

PEACE TO COME ONLY THROUGH EXHAUSTION

History Professors Agree On Vital Points About Present Status of War.

ENGLAND NOW WAKING UP

Ultimate Issue Will Be Either World Federation or World Acceptation of Militarism.

Points About the War Agreed Upon by History Professors.

1. There is no immediate possibility of peace. It is a war of exhaustion.
2. Germany and Austria now desire peace. The allies will not consider it. They say that England and Russia are just getting organized to a point where they can force the war in their favor.
3. That England is waking up to her need and is just beginning her part in the war.
4. That, ultimately, the war will result in internationalism, in a world federation, or in a general adoption of militarism that will be almost chaos.
5. That, while thus far the war has been favorable to Germany and her allies, the entente will soon begin to come into her part; that her turn is now at hand.

Drs. Joseph E. Schafer, R. C. Clark and James D. Barnett, of the department of history, have all expressed themselves as believing the above points. In their opinions, there is no possibility of peace coming as the result of litigation. While it will not be brought by the absolute crushing of either side, it will come only as the result of overpowering and exhaustion.

England, they believe, is now entering into a period of understanding and activity that will be a powerful asset for the allies. For the first time in the history of the British Empire conception has been adopted to fill her armies. The measure is a popular one with the people and will bring about great changes in her attitude.

Dr. Clark points out that, in all her wars, England has been slow, indifferent, backward and defeated at first, only to awaken and rally in the end. He cites the instances of the Napoleonic and Boer wars to prove this point.

Dr. Barnett says, "The whole struggle will either result in a revulsion of feeling towards bloodshed so powerful that a federation among the nations will issue or it will bring a fever of armament and militarism that will be terrific. In neither case, will the result come immediately."

H. G. Wells, the British scientist and author, recently presented an article and a prophecy in the Saturday Evening Post with which Dr. Schafer rather agrees. "Wells believes," said Dr. Schafer, "that, after the war, the two present factions will remain opposing each other in an armed peace, even as they now do in strife. The neutral nations of Europe will ally themselves with one side or the other and that these two, with a third alliance composed of the countries of America, will form a great triangle. The possibility of war would be greatly reduced in this case. Wells then sees the nations of the world gradually drawing into a general federation."

"If the matter does not issue this way it will mean a chaotic condition of armament, suspicion and strife."

NOT COLLEGE BRED.

Nine marriages of graduates and former students of the University of Indiana were recorded during the Christmas vacation. The marriages in only one instance were the result of college romances.

436 SWIM.

Results of the swimming examination at University of California for subject C, which was introduced only last semester for freshmen, show that of the 436 women who tried out, 151 passed, and of this number 79 used the side underarm stroke, 44 the breast stroke, 13 the single overarm, 10 the trudgeon and five the crawl.

Scroll and Script

Elects

GRACE EDGINGTON

Gladiators Get Vitriolic Rolling

Co-ed Registers Impressions of Doughnut Games in Verbatim Report.

(ADRIENNE EPPING)

"Do you know Madge, I never was so interested in anything in my life as I am in these doughnut games. Why do they call them the doughnut league? The fellows are such nuts? Oh, I might have deduced that myself.

"Just look! there's Tony! Would you ever guess that he was that thin? And Kenneth! Why I could have sworn that he was fat. Here come the Fijis! Who are they going to play today? Why these dirty suits. How can the men be so unsanitary?

"How does it happen that they let Bill Hayward play in every game? He must be terribly good. The referee? Ooooo! I see.

"Hooray! They made a basket. Let's clap!

"How can Helen lean over the railing and cheer when Loren makes a good play? Everyone's watching her. Isn't Bert graceful? He has the best looking feet in college. Have you noticed how Henry's mustache is growing? It makes him look so old—would you ever guess that he is only 19? He graduates this year, too.

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

"Why do the men hook their hands in the back of their trousers when Hayward throws up the ball? Isn't Jack all arms and legs? Don't you hate those all-white suits? They look like underwear. Um um, B. V. D. is right.

"Do you know, I heard something dreadful about Monty and Chet. Bezedek said that they were the best holders on the team. I can't imagine how he found out. Oh no, I don't know them very well, they're good looking though.

"Aren't the Sigma Nu suits keen? I insist upon having one of those perfectly adorable caps.

