Oregon at Home to Its Alumni.

ALMA MATER will be on the receiving line this week-end for her hundreds of loyal sons and daughters, and she is beckoning for all to come to this, the greatest reunion that Oregon has ever held.

Never in the history of the University have preparations so elaborate been made for a Home-Coming Day. And as a result Oregon expects a record-breaking attendance. Every alumni can be taken care of here.

Those in charge of the celebration have adopted as their policy to instill into the older sons and daughters of Oregon the same old spirit which they helped create and handed down to the present generation. Alumni and students will mingle with a common bond of sympathy—that of allegiance to Oregon.

The citizens of Eugene, ardent for the welfare of Oregon, have joined in the pageant, and will extend a welcome to all visitors. The streets will be decorated in lemon-yellow and will team with University life in the form of pajamereeno-pee-rades, pep-fests, yelling and drills. Oregon intends to give its visitors a demonstration of the Oregon Spirit that has accomplished so much and is ever ready to strive for more.

Luncheons, receptions and dances have been arranged for the visiting alumni. And amid all of the celebration there will be the oldtime galantry. Handsome fussers and beautiful fussees will greet the visitors. It will be a festival that will make history for the University.

The climax of the pageant will be the game against O. A. C.—Oregon's enemy of old. The team is primed to do its part and the rest can only be done by rooting from students and alumni. In Portland there has been organized rooters' practice for the game.

What Oregon needs is a large delegation of her old students. Surely every ex-Oregon student can tear himself away from the worries that are and return for at least one day to the old campus and Alma Mater.

Seldom does the Emerald essay to mention within the editorial columns student projects of individual concern and conducted for individual gain, but the Oregon student who is planning to improve the old Millrace and to make it a student recreation resort deserves mention and patronage. The new management of the Raceway intends to cater to a college clientele, and to improve the race for college exponents of canoe and paddle. In addition work is promised to students who are under pressure of earning their ways through school. Surely such a project merits investigation and encouragement.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

An extension trip of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. was made last Saturday and Sunday to Springfield. Eighteen members of the two associations were entertained at a reception Saturday night and spoke in the various churches Sunday. Last week's deputation consisted of Ruth Westfall, Marlon Reed, Anita Miller, Louise Allen, Myra McFarland, Verna Springer, Mary Gillies, Walter Dimm, Cloyd Dawson, C. B. Corbitt, George Morehouse, Wendell Bartholomew Leo Cossman, Gerry Watkins, Douglass Corpron, J. D. Foster and Doctor A. E. Caswell.

Prayer will be held every evening of this week in the Y. M. C. A. room in the basement of Deady Hall. This is in compliance with the custom that is being followed by all the Y. M. C. A.'s in the United States of setting aside one week of the year for daily prayer. Bishop Sumner will be present at several of the local meetings.

Christian Associations to Feed.

In an effort to re-enforce Y. W. C. A. budgets for the ensuing year, plans have been laid for the erection of booths for the dispensation of sandwiches, coffee and anything else which might satisfy or appeal to the visitors' wants on November 20.

Permission from the city was granted for the erection of a booth in front of Villard on the curb of Elventh street and it is probable that this will be the location of at least one of the stands. The site will attract the home-comers' attention as he first arrives, since the S. P. will load and unload the football fans at this place.

Between halves of the game the eats will be distributed through the grandstand by the Y. M. C. A. and yellow chrysanthemums will be sold by the Y. W. C. A. girls.

Announcement.

Bishop Sumner will be in Professor O'Donnell's office in Deady Hall each afternoon of this week and will be glad to meet any students who desire interviews with him.

Philosophers Organize New Club.

A Philosophy club composed of students from Dr. Rebec's philosophy classes was organized Thursday afternoon following the history of philosophy recitation period. The charter members of the new organization are E. H. Hedrick, L. B. Blades, C. E. Furguson, H. Bull, W. Hayes, P. E. Baker and H. J. Wells. Perfect open-mindedness and freedom of discussion on all questions of a philosophic nature is the aim of the new club. That the gatherings may be entirely informal no regular officers have been elected, but a leader will be selected each meeting to choose subject for discussion at the following meeting. Hedrick will act as leader when the club holds its first regular session next Wednesday evening. A committee has been appointed to secure a suitable room for the club and regular meetings will probably be held every two weeks.
