TEAM RETURNED SUNDAY

Band and Rooters Met "Huskies" and Rent the Night Air With Music and Yells.

(By Chester A. Fee)

The band played and the rooters yelled as the Oregon Electric rolled into the station Sunday night, and the husky team got off to be greeted with real enthusiasm and spirit. The latent Oregon spirit, about which everyone has been crabbing lately, just naturally rose up and spilled over. The boys were put into jitneys. The band followed. And behind came a waveling line of rooters who yelled themselves hoarse between Fifth and Eleventh streets. The football men hung their heads and were ashamed of the showing they made, but Oregon did not kick, for we knew that the best we possessed went into the game and that was all we asked for. We are just as proud to greet a defeated team as we are to march behind a victorious one—for they are all "men of Oregon."

The W. S. C. team is a wonderful bunch of drivers, and their coach is also a driver. To even suppose a team averaging 175 could make yardage against one weighing almost 190 seemed ridiculous, but to get to the facts and see that they made three times as much yardage as the Varsity is nothing short of miraculous. But their coach has come from a section where they rely upon something other than weight, and even speed; and this accounts for their showing. Not one of their men was an individual star, but all worked together in one of the finest machines which has ever been built up in the northwest.

Coach Bezdek is reported as saying, "We are going to have a big shakeup in the team, and from now on we are scheduled for hard work." And sure enough both remarks were qualified today when the tackling dummy, interference dummy, and falling on the ball practice were instituted, and the men buckled down to work. The rumors about a big shake up in the can (not the dope can) also left the realms of rumor to bask in that of reality. The men ought to acquire a certain shiftiness in time, now, for there is going to be no end to shifts of all characters, mainly however, in men and positions. Tonight Risley went back to his old position at center, Bartlett is playing tackle and Mitchell has stepped into his place at end, Beckett is back at tackle, Snyder at guard Tegert and Spellman at end and quarter, Tuerck and Malarkey at guard on the other side of the line, while behind the line Monteith is at halves and Huntington at fullback. The team, as it is lining up now is lighter than the former aggregation, but it will be faster at least, and no doubt more filled with "pep" and fight.

Where most of the fault with this year's team seems to lie is in the fact that we have a miserable second team who are unable to give the first string men any competition for their places or any real workouts in scrimmage. And the trouble does not lie with the men who are there every night, for they work as hard as they can, but with those who who are

Oregon Alumnus Speeds to the War

Patriotic Peter Crockett, '15, Finds More Charm in Fighting Than in Teaching.

Resigning his position in the United States to leave for England and fight for his native country, Scotland, Peter Crockett, '15, will leave for Canada in about two weeks time, to enter a training camp there, from where he will go to Europe.

Mr. Crockett, following his course in the University, began early this fall to teach oratory and public speaking in the Tillamook high school. Owing to the demand for men in the war, he decided very suddenly to enlist, not even waiting for the customary 30 days of his resignation to expire, before leaving. From all reports Mr. Crockett was "making good" in the school. In a letter to Professor Ayer, of the educational department of the University, the Tillamook school board recommended him very highly, saying that they did not like to lose such a capable member of their faculty.

A member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity said today that they had expected him back in Eugene for a two week's visit before leaving for the front. Mr. Crockett was a member of the '15 alumni of that fraternity.

NEWSPAPER PLAY TO ACCOMPANY MEETING

Guild Production to Be Given in Conjunction With Gathering of Journalism Teachers.

The next play to be given in the Guild theatre, "What the Public Wants," will be presented October 29, while the Western Association of Teachers of Journalism is convening in this city.

The play itself is a newspaper drama—a story of a man who tried to give the people, as the title of the play states, just what they want. He is unscrupulous, grasping, crooked and is running a number of the yellowest of journals. The play carries him through a series of stages which issue in a final reformation.

The cast chosen for the production follows: Sir Charles Worgan, Mr. Callison; Francis Worgan, Mr. Watkins; John Worgan, Mr. Smith; Saul Kendrick, Mr. Murdock; Holt St. John, Mr. Earl; Henry Cleland, Mr. Weiss; Simon Macquoid, Mr. Weinheimer; James Brinley, Mr. Shetterly; page, Mr. Sether; Emily Vernon, Miss Fenton; Mrs. Cleland, Miss Tuttle; Annie Worgan, Miss Peterson; Mrs. Worgan, Miss Reed; Mrs. Downes, Miss Walker; chairman of scene committee, Miss Purington; properties, Mr. Nelson.

In this, as all other Guild plays to be given throughout the winter, the scenery and properties will be entirely in the hands of the students, who will design and run the whole matter.