"It's over. Who won? Why look, Madge, it was a tie and now they are going to play it all over again. Gee, but I'd like to see it but I've simply got to go, I'm ten minutes late for gym now."

WRESTLING PROSPECTS 'FAIR,' SAYS SHOCKLEY

Two Men of First and Second Strings Last Year Form Nucleus for 1916 Team.

(JIM CELLARS)

According to Ed Shockley, coach of the wrestling team, the prospects for a winning team this year are much better than he had first anticipated. His men of last year on the first and second strings did not return to school this fall, and the new men turning out for the varsity sport did not come up to his expectations. Where last year he had 35 men in training, he barely has 25 this year, and all the 25 are green material, with two exceptions.

"I had some good men worked up into good trim for this year when the season closed last year," said Shockley. "But they have all left school and with them went the second string men, too. Last year's captain is back and with him is our star 158 pounder. Outside of them—well, it is a guess. We are scheduled to meet O. A. C. soon and I understand they have a wealth of material that is showing all kinds of speed. But I don't say we haven't a chance."

Shockley is using Rutherford, a 145 pounder, and captain of the team two years ago, and the star in the 158 pound class, as a nucleus around which he will build up a new team this year. The only definite dual meet is the one with O. A. C. that will take place the latter part of February. A. R. Tiffany, graduate manager, announced today that arrangements would be made to schedule a preliminary match, possibly with the Multnomah club, in order to work a little of the greenness out of the men.

It is possible that Leon Jackson, who wrestled in the 108 class in 1914, and who had his head split open in the northwest meet in Portland, causing him to drop school for the 1915 season, will return to school the second semester. As it stands now, there are but two letter men on the squad. Both of these men have held captaincies and both of them are the only men eligible for the same job this year. They can not be said to be absolutely sure of their places. "Competition is keen this year," said Shockley, "and any one out of 14 or 15 may make the team." Three Portland lads are bidding fair, while the state at large is well represented. In the 108 class Homer Phillips, a freshman from The Dalles, Ivan Goldsmith, a freshman from Eugene, and Leon Jackson, a sophomore from Portland, are the prospectives.

In the 115 class, Frank Sciaefe, a junior from Eugene, and Bruce Flegel, a sophomore from Eugene, are holding about even.

In the 125 class are H. D. (Bear Cat) Grey, a freshman from Medford, Gordon Clark, a sophomore from Portland, Harold Wells, a junior from Eugene, and J. S. Daley, a sophomore from Montana.

In the 135 class are H. G. Proctor, a junior from Baker, Charles Dundore, a sophomore from Portland, R. Fabian, a freshman from Eugene and H. G. Prestel, a freshman from Eugene.

In the 145 class are E. Rutherford, a junior from Eugene, and E. B. Williamson, a freshman from La Grande.

In the 158 class are A. C. Chaves, a freshman from Baker, E. Tschanz, a freshman from Eugene, and Dal King, a law student from Myrtle Point.

In the 175 class are Bernard Breeding, a junior from Portland, and Thurston Laraway, a freshman from Hood River.

In the heavyweight class there is Basil Williams, a freshman from Eugene.

According to Ed Shockley, coach of the wrestling team, the prospects for a winning team this year are much better than he had first anticipated. His men of last year on the first and second strings did not return to school this fall, and the new men turning out for the varsity sport did not come up to his expectations. Where last year he had 35 men in training, he barely has 25 this year, and all the 25 are green material, with two exceptions.

"I had some good men worked up into good trim for this year when the season closed last year," said Shockley. "But they have all left school and with them went the second string men, too. Last year's captain is back and with him is our star 158 pounder. Outside of them—well, it is a guess. We are scheduled to meet O. A. C. soon and I understand they have a wealth of material that is showing all kinds of speed. But I don't say we haven't a chance."

Shockley is using Rutherford, a 145 pounder, and captain of the team two years ago, and the star in the 158 pound class, as a nucleus around which he will build up a new team this year. The only definite dual meet is the one with O. A. C. that will take place the latter part of February. A. R. Tiffany, graduate manager, announced today that arrangements would be made to schedule a preliminary match, possibly with the Multnomah club, in order to work a little of the greenness out of the men.

