The following resolutions were also adopted for the late Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway, who has always been deeply interested in this University and its projects, and who has often spoken before the student body in behalf of the proposed woman's memorial building:

"Whereas, Almighty God in his infinite wisdom has seen fit to remove from the activities of life, our friend, Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway, and

Elusive "J" Box Wearies Co-Ed

"Devil" With Stick and Rule Finds "Sticking" No Rosy Hued Job for Beginners.

Trials of students in the typographical laboratory course are evidently many, if the following extract, which was part of an exercise in typesetting, is an example. The article in which it appeared was a lengthy one dealing with the "Possibilities of Earning One's Way Through College," and the would-be printer had labored her way through about one-half when she gave vent to her feelings in this outburst:

"Mr. DeLay, will you please come here and show me where the j's are. They keep moving around. Sometimes they are with the hyphens, but most always are fooling around among the blank spaces. I get kind of weary hunting for them.

What makes them have j's anyhow? I wonder if it isn't just about four."

Notice

All students and faculty interested in the organization of a chapter of the Intercollegiate Socialist society are invited to meet in the office of Dr. E. S. Bates, in Villard hall, at 4 o'clock, Friday afternoon.

BAND LEADER SOON DUE

Albert Perfect, Crack Clarinetist, Is Expected to Arrive Saturday Afternoon.

Albert Perfect, the new band leader for the University band, will arrive Saturday afternoon," said Professor R. H. Lyman this afternoon.

Mr. Perfect will commence the directing of the University organization next week. He is rated as a crack clarinetist and it is expected he will spend much time in strengthening the reed section of the band, the weakest department at this time. The new director is a graduate of the Royal Conservatory of Music, located at Stockholm, Sweden, and studied for some time under world-famous musicians in Germany. He has specialized in band music arrangement. He is recently from the State Normal school of North Dakota.

The band this year is well filled as to departments, the cornet, baritone, and trombone sections being exceptionally strong. The organization will number about 25 pieces for the Oregon-O. A. C. game, November 20.

OCTOBER 23 DAY SET FOR WOMEN'S HOCKEY GAME

Friday, October 23 is the date set for the U. of O.-O. A. C. hockey game at Eugene. All the arrangements have been completed and this date is final.

The team is not picked as yet, but tentative lineups have been tried out during the past week. The fact that the scrubs have been regularly out playing the regulars will necessitate some radical changes. Mollie Van Zante, Eyla Walker, Teresa Cox, and Fennie Hunter are easily the best players on the first team. Ruth Boque and Cecil Bahl are showing up strongly in the scrub contingent.

REJUVENATED TEAM HAS LOTS OF "PEP"

Football Boys Don't Care What Idaho Has—They Want to Fight.

PLUVIUS SOAKS KINCAID

Dry Ground and Dust Was Hard On Lungs and Muscles, Responsible for Condition.

(By Chester Fee)

Idaho's strong team, which is backed by the students to defeat W. S. C. in their annual battle (even after all that has been seen of the latter) will open their conference season here Saturday, and will liberate all the stuff their coach has been hammering into them for the past five weeks. No one knows what Idaho possesses, but we conclude they are real championship contenders, for Moscow sportsmen, after watching the Oregon-W. S. C. game, are insistent in their demands to be shown some of the filthy lucre that requires covering.

The feeling that is seeking an outlet behind the iron bars of Kincaid jail can be stated thus—And this is the way all the men put it: "We don't care what Idaho has; we will fight the same for Oregon against any team. Let's go." And then they do go, and keep going, until it grows so dark the whitewashed pigskin is substituted for the daylight ball, and the lights splutter from the arcs, and then they go again, until some of the men complain that one foot gets so tired it does not even want to associate with the more ambitious one ahead. The other men grin and bear it. But still they all go.

