

STUDENTS TO PLEDGE LOYALTY FOLLOWING GOVERNOR'S ADDRESS

Hon. James Withycombe, State Executive, to Appear Before Student Body.

IS FOURTH ANNUAL CEREMONY

Idea of Pledging Allegiance Originated With Prof. Young. First Observed in 1912.

Students' Pledge to the State

"As a student of this University, that is maintained by the people of Oregon, I heartily acknowledge the obligation I shall owe to them. The opportunities open to me here for securing training, ideals, and vision for life I deeply appreciate and regard as a sacred trust, and do hereby pledge my honor that it shall be my most deeply cherished purpose to render as bountiful a return to the Oregon people and their posterity in faithful and ardent devotion to the common good as will be in my power. It shall be the aim of my life to labor for the highest good and glory of an even greater commonwealth."

This is the pledge that will be administered to the student body of the University, Wednesday morning in assembly, by Governor James Withycombe, of the state of Oregon.

The pledge will be read by the governor at the close of his address, "The Student's Relationship to the State," and the students will take the pledge standing.

Pledge day, which appears to be an institution peculiar to the University of Oregon, was originated by F. G. Young, professor of economics and sociology, who also wrote the pledge. The day was first observed in 1912. The exercises then were held on the campus, and the classes took the vow in order of seniority.

"The idea of the pledge is this," says Professor Young, "University students have the benefit of the institution supported by the taxpayers. All who support the school cannot attend. It is only proper that those who do attend and become indebted should make acknowledgment of it."

The complete program for assembly is the following:

- 9:30—Singing of Oregon songs.
10:00—Scripture reading, by Reverend C. E. Hill.

Prayer—C. A. Wooddy, America.

Address, "Some State Problems to Be Met."—W. K. Newell.

Address, "The Student's Relationship to the State."—Governor Withycombe.

Reading of the pledge, and acceptance.

COMMERCE CLUB TO MEET AND DISCUSS LUMBER

A discussion of the "Lumber Business in Oregon" has been planned by the program committee of the Commerce club for the meeting tomorrow night. The discussion has been subdivided into three parts. The first division "Forestry and Standing Timber of Oregon," will be given by Jack Elliott; the second, "Lumber Manufacturing in Oregon," by Ernest Watkins, and the third, "The Effect of Tariff Legislation on the Lumber Industry of Oregon," by Roger Jayne.

Two Poetically Plead For Nuts

Deady Hall Bulletin Board Holds Sentimental Production

Who are the "Nuts?" Evidently a new honor society, whose membership is something greatly to be desired, judging from the little ballad that appeared on the bulletin board in front of Deady hall, Monday morning, October 18.

Although the meter may be somewhat faulty the sentiment cannot be mistaken:

"We're pledging to all who are Nuts And especially to those who are Nuts, We want to be Nuts like the rest And enjoy the times that best, No denizen of the whole can purry, To such good Nuts can boast as we; To be Nuts is our college ambition, Or throw us back into mad perdition, Because we are two Nuts so good, Essay to class us in your brood, Now listen, our plea is not ended, Understand so persistent are we To Nuts of might to be blended, Success in our aim must be."

Notice

Members of Triple A who expect to go on the picnic Wednesday, October 20, meet at the Y. M. C. A. bungalow at 4 o'clock and bring a dime.

PETITION NECESSARY TO EXTEND HOURS

Money Must be Allowed by Regents in Order to Extend Hours.

LIBRARY THE FOCAL CENTER

Members of Faculty Heartily in Favor of Keeping Library Open More.

The University library cannot remain open longer hours or on Friday and Saturday nights until more money is allowed for this purpose, according to M. H. Douglass, librarian.

"At any rate, we have received no definite expression of student opinion officially, through the student council. If the sentiment is in favor of the library's keeping longer hours, we would like to have a formal statement of it in the form of a petition from the council. Personally, if any change is made, I should be in favor of trying the experiment on Friday night, only at first, and including Saturday evening later, if there is demand for it."

Mr. Douglass has estimated the increased expense of this move, and it is now in the hands of the president.