It is possible that Leon Jackson, who wrestled in the 108 class in 1914, and who had his head split open in the northwest meet in Portland, causing him to drop school for the 1915 season, will return to school the second semester. As it stands now, there are but two letter men on the squad. Both of these men have held captaincies and both of them are the only men eligible for the same job this year. They can not be said to be absolutely sure of their places. "Competition is keen this year," said Shockley, "and any one out of 14 or 15 may make the team." Three Portland lads are bidding fair, while the state at large is well represented. In the 108 class Homer Phillips, a freshman from The Dalles, Ivan Goldsmith, a freshman from Eugene, and Leon Jackson, a sophomore from Portland, are the prospectives.

In the 115 class, Frank Sciaefe, a junior from Eugene, and Bruce Flegel, a sophomore from Eugene, are holding about even.

In the 125 class are H. D. (Bear Cat) Grey, a freshman from Medford, Gordon Clark, a sophomore from Portland, Harold Wells, a junior from Eugene, and J. S. Daley, a sophomore from Montana.

In the 135 class are H. G. Proctor, a junior from Baker, Charles Dundore, a sophomore from Portland, R. Fabian, a freshman from Eugene and H. G. Prestel, a freshman from Eugene.

In the 145 class are E. Rutherford, a junior from Eugene, and E. B. Williamson, a freshman from La Grande.

In the 158 class are A. C. Chaves, a freshman from Baker, E. Tschanz, a freshman from Eugene, and Dal King, a law student from Myrtle Point.

In the 175 class are Bernard Breeding, a junior from Portland, and Thurston Laraway, a freshman from Hood River.

In the heavyweight class there is Basil Williams, a freshman from Eugene.

According to Ed Shockley, coach of the wrestling team, the prospects for a winning team this year are much better than he had first anticipated. His men of last year on the first and second strings did not return to school this fall, and the new men turning out for the varsity sport did not come up to his expectations. Where last year he had 35 men in training, he barely has 25 this year, and all the 25 are green material, with two exceptions.

"I had some good men worked up into good trim for this year when the season closed last year," said Shockley. "But they have all left school and with them went the second string men, too. Last year's captain is back and with him is our star 158 pounder. Outside of them—well, it is a guess. We are scheduled to meet O. A. C. soon and I understand they have a wealth of material that is showing all kinds of speed. But I don't say we haven't a chance."

Shockley is using Rutherford, a 145 pounder, and captain of the team two years ago, and the star in the 158 pound class, as a nucleus around which he will build up a new team this year. The only definite dual meet is the one with O. A. C. that will take place the latter part of February. A. R. Tiffany, graduate manager, announced today that arrangements would be made to schedule a preliminary match, possibly with the Multnomah club, in order to work a little of the greenness out of the men.

It is possible that Leon Jackson, who wrestled in the 108 class in 1914, and who had his head split open in the northwest meet in Portland, causing him to drop school for the 1915 season, will return to school the second semester. As it stands now, there are but two letter men on the squad. Both of these men have held captaincies and both of them are the only men eligible for the same job this year. They can not be said to be absolutely sure of their places. "Competition is keen this year," said Shockley, "and any one out of 14 or 15 may make the team." Three Portland lads are bidding fair, while the state at large is well represented. In the 108 class Homer Phillips, a freshman from The Dalles, Ivan Goldsmith, a freshman from Eugene, and Leon Jackson, a sophomore from Portland, are the prospectives.

In the 115 class, Frank Sciaefe, a junior from Eugene, and Bruce Flegel, a sophomore from Eugene, are holding about even.

In the 125 class are H. D. (Bear Cat) Grey, a freshman from Medford, Gordon Clark, a sophomore from Portland, Harold Wells, a junior from Eugene, and J. S. Daley, a sophomore from Montana.

In the 135 class are H. G. Proctor, a junior from Baker, Charles Dundore, a sophomore from Portland, R. Fabian, a freshman from Eugene and H. G. Prestel, a freshman from Eugene.

In the 145 class are E. Rutherford, a junior from Eugene, and E. B. Williamson, a freshman from La Grande.

In the 158 class are A. C. Chaves, a freshman from Baker, E. Tschanz, a freshman from Eugene, and Dal King, a law student from Myrtle Point.