Old Jup. Pluvius left the flood gates ajar yesterday, so Manager Tiffany was not forced by the long-continued hot weather to drag out the hose and set men at work on the field. The hard field and the dust thereon are largely responsible for the poor showing the men have been making. Their muscles are tied up in big knots from running and falling upon the best hard-surface pavement in the city, and the dust wrecks

COUNCIL COPES WITH RADICAL PROBLEMS

Plan Proposed Releasing Upperclassmen From Present Non-Accumulative Cut Rule

ORCHESTRA IS DENIED "O'S"

Opening Student Legislature to Body Politic Discussed and Urged for "Ultimate Good"

"Everybody get ideas and get 'em good and radical," urged President Lamar Tooze at the student council meeting Wednesday night. "That's the only way we'll ever get anywhere."

And the student council is getting ideas—lots of them. Shall a cooperative store be located on the campus? Could some industry be induced to enter Eugene which would give employment to students? Would it be better to confine the cut rule to underclassmen? Should underclass representatives be admitted to the student council? These were some of the important questions discussed.

Chester Miller was unable to make a complete report on the cooperative store question, as he has not yet received replies from some of the colleges to which he wrote, inquiring as to their success in this enterprise. Stanford describes a successful experiment. The store has a building of its own, has no difficulty in disposing of the capital stock, and declares 10 per cent dividends. Reed College reports, however, that their store has not proved a success. They attribute this to the small student body. The council decided to investigate the matter thoroughly before coming to any definite conclusion.

Floyd Westerfield, manager of the Emerald, was present at the meeting, and presented the case of the Eugene merchants with regard to Emerald advertising. He also discussed their attitude toward the cooperative store plan.

A committee composed of Cleve Simpkins, Eva Brock, and Genevieve Shaver, was appointed to confer with E. Dike Hooper, promotion manager

"Tell Truth About Oregon" Advises George E. Hardy

"Why exaggerate Oregon—tell the truth; that's all we need," said George E. Hardy, executive secretary of the Portland Chamber of Commerce in an address given before the commerce class of the University this afternoon.

Mr. Hardy, formerly of Toledo, Ohio, has had experience in commercial club matters, and says that the trouble with most bodies of this kind is that they "do not deliver the goods."

"From four commercial clubs in 1804, and 79 in 1904, the number has increased to 2940 in 1913. People begin to find out that large groups of people have more influence than when the members are acting in small numbers.

"Oregon needs people; here is a great undeveloped section which has great possibilities. Our population is about 800,000, and manufacturers are shouting about using Oregon made goods in Oregon. Do these men want to build a fence around a state that has a population of 800, 000?" These are some of the things Mr. Hardy said regarding the trade conditions in Oregon.

"Farmers cannot depend on farmers alone; agricultural and industrial development must go hand in hand and the two must be well balanced. The development of the Columbia river ought to interest all Oregon. As it is, most of the trade has gone to the Puget sound country, but with the development of the Columbia river and with proper management much of this trade could be brought to Oregon," continued Mr. Hardy.

"The Chamber of Commerce should be ready to cooperate and do just as much for one part of the state as for another. It can bring the people closer together, so that one section will know what the other section is doing. The business interests also find the Chamber of Commerce a machine through which they can deal. The Trenton Commercial club of Trenton, Missouri, has the right motto, "Get to know your neighbor, you might like him."

Stanford Women Grilled on Hazing

Sororities Are Too Rough in Rushing Tactics, Say Chaplain and Editor.

Stanford University, Oct. 11.—The evils of college hazing and of the "rushing" of freshmen girls by the sororities of Stanford University were put on the grill by Dr. D. Charles Gardner, chaplain of the Memorial church, at the morning service yesterday.

The manner of rushing the freshmen girls, which is conducted under the rules of Pan-Hellenic, a society made up of representatives of all the sororities on the campus, has become one of the big issues of the year at Stanford, since the recent attack on the system made by Professor Everett Smith, journalism instructor and editor of the Palo Alto, the Stanford student weekly.

Professor Smith, through the columns of the paper, has started a campaign against the present methods, and has been so successful in arousing sentiment against the Pan-Hellenic rules that a change seems imminent.

In speaking of hazing and "rushing" at Stanford, Dr. Gardner said: "Some day a Stanford student will be killed by our hazing. Then we will stop. Why not stop now, before the fatal work is done? We know the danger. Now is the time to take heed."

