

Y. M. - Y. W. ENTERTAINS 300 TAGGED GUESTS

Second Yearlings Meet For Business and Suggest Sheehy and Peacock For President.

Tagged, "I am a Freshman," about 300 new students were introduced at the Y. M. C. A. - Y. W. C. A. reception last evening in Villard Hall.

More than 600 students attended, and Dr. Straub says that is surely a good beginning for the year's association work.

The green tags were distributed as far as they would go. At first they were much in evidence; later, "Where is your green tag?" a new student was asked.

"In my pocket, they all know I'm a Freshman without it."

The Girl's Glee Club, under the direction of Professor Ralph H. Lyman, sang several college songs.

Cloyd Dawson, President of the Y. M. C. A., introduced Dr. C. H. Edmondson, professor of zoology, who gave the joint welcome of the two associations.

"Yesterday I was told that I was to be the young man to welcome the young men to this institution. Today I was to be the lady to welcome the young women," he began.

Dr. Edmondson said that the Y. M. C. A. - Y. W. C. A. was planning much social service work for those students so interested.

The hope, desire and wish of the association, according to Dr. Edmondson, is that groups of students should meet informally in the association rooms to discuss questions of value in the student life.

Miss Forbes gave a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Thatcher.

Y.M. TO EXHIBIT AT FAIR

"University Organization Most Active in State, Though Smallest," Says Foster.

In order that people visiting the State Fair at Salem, on the week of September 26, may become acquainted with what the Student Y.M.C.A. is doing for the University, a large part of the 70 foot Oregon exhibit is to be taken up with charts and pictures showing the financial, moral, and religious work of the organization. In addition to these, maps will show where extension work is being carried on.

More Y. M. C. A. activity was centered in a conference held during the week end, when secretaries from Albany College, Willamette, O. A. C., Pacific, Reed and McMinnville College met with I. B. Rhodes, state secretary for Oregon and Idaho, to promote cooperation. It is planned that five or six of the local members shall go to Albany College in the near future to help establish a stronger association there.

According to Secretary Foster the local organization is much more active than any other in the state, although the proportional student membership is smaller.

A membership campaign under a committee headed by Martin Nelson is to be launched soon.

Favors Alumni Page.

Jefferson, Oregon.—To the Editor of the Alumni Page—In regard to the Emerald, I am very much in favor of continuing the present system rather than attempting an alumni publication. The joint use of the student paper keeps the graduates and undergraduates in closer touch. —Lyle Steiwer.

ficiently strong to enter the third stage. Perhaps the criterion may be this: a school may properly have conference college games where the preparation for them neither crowds to the wall inter-class or inter-society games nor harms the general standard of scholarship. So far as the first is concerned, the University of Oregon doubtless is legitimately in the third stage. And I don't know that scholarship is being retarded—by no means so much as it was last year by dancing—but if it is, I should favor some remedial measure.

W. F. G. Thacher, professor of Rhetoric: I am not in favor of abolishing intercollegiate athletics. As managed here, athletics are not open to serious objection. The plan might improve work, but students need a sort of stimulation that intercollegiate athletics furnish. Studies alone are not dramatic. I think this is not a good time to agitate the question. I believe abolishment would cut down the enrollment 20 per cent.

Dr. F. G. Schmidt, professor of German: I never saw but two football games in my life, and probably my opinion is warped. But I believe with other faculty members that intercollegiate athletics must be checked. I believe many students think the same. Every year boys tell me this is the cause of their poor work.

Mary H. Perkins, assistant professor of Rhetoric: Intercollegiate athletics does more than any other thing to establish a student's loyalty. The dramatic element involved is not seen elsewhere, and is a real element in student life. The fault is over-emphasis.

F. S. Dunn, professor of Latin: I am not radically opposed to intercollegiate athletics but I think they are over emphasized. Our athletics have brought us a stigma that can be removed by right regulation.

Ida V. Turney, assistant instructor in English: I do not favor entire abolition. There is a prevalent opinion that Oregon without intercollegiate athletics would become a female seminary.

CO-ED ATHLETES ELECT AND CONCOCT PLANS

The first meeting of the Women's Athletic Association was held in the Women's Gymnasium Thursday afternoon, with a small but enthusiastic number present.

Short, informal talks were given by Dr. Mabel Cummings and Miss Thompson of the Gymnasium Department on the object of the Association and the manner of conducting the various sports. Miss Thompson dwelt in detail on the inter-scholastic events to be held in the early spring and told of the prizes offered.

The heads of the various departments were elected as follows:

Hockey, Margaret Crosby; tennis, Frances Elizabeth Baker; archery, Elizabeth Hales; canoeing, Jessie Purdy; golf, Ada Hall; custodian, Dora Frances; reporter, Lucile Messner.

The voting on the heads of the departments of basketball and walking were held over until the next meeting.

Each present promised her help in securing new members, and also to arouse a campus spirit. The Women's Athletic Association is one of the newest branches of activities in the University, and to become a success, needs the support of every University woman. O. A. C. has a similar organization and in the early spring it is hoped that inter-collegiate matches may be held between the two schools.

It is hoped that a hockey game may be played with the O. A. C. in about a month, according to Miss Frieda Goldsmith, coach. The prospects for a winning team this season seem bright. The roll call this semester reported only two missing of the first team, Myra McFarland and Doris Ball being the only absentees. Five members of the second squad have reported for practice, besides fifteen newcomers. As there are only eleven places on the team, this leaves a wealth of material to choose from. Practice is held daily at 4 p. m. on the field behind the ball grounds.
