmonious and pleasing in its effect to the eye. Lastly, the interpretation of this airy comedy is in the hands of Professor Reddie. His work in the past speaks for itself, and it will therefore be unnecessary to expand on this aspect of the performance. Suffice it to say that it promises to rival in splendor last year's performance of King Lear, which brought out 5,000 people.

That this production is claiming the attention of the people throughout the state is evidenced by the numerous letters received, making inquiries about it. It is hoped that in time this will be an annual event of similar magnitude to that of the Eastern universities.

BIRD CENSUS IS TAKEN

Students in Social Biology Class Make Reports to be Sent to Washington, D. C.

The birds census which is being taken by the students in Dr. C. F. Hodge's class in Social Biology is well under way and will be completed by the end of this week. Te results will then be sent on to Washington, D. C., to be added in with the other censuses which are now being secured from all parts of the nation.

"Those members of the class who desired to do this census for their thesis work were given 40-acre tracts," said Dr. Hodge. "Last year Oregon was represented by only one bird report, and that came from the Milton district in Eastern Oregon. This year, as a result of this thesis research, we will have reports from the Willamette Valley, as well as from various other parts of the state. The students have taken a fine interest in this bird count and they are working out a splendid bird census."

The districts are as follows:

1. Forty-acre tract across the river at the end of the lower bridge. Arthur Shelton, of the Zoology Department, says that this section contains the best variety of birds in the neighborhood. The students in charge are: Harry Hargreaves, Dick Nelson, Walter Kirk and Roy Orem.
2. Forty-acre tract covering the University campus and the Athletic Field up to the cemetery. George Colton and Dr. Hodge.
3. Forty-acre tract from the millrace to the city, south for ten blocks and east of the campus. Coralie Snell.
4. Forty acres in Hendricks Park. Kate Stanfield, Grace Mackenzie and Russell Ralston.
5. Forty-acre tract covering the University property where the new athletic field is to be built. Tom Donica and Loren Roberts.

same person. He must possess a thorough knowledge of Spanish, he must have acquired the journalist's point of view and ability to ascertain and hunt out facts and to report them convincingly after he has them, and he must know his commercial subject thoroughly, whatever that may be, whether it is fruit, or lumber, or fish, or mineral.

The Federal Department will begin its co-operation at once, arranging to supply the University next year both with literature, and with an entire course of lectures by experts who are to be sent here from Washington.

The University will co-operate through its Department of Spanish, Department of Journalism, and School of Commerce.