In the 175 class are Bernard Breeding, a junior from Portland, and Thurston Laraway, a freshman from Hood River.

In the heavyweight class there is Basil Williams, a freshman from Eugene.

According to Ed Shockley, coach of the wrestling team, the prospects for a winning team this year are much better than he had first anticipated. His men of last year on the first and second strings did not return to school this fall, and the new men turning out for the varsity sport did not come up to his expectations. Where last year he had 35 men in training, he barely has 25 this year, and all the 25 are green material, with two exceptions.

"I had some good men worked up into good trim for this year when the season closed last year," said Shockley. "But they have all left school and with them went the second string men, too. Last year's captain is back and with him is our star 158 pounder. Outside of them—well, it is a guess. We are scheduled to meet O. A. C. soon and I understand they have a wealth of material that is showing all kinds of speed. But I don't say we haven't a chance."

Shockley is using Rutherford, a 145 pounder, and captain of the team two years ago, and the star in the 158 pound class, as a nucleus around which he will build up a new team this year. The only definite dual meet is the one with O. A. C. that will take place the latter part of February. A. R. Tiffany, graduate manager, announced today that arrangements would be made to schedule a preliminary match, possibly with the Multnomah club, in order to work a little of the greenness out of the men.

It is possible that Leon Jackson, who wrestled in the 108 class in 1914, and who had his head split open in the northwest meet in Portland, causing him to drop school for the 1915 season, will return to school the second semester. As it stands now, there are but two letter men on the squad. Both of these men have held captaincies and both of them are the only men eligible for the same job this year. They can not be said to be absolutely sure of their places. "Competition is keen this year," said Shockley, "and any one out of 14 or 15 may make the team." Three Portland lads are bidding fair, while the state at large is well represented. In the 108 class Homer Phillips, a freshman from The Dalles, Ivan Goldsmith, a freshman from Eugene, and Leon Jackson, a sophomore from Portland, are the prospectives.

In the 115 class, Frank Sciaefe, a junior from Eugene, and Bruce Flegel, a sophomore from Eugene, are holding about even.

In the 125 class are H. D. (Bear Cat) Grey, a freshman from Medford, Gordon Clark, a sophomore from Portland, Harold Wells, a junior from Eugene, and J. S. Daley, a sophomore from Montana.

In the 135 class are H. G. Proctor, a junior from Baker, Charles Dundore, a sophomore from Portland, R. Fabian, a freshman from Eugene and H. G. Prestel, a freshman from Eugene.

In the 145 class are E. Rutherford, a junior from Eugene, and E. B. Williamson, a freshman from La Grande.

In the 158 class are A. C. Chaves, a freshman from Baker, E. Tschanz, a freshman from Eugene, and Dal King, a law student from Myrtle Point.

In the 175 class are Bernard Breeding, a junior from Portland, and Thurston Laraway, a freshman from Hood River.

In the heavyweight class there is Basil Williams, a freshman from Eugene.

According to Ed Shockley, coach of the wrestling team, the prospects for a winning team this year are much better than he had first anticipated. His men of last year on the first and second strings did not return to school this fall, and the new men turning out for the varsity sport did not come up to his expectations. Where last year he had 35 men in training, he barely has 25 this year, and all the 25 are green material, with two exceptions.

"I had some good men worked up into good trim for this year when the season closed last year," said Shockley. "But they have all left school and with them went the second string men, too. Last year's captain is back and with him is our star 158 pounder. Outside of them—well, it is a guess. We are scheduled to meet O. A. C. soon and I understand they have a wealth of material that is showing all kinds of speed. But I don't say we haven't a chance."

Shockley is using Rutherford, a 145 pounder, and captain of the team two years ago, and the star in the 158 pound class, as a nucleus around which he will build up a new team this year. The only definite dual meet is the one with O. A. C. that will take place the latter part of February. A. R. Tiffany, graduate manager, announced today that arrangements would be made to schedule a preliminary match, possibly with the Multnomah club, in order to work a little of the greenness out of the men.

