OREGON ALUMNI VISIT ALMA MATER EN ROUTE HOME FOR HOLIDAYS

Former Students Are Entertained by Relatives and Friends.

The University city was a mecca for Oregon graduates during the Christmas holidays. Many returned to spend Christmas at home, to visit friends, relatives and to stop off at Eugene on their way to other places to spend the holidays.

Edward Bailey, '13, star guard and all Northwest player on the Varsity for several years, spent Christmas day with his parents in Eugene. Ed. is now connected with the law firm of Weatherford and Weatherford of Albany and is also coaching the Albany college football team which has closed a successful season.

Dr. H. C. Eastland, '05, of Halfway, eastern Oregon, visited his father, R. E. Eastland in Eugene during the holidays. Dr. Eastland secured his B. A. degree in 1905 and his M. D. in 1909 and is a practicing physician of Halfway.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Barzee, '13 and '15 respectively, of Stockton, California, where Mr. Barzee is head of the commercial department in the Stockton high school, spent holidays in Eugene and Portland visiting their parents. Mrs. Barzee was formerly Miss Velma Sexton of Eugene and a member of Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Barzee is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity. He taught in Eugene high school before going to Stockton. They were married last summer.

W. E. Moses, '11, principal of the high school at Central Point, stopped off in Eugene during the holidays on his way to Jefferson to spend the vacation at home.

Elmer Spencer, ex-'16, now teaching in southern Oregon, spent the vacations in Eugene visiting friends.

Kenneth Martindale, former student, whose home is in Waitsburg, Wash., was in Eugene during the holidays visiting friends.

Bert Lombard, '15, spent the holidays in Eugene from his school at Jefferson where he is principal.

Marsh Goodwin, '15, spent the holidays in Eugene with his parents from Creswell where he is teaching school. Marsh is also studying law and preparing for practice.

Ben H. Williams, '10, now connected with the state industrial commission at Salem, spent Christmas day in Eugene with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Roberts who are residing on a farm near The Dalles spent the holidays in Eugene at the home of Mrs. Roberts' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Chambers. Mr. Roberts was graduated in 1913.

Walter McClure, '13, now teaching school at Hammond, Oregon, Varsity track star in the distances and Olympic runner, spent the holidays in Eugene with his parents.

Elmer Furuset, ex-'14, head of the commercial department of the Vancouver high school at Vancouver Wash., was in Eugene for the holidays.

Harold Broughton, '13, and member of Varsity football team, spent part of the holidays in Eugene visiting friends from Portland.

C. Casteel, '92, Varsity football player in his undergraduate days, and now resident of Okonagan county, Washington, was in Eugene during the Christmas holidays visiting relatives.

Earl Abbett, '06, now attending dental college in Portland, spent the holidays in Eugene with his parents.

Anthony Jaureguy, '14, principal of the high school at Oakland, Ore., was in Eugene during the holidays to visit his brother Nicholas who was confined at the Eugene hospital here with a severe case of la grippe. Mrs. N. Nicholas of Tacoma, the boys' mother, was also in Eugene during the holidays.

Dr. George A. Cathey, of Klamath Falls, and Dr. C. F. Cathey, of Condon, Or., both graduates of the Oregon medical school in Portland, were in Eugene during the holidays. Dr. George A. Cathey also attended O. A. C. at one time.

William H. Burton, '15, now instructor in the schools at McMinnville, Miss Isabelle Garland, ex-'17, and Miss Katharine Watson, senior in the University, were Oregon students who spent part of their holidays at Newport at house parties during their vacations.

The students of Pennsylvania have a fire engine of their own. It can be drawn by a few men, up stairs, along halls, and into rooms.

PERSONALS

Ray Early, '14, has returned to Portland from New York where he has been visiting in company with his mother for the past two months. While east they visited at a number of points including Chicago. They will remain at the Villa St. Clara in Portland for the remainder of the winter.

V. E. Spencer, '01, was in Eugene during the holidays on his return from San Francisco to his home at Helena, Montana, where he is engaged in the mining business.

Ray Stanton, ex-'16, prominent in glee club circles, is reporting on a newspaper in Roseburg.

A number of Oregon graduates were in Albany during the holidays and were present at a dancing party in the Elks' temple given by the Alpha Omega girls. Hendershott's orchestra of Eugene furnished the music. Among the Oregon graduates were Miss Eleanor McClaine, '15, Bess Cowden, '14, of Silverton, Bertie Taylor, '15, of Albany, and Chas. Reynolds, '14, of Salem.