Y. W. PRESIDENT CHOSEN

Louise Allen Is Elected Tuesday to Fill Unexpired Term of Katharine Bridges.

Louise H. Allen was unanimously elected president of the Y. W. C. A., to fill out the unexpired term of Katharine Bridges, at the "Seabeck" meeting, Tuesday afternoon. Miss Bridges had resigned, giving lack of time as her reason.

The meeting, which was attended by about 65 girls, contained several features. Besides singing parodied songs with ukulele accompaniment, the seven Seabeck representatives told tales of how Dorothy Wheeler wrestled the tennis championship from Idaho and Montana in the finals, from a University of Washington girl; how at Centralia, the delegation sang Oregon songs out the car windows until the G. A. R., which was in session there, came down and presented them with medals—to stop; and how the Oregon bunch was the lustiest and next biggest at the conference.

The speakers were Mrs. C. H. Edmondson, Louise Allen, Ruth Westfall, Frances Schenk, Dorothy Wheeler, Jewel Tozier, and Miss Gillies.

Three other representatives, bringing the Oregon quota at Seabeck up to 10, were Mabel Miller, Lillie Miller and Marjory Gillies. About 240 girls attended the Seabeck conference.

Dean Clark of the University of Toronto has received cable information from the British war office, announcing that the fourth and fifth year medical students who left for the war last year, will be allowed the option of returning and completing their college work. The demand in the present war for fully qualified doctors appears to be very great.

Bernard Nathan, who died recently in Germany, awarded a yearly scholarship endowment of $5000 to the University of California, to be apportioned among students of Jewish parentage.

ANTE UP PAJAMAS! BE ONE OF THE BUNCH! GET IN THE PEE-RADE!

Big U. of O.-Idaho Rally Scheduled For Tomorrow Night Starts at Dorm.

PRIZES UP FOR COSTUME

Serpentine Begins at 7—Goes Down Town—Through Sororities—Then to Villard.

(By Walter S. Kenoon)

All out for the pajama parade! Ante up a pair of old pajamas and be one of the bunch. If you don't possess such things, rake up a costume and be original, the more unique the better. But everybody out is the main idea and help foment the Oregon spirit that will raise the standard of victory for our team in the game with Idaho Saturday.

The serpentine will start from the dormitory at 7 p. m. sharp. The band in full dress will lead the parade, followed by the classes in order of seniority. Yell Leader Merlin Batley and his lieutenants will then conduct the procession to Willamette street, gathering recruits from the various fraternities on the way. The members of the houses are urged to be ready so that there will be no delay.

When the human snake reaches the business section, it will coil and startle the natives with a few vigorous oskies, locomotives and other Oregon yells. Chaplins, the clowns and the rest of the freaks will perform in their best sideshow style.

On the return route the line will rah! rah! Oregon its way through the sororities and thence to Villard hall. It is especially urged that the women attend this part of the rally as their part of the Oregon pep fest.

The events at Villard will be snappy, with no delays. Short speeches will be made by President Campbell, A. C. Dixon of the board of regents, Coach Bezdek, Bill Hayward and Captain Anso Cornell.

Here also the various costumed characters will be judged. The first prize for the most unique costume consists of two seats for the Eugene theatre Saturday evening and the second prize will be announced later.

"I want the hearty cooperation of every one in the University," said Yell Leader Batley, "women as well as men. I want 'em all."

Let's go!

CALIFORNIA DANCING DECLARED IMMORAL

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 13.—Dancing at University of California socials has an immoral tone, according to an article appearing today in Brass Tacks, a University publication. The article, written by Josepha Wadsworth, declares this due to the fact that University girls haven't "the courage to protest against the abandonment and license of the modern dance forms."

Because the women of the freshman class seemed too important, the women's sophomore student council of the University of Montana met and imposed the following regulations: All freshmen girls shall wear "frosh" green ribbon, at all times, in all places, on every occasion; freshmen who wish to display the pictures of men shall do so only on condition that these pictures be pinned to the curtain and that said picture be labelled with the correct name, age, and relationship.