The editorial association, which will meet at the same time as the play will be given, embraces representatives from all the schools of journalism in the west. They will meet and discuss the various matters pertaining to the pedagogical side of the newspaper profession. Besides this, they will consider and define the various terms used in newspaper work. Their resolutions on these matters will be sent to the national association, which meets this winter in Kansas City.

A black hat was left in the Y. M. C. A. office last week, and the owner may have it if he will call.

WOMEN OF OREGON COMPARE FAVORABLY

Miss Cummings, New Physical Director, Notices Different Tendencies in the West.

BETTER FEET; POORER TEETH

Different Type of Shoes Worn in West But Coast Water Lacks Lime Is Opinion.

Better feet, inferior teeth, slighter stature and development are the principle characteristics wherein the young women of Oregon differ from those of Illinois, if the inferences which Miss Mabel Louise Cummings, physical director for women at the University of Oregon, has drawn from her physical examinations of 140 university women and her 12 years at the Illinois State Normal University, prove correct.

People here are more homogenous than they are in the middle west. They are farther developed in our nervous, dynamic American life than in my state," said Miss Cummings.

"The girls have infinitely better feet, which condition is due largely to the more sensible type of shoes worn by the women of the west.

"In the matter of teeth, they are inferior; although they show no signs of dental neglect. This condition may be due to a number of causes, the soft water which furnishes no lime for the teeth, the predominance of soft foods in their more lightly developed physiques.

"It is hard to differentiate between the girls of the two sections in matter of posture and carriage. At any rate, the women here do not surpass those farther east in this respect.

"I find my work among the girls here very interesting. They are well bred, pleasant, good natured, nicely mannered and dress more sensibly than those among whom I have been accustomed to work," she continued.

Supreme Court Justice and Journal Editor to be Here

A series of lectures featuring the various vocations of law, medicine, journalism, architecture, commerce, and education, and having such men as Frank A. Moore, chief justice of the state supreme court, John L. Travis, news editor of the Portland Oregon Journal, and Dr. K. A. J. MacKenzie, dean of the Portland medical school, for speakers, start tomorrow night in the new Guild theatre. The lectures are open to all students, but have been gotten up entirely by the freshmen, with the cooperation of the University Y. M. C. A.

This is the first time that such an undertaking has been attempted, and the first time such prominent speakers have consented to come and give their time to the University students to help them fix their choice on some particular profession. "The success of these meetings depends entirely upon the interest shown by the students," said Douglas Foster, the general secretary.

The meetings start tomorrow night—at 6:45 o'clock, and will be led off by Dr. D. W. Morton, dean of the commerce department.

Over 70 per cent of the new students who enter college and a large per cent of the old have failed to decide upon their life work, according to estimates made by various universities.

JUNIOR DANCE PLANS WELL UNDER WAY

Evening Festivities to Feature End of Home-Coming Day November 20.

EXPECTS CROWNING SUCCESS

Emmet Rathburn Heads Coterie of Committees For Big Alumni Event.

The junior alumni dance, as an appropriate end for home-coming day, will take place on the day of the O. A. C. game, on November 20. Emmet Rathburn is in charge of arrangements.

Rathburn is the general chairman, and under him will be the different committees.

The decoration committee, headed by Bernice Lucas, includes Joe Bell, Jack Elliot, Eulalie Crosby, and Myrtle Tobey.

The programs will be under the head of Helen Curry, with Howard Hall and Marion Reed as assistants.

Music will be a big feature. Echo Zahl, chairman, and Merna Brown and Bob Langley promise big things.

The floor committee, consisting of Roland Geary, chairman, Martin Nelson, Wayne Stater, Richard Nelson, and Ernest Watkins, are in charge of all the heavy work of the evening.

Punch will be served as a refreshment. Leone Williams, chairman, and Lelia Cushman and Bernard Breeding are in charge of this end of the dance.

With the O. A. C. and home-coming day on the same week-end, Mr. Rathburn looks forward to a great success. "We expect this dance to be by far the best dance of the year. With the advantages of the attraction of the day it should have a record crowd," he says.

Charles P. Taft, son of former President William H. Taft, is playing halfback on the Yale team.

Avengers Capture Freshmen at Noon

Wrath of Upperclassmen Vents Itself On "Frosh" and Hot-Hand Ceremony Results.

Speedy nemesis overtook the freshman class at high noon today, for invoking the wrath of the upper classmen by mutilating the sacred senior bench last night.

As soon as the 1919 trade-marks were discovered this morning, the word sped from upper classmen to upper classmen.

At noon the "frosh" were greeted at the various houses by vigilantes, who avenged the action in numerous ways. Some of the freshmen were denied their noonday lunch, others were bath-tubbed.