Tom Boylen, '15, expects to attend as a delegate the National Wool Growers' convention to be held in Salt Lake City January 13, 14 and 15, from Pendleton where he is living. A special car is to carry the delegates from Pendleton.

Henry Heidenreich, '15, who is now attending O. A. C., and is enrolled in the manual training department preparing to teach, is in Eugene for several days visiting friends. "Heine" may compete in the spring with the O. A. C. track teams in meets outside the conference. The discus is his specialty.

Independence, Or., Jan. 3.—Miss Genevieve Cooper, '15, of the University and a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, has recovered from a recent illness that threatened her with pneumonia and expects to resume her work in the Monmouth Normal school this week. Miss Cooper underwent a nasal operation in Portland at Thanksgiving time, later contracted the la grippe and has been out of school since Thanksgiving.

Russell Calkins, '12, and an alumnus of the University of Michigan law school, has formed a law partnership with Fred E. Smith, attorney of Eugene, and they have opened offices over the Bank of Commerce in Eugene. Calkins was graduated from Michigan last year. He is the son of W. W. Calkins, vice-president of the Eugene Loan and Savings bank of Eugene.

C. N. McArthur, '01, congressman from Oregon, has been appointed on two committees in the house of representatives—insular affairs, handling all Philippine legislation, and pensions, which is one of the busiest committees of the house.

Dr. N. C. Grimes, secretary to President P. L. Campbell, has accepted the appointment as national delegate to the chamber of commerce of the United States.

George William Eyre, '03, for many years a teacher at Dayton, Washington, died at that place on the morning of December 21st, from a lingering illness. Mr. Eyre was a faithful alumnus who took an active part in the city affairs of Dayton and in matters affecting the welfare of Columbia county in which Dayton is situated.

60 GRADS HAVE HOLIDAY BANQUET AT MEDFORD

Sixty graduates and former students of the University of Oregon gathered in the dining room of Hotel Medford, Medford, Oregon, December 28 to discuss old times and renew acquaintances. The meeting was held in connection with the State Teachers' association which convened at Medford and brought together many teaching alumni. Medford is a strong University town and 100 local alumni might have been present at the dinner if Carl Onthank, who was in charge had been able to notify all. Olin Arnsperger, president of the local alumni association at Medford, announced at the luncheon that tentative plans had been made by the Medford alumni for a big meeting during the session but that the press of holiday events made it seem inadvisable. Speakers at the luncheon were Superintendent J. A. Churchill, Dr. H. D. Sheldon, Dr. George Rebec, Dr. D. W. Morton and Olin Arnsperger.

Many Grads Now Live in the North.

Juneau, Alaska, Nov. 25.—Thanksgiving was made the occasion today for a number of reunions of Eugene people, who discussed mutual friends in Oregon's second city. The Eugene colony in Juneau and near here is exceptionally large.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Beattie, '01 and '95, both of whom are graduates of the University of Oregon, are living in Juneau. Mr. Beattie is superintendent of Indian work. Hugh Currin, '12 and wife, and J. McCoy, also graduates of the University, are at Nugget Creek, near here. Karl King, a former baseball player of Eugene and R. B. Hunter are partners in a pool hall in Juneau.

Some of the more radically inclined students in Columbia University have announced their intention of publishing a monthly magazine expressing their opposition to conservatism in college.

EASTERN OREGON GRADS ENTERTAIN GLEESTERS

Oregon alumni were exceptionally active this year in aiding in advertising the University Glee club on its eastern Oregon trip according to Manager Leslie Tooze who accompanied the club. Entertainments were provided for the members of the club at all places where they appeared. La Grande, as always, turned out with the largest audience, says Tooze. Gene Good, '15, and Ray Williams, '14, providing publicity before the appearance and entertainment afterwards. At Baker, Henry Fowler, '14 city editor of the Baker Herald, assisted in heralding the appearance of the club and concocted a dance for the boys and a number of Baker's belles afterwards, the manager states. At Pendleton a new recruit in the alumni association was discovered in Bert Jerard '15, and all reports say he is nearly as good an alumnus as he was an undergraduate. Merle Chessman, '09, also assisted the club on its way. Chessman is city editor of the East Oregonian.

The students of the University of Texas became so exuberant over a recent snow fall that they broke the windows in nearly every building on the campus. They are now busily engaged in raising money by subscription to replace the broken glass.
