Boost For Home-Coming Day!

HOME-COMING day, according to present plans, will be one of the greatest get-together pageants that the University of Oregon has ever engineered—even greater than junior week-end.

But with these strenuous celebrations there is a necessary evil, and that is the stress and strain of every student in preparing for the event. There must be a great deal of personal sacrifice, but it is necessary for the success of the effort. The campus will be crowded, studies will have to suffer, beds will have to be surrendered to guests, hungry students will have to serve at first tables and eat the remaining scraps, questions by the thousand will have to be answered, and present joys will have to go unheeded in the turmoil.

But with all this preparation and discomfiture Oregon will reap its benefits. If the venture is a success, the good-will alone will be capitalized throughout the state and the profit to the University will be enormous. Every visitor will have a good word or thought for Oregon. And good thoughts are the forerunners of good deeds.

But the primary question is to prepare for certain success, and afterwards lay back in solid comfort, musing on the results. Every student is urged to write to alumni friends, to relatives as well as prospective relatives, to sweethearts; and in the writing gently mention, nay, urge, invite, and entreat them all to gather at the University of Oregon on November 20 for the best time of their lives.

Seniors! Look at Your Bench.

PURE VANDALISM—and if it were not for the restriction of a public statement, we would denounce it in terms not sanctioned by Webster—is the only epithet that we can use to describe the action of the individual or individuals who mutilated the senior memorial bench after the freshmen went on record last week as disfavoring the former mutilation. Obviously the second perpetration is not the work of freshmen, as an organized body. It looks like the work of individuals of the middle classes. When such an offense degenerates into mere kiddish deviltry, it is high time that something happen. And we recommend that the student council take the matter up, record its disapproval, and proceed to thorough investigation. And if the party or parties are found we strongly recommend an all-university Mill Race party, and will be glad to help arrange for the refreshments at any such party. However, if the guilty persons are apprehended we do not in any wise favor handling it as they do in the south. Make it an all-university affair, and then there is little chance for repetition or anybody involuntarily leaving college.

For the acme of "pep" we have to hand it to the students of Pittsburg University, who, tagged as cattle were shipped in a freight car to Philadelphia at $6 per head, for the purpose of seeing their team win or lose on the gridiron. We always knew that Pittsburg, like Milwaukee, was famous for its "pep."

Who says that college women are not capable of voting? The votes-for-women movement received great impetus at the University of Iowa, when the co-eds decided by a large majority that President Wilson is acting hasty in getting married again.

CAMPUS NOTES

Katherine Bridges spent the week-end at her home near Portland.

Harold Cockerline, 12, Edward Bailey, '13, and Lee Anderson of Albany, were week-end visitors at the Phi Delta Theta house.

Ernest Bell was a luncheon guest at the Iota Chi house Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gooding and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Becke of Aurora, spent Sunday evening at the Sigma Chi house. They are on their way home, after spending a month at the exposition in San Francisco.

Kenneth Shetterly returned to Eugene Monday afternoon from Wilhelmina, where he was called last Wednesday by the death of his father.

Dinner guests from the Gamma Phi Beta at the Alpha Tau Omega house Sunday were Mrs. Weir, house mother, and the Misses Nita Hunter, Kate Stanfield, Eva Brock, Sarah Barker and Genevieve Dickey.

The Alpha Tau Omega boys have a bowling team which they claim can beat any fraternity team on the campus. Anyone wishing a game communicate with Walter J. Kirk, at the A. T. O. house.

Herbert Howell of the Phi Delta Sigma house at O. A. C., was a visitor at Sigma Chi last Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Jamison were visitors on the campus this week.

President Campbell attended the meeting of the State Library commission in Salem last Tuesday afternoon. The president opened the Y. M. C. A. vocational talks at O. A. C. in the evening. He spoke on "Some Principles Affecting the Choice of a Calling."

Nebraskans Visit Campus

Motoring from Lincoln, Nebraska, to the fair at San Francisco, Nathan Thomas, Thomas Thorpe, and R. L. Voelker reached Eugene yesterday from Portland. Voelker joined the other members of the party in Portland. Mr. Thomas and Mr. Thorpe left Lincoln about the first of August, and expect to return there about the first of December. The return trip will be made by way of Arizona. The party spent Sunday evening at the Sigma Chi house. They left Monday morning for the McKenzie country, where they will spend the week-end hunting.

FACULTY GET IN GAME

Committee Appointed to Consider Advisability of Having Building For Professors.

A committee has been appointed to consider the advisability of having a faculty club on the campus. The members are Professor W. F. G. Thacher, Dr. Orin F. Stafford, and Professor D. W. Morton.

The proposed club was to have included the male members of the faculty club. Its headquarters were to have been in some house near the campus, where the members could have enjoyed many of the pleasures of regular city club life. However, the members of this committee have not found very considerable enthusiasm over the project among the faculty.

"The opinion of the faculty in general is that such a club would not be advisable in this University," said Professor Thacher, chairman of the committee. "The idea was merely to have a place where the men of the faculty could get together. It might even have afforded boarding and sleeping accommodations for the bachelor members. But the general trend of opinion is, at present, that the faculty men do not want such an organization here."

Professor Stafford said that the clubs of this kind at the University of Washington and at Seattle were highly successful.

"They are modeled after the city club, with a billiard room, a dining room, a social room with a fireplace and easy chairs, and even a dormitory, where the bachelor members may live. The Seattle club is on a small scale. That of Berkeley is a large affair and will accommodate many men. The matter has not been definitely decided upon, nor has the committee given its report before the colloquium, but I have found, after talking with members of the faculty, that such a club is not wanted."