16 AMENDMENTS UP FOR VOTE TOMORROW

Election to Be Held in Villard From 10 A. M. to 2 P. M. Polls Open at Noon.

Voting Ballots Refer to Measures By Caption Only So Study of Emerald Urged.

With judges appointed and ballots prepared, all arrangements have been completed for the special student body election tomorrow, in Villard hall, from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. Sixteen amendments are up for judgment. Twelve are submitted to clarify passages in the constitution. Four provide for radical changes.

Owing to number and length of the articles, it will not be possible to have them printed in entirety on the ballots. Only the title of each, with sufficient identification, will appear; and to simplify both voting and counting, at the top of the ballot will be placed No. 100—"Yes"; No. 101—"No." A vote cast on the "Yes" line at this place will denote a straight "Yes" ticket.

Anyone in favor of some of the amendments, but opposed to others will leave this space at the top

Would Rear Girls In Manly Training

So Says Woman Instructor at Vassar College, and Is Greeted With Applause.

Poughkeepsie, Oct. 12.—Emily James Putnam, associate in history at Barnard College, was greeted with applause when she said:

"I would have girls reared to be manly. I would have them trained in dangerous sports, where their safety of life and limb depends upon their physical power. I would have them discard their hampering clothing. I would have them learn the ordinary art of self defense. I would have them openly carry guns.

"There is no man who would want to change place with his own wife, giving as reasons woman's inferior physique, her economic inferiority and her emotional instability. Correct the former by having girls engage in manly sports and not cry when they are hurt. The colleg woman and the industrially engaged woman are answering the second. The third can be overcome by stopping sentimental leaks."

IDAHO GAME CUTS DOPE CARDS 50-50 FOR OREGON PLAYERS

Great Bezdekian Rejuvenation of Team Shows Which Style of Football Is Best.

GENERAL WORK IS BETTER

O. A. C. Fracas a "Stew Spiller" and Aggies May Come Back as Strong as Lemon-Yellow.

(By Chester Fee)

We did it. But it is no time to crow yet, for there are two other roosters, namely Whitman and O. A. C., still scraping around in the conference football scrap heap, waiting to be hammered up. And the Willamette is crouching behind the fence, catlike, hoping to seize the lemon-yellow unsuspecting, as they did a couple of years ago. Willamette looks easy, but Whitman may turn to be that proverbial thorn; as they have been for some time, year after year. And lastly, O. A. C. is far from conquered yet. Three years ago they were defeated 47-0 by Washington, yet Oregon was only able to beat them 3-0, despite the fact that the Varsity piled up 14 points against Washington's 30. So Oregon can expect a strong comeback, comparable to its own rejuvenation, on November 20.

Perhaps the greatest change ever brought about in Northwest football circles in such a short time, was sprung by Coach Bezdek, when he whipped a conquered team into a bunch of conquerors. Everybody knew that if the fellows would work as the coach commanded, that Oregon would have a team, and this has been successfully demonstrated. The first honors go to the coach; and to the men, the second, for they deserve credit and praise even, for their work, and the attempt to observe more closely the training rules, which had heretofore been sadly neglected.

Oregon did not win Saturday because it ran up against a "sad" team. Many people think this, but I think a careful consideration of the facts will disprove this contention. Oregon rushed the Idaho team off their feet in the first half, for they were suspecting nothing of the sort. They knew what the lemon-yellow didn't have at Pullman, and straight football was all they expected to receive. But Oregon sprung an entirely new line of thought and got away with it.

Notable among the improvements were interference, tackling, and general offense. The team seemed able to go when they wanted to, but at times that Idaho spirit checked the boys, as in the third period, when Oregon had the ball close to their goal, but were unable to put it over.

From the standpoint of real football, the last half was better than the first, in that both teams were able to get away about the same. To those that still insist that Idaho was weak, we cite this instance. And if Purdy, a former Oregon man, who was substituted for quarter near the end of the third quarter, had been in that position all of the game, there might be a far different story to rehearse now. He was a running, dodging demon—always shifting around several Oregon would-be tacklers before he fell into someone's arms.

The Oregon men, for the first time in three years, left their feet when they were tackling, or running interference, and herein lay much of their