After these preliminary punishments were over, the offenders were marched to the campus, where the Oregon seal in front of Villard hall was given a much-needed polishing, and the ceremonies were completed with a hot-hand and osculatory party at the senior bench.

SPORTING EDITOR WILL LECTURE IN DECEMBER

Journalistic students, as well as many others, are anxiously awaiting the opportunity of hearing Mr. Henry Phillip Burchell, the sporting editor of the New York Times. Mr. Burchell will be in Eugene for seven hours on the afternoon of December 3. Plans are already under way to entertain him, while he is here.

The speaker is considered one of the few big men in his line of work in this country. For the past 16 years he has been at the head of the Times' sporting page, and he is universally recognized as an authority on all matters of sporting interest.

In the course of his travels he has talked to thousands of students. So impressive was his lecture to the Columbia School of Journalism that Director Talbot Williams, of Columbia, is going to include the sporting side of the newspaper business in his school's curriculum.

BABES WIN FROM "PREPS" IN HARD FOUGHT GAME

The University freshmen football team won a hard-fought game against the Eugene high school on Kincaid field Saturday, by the score of 9 to 0.

Both the teams fought a scoreless half. In the beginning of the second half the high school advanced the ball within one foot of the goal, but failed to put it over. Towards the middle of the last quarter, the freshmen, with Morfit carrying the ball, registered a touchdown. Three more points were annexed by the freshmen when Mast made a sensational 15-yard drop kick.

The high school showed considerable improvement over their first game with the freshmen last Saturday. Both teams were fast, and a snappy game was the result.

The line-up for the freshmen was: Center, Herlinger; R. G. Johns; L. G., Brown; R. T., Peil; L. T., Madden; L. E., Barbour; R. E., Cooke; Q., Holcomb; L. H., McDonald; F. B., Morfitt; R. H., Mast. The high school lineup was: Center, McCallum; R. G., Trout; L. G., Hensen; R. T., Campbell; L. T., Pixley; L. E., Newman; R. E., Davis, Q., Smith, L. H., Shaffer, R. H. Foster; F. B., Christensen.

The Y. M. C. A. at Wabash College has adopted a new method of assessment. Instead of paying regular monthly dues, as heretofore, each member pays just as much as he feels able to, and at such times as he feels able to pay.

ASSEMBLY WILL HEAR IMPORTANT QUESTIONS TOMORROW MORNING

Eugene Merchants Suggest Profit Sharing Basis to Committee Chairman.

12 AMENDMENTS ARE UP

Store Problem, Home-Coming Day and Out Rule to Be Considered By Student Body.

Shall the students of the University buy their goods on a profit-sharing basis from the merchants of Eugene? This plan, suggested by one of the merchants, will be brought before the members of the student council Wednesday by Chester Miller, chairman of the cooperative store committee.

Miller visited the merchants to get their opinion of the possibility of a cooperative store and was forced to await the meeting of the Merchants' Protective association. However, one man suggested the plan of making his store the headquarters for student trade on the following basis: Each student was to buy a 25 cent ticket at the first of the year, and should be given a credit slip for each additional purchase. At the end of the year if the sales amounted to $10, the student would be given 5 per cent on his purchases. If the sales were $15, 7 per cent; $20, 8 per cent, and so on.

Reports of the committee for home-coming day will be submitted to the council by Max Sommer, chairman of that committee. The fraternities and sororities have sent out letters to their alumni urging them to be present, and according to Lamar Tooze, there will be about 10,000 visitors that day.

Another matter to be brought up Wednesday will be a modification of the present cut rule. Under the present system all lose their hours, but under the proposed change the rule would not effect upper classmen at all.

Beside 12 constitutional amendments to be presented to the students for approval at the assembly, Wednesday, a total revision and clarification of the constitution will be considered.

Cloyd Dawson, chairman of the committee composed of Anson Cornell, Eva Brock, Louise Bailey, Bothwell Avison and Max Sommer, will present the 12 amendments.

Chester Miller, chairman of the committee on resolutions will submit the resolutions of condolence for the late regent, S. H. Friendly.

Another important move for consideration at this time will be the advisability of student body control of the Oregon in the future. An amendment to this effect will be presented by Bothwell Avison, chairman of the student council, and junior class committee.

These amendments are: First amendment: Repealing the amendment passed last year providing that each class should retain same faculty advisor for entire four years of college.

A resolution providing that the freshman faculty advisor remain as at present and at end of freshman year that class elect a faculty advisor to serve them for remainder of college course.

Second Amendment: The vice-president of the student body shall be a member of the student council.

Third Amendment: To provide an oath of office for officers of the associated students.

Fourth Amendment: To strike out