It is possible that Leon Jackson, who wrestled in the 108 class in 1914, and who had his head split open in the northwest meet in Portland, causing him to drop school for the 1915 season, will return to school the second semester. As it stands now, there are but two letter men on the squad. Both of these men have held captaincies and both of them are the only men eligible for the same job this year. They can not be said to be absolutely sure of their places. "Competition is keen this year," said Shockley, "and any one out of 14 or 15 may make the team." Three Portland lads are bidding fair, while the state at large is well represented. In the 108 class Homer Phillips, a freshman from The Dalles, Ivan Goldsmith, a freshman from Eugene, and Leon Jackson, a sophomore from Portland, are the prospectives.

In the 115 class, Frank Sciaefe, a junior from Eugene, and Bruce Flegel, a sophomore from Eugene, are holding about even.

In the 125 class are H. D. (Bear Cat) Grey, a freshman from Medford, Gordon Clark, a sophomore from Portland, Harold Wells, a junior from Eugene, and J. S. Daley, a sophomore from Montana.

In the 135 class are H. G. Proctor, a junior from Baker, Charles Dundore, a sophomore from Portland, R. Fabian, a freshman from Eugene and H. G. Prestel, a freshman from Eugene.

In the 145 class are E. Rutherford, a junior from Eugene, and E. B. Williamson, a freshman from La Grande.

In the 158 class are A. C. Chaves, a freshman from Baker, E. Tschanz, a freshman from Eugene, and Dal King, a law student from Myrtle Point.

In the 175 class are Bernard Breeding, a junior from Portland, and Thurston Laraway, a freshman from Hood River.

In the heavyweight class there is Basil Williams, a freshman from Eugene.

According to Ed Shockley, coach of the wrestling team, the prospects for a winning team this year are much better than he had first anticipated. His men of last year on the first and second strings did not return to school this fall, and the new men turning out for the varsity sport did not come up to his expectations. Where last year he had 35 men in training, he barely has 25 this year, and all the 25 are green material, with two exceptions.

"I had some good men worked up into good trim for this year when the season closed last year," said Shockley. "But they have all left school and with them went the second string men, too. Last year's captain is back and with him is our star 158 pounder. Outside of them—well, it is a guess. We are scheduled to meet O. A. C. soon and I understand they have a wealth of material that is showing all kinds of speed. But I don't say we haven't a chance."

Shockley is using Rutherford, a 145 pounder, and captain of the team two years ago, and the star in the 158 pound class, as a nucleus around which he will build up a new team this year. The only definite dual meet is the one with O. A. C. that will take place the latter part of February. A. R. Tiffany, graduate manager, announced today that arrangements would be made to schedule a preliminary match, possibly with the Multnomah club, in order to work a little of the greenness out of the men.

It is possible that Leon Jackson, who wrestled in the 108 class in 1914, and who had his head split open in the northwest meet in Portland, causing him to drop school for the 1915 season, will return to school the second semester. As it stands now, there are but two letter men on the squad. Both of these men have held captaincies and both of them are the only men eligible for the same job this year. They can not be said to be absolutely sure of their places. "Competition is keen this year," said Shockley, "and any one out of 14 or 15 may make the team." Three Portland lads are bidding fair, while the state at large is well represented. In the 108 class Homer Phillips, a freshman from The Dalles, Ivan Goldsmith, a freshman from Eugene, and Leon Jackson, a sophomore from Portland, are the prospectives.

In the 115 class, Frank Sciaefe, a junior from Eugene, and Bruce Flegel, a sophomore from Eugene, are holding about even.

In the 125 class are H. D. (Bear Cat) Grey, a freshman from Medford, Gordon Clark, a sophomore from Portland, Harold Wells, a junior from Eugene, and J. S. Daley, a sophomore from Montana.

In the 135 class are H. G. Proctor, a junior from Baker, Charles Dundore, a sophomore from Portland, R. Fabian, a freshman from Eugene and H. G. Prestel, a freshman from Eugene.

In the 145 class are E. Rutherford, a junior from Eugene, and E. B. Williamson, a freshman from La Grande.

In the 158 class are A. C. Chaves, a freshman from Baker, E. Tschanz, a freshman from Eugene, and Dal King, a law student from Myrtle Point.

In the 175 class are Bernard Breeding, a junior from Portland, and Thurston Laraway, a freshman from Hood River.

In the heavyweight class there is Basil Williams, a freshman from Eugene.

According to Ed Shockley, coach of the wrestling team, the prospects for a winning team this year are much better than he had first anticipated. His men of last year on the first and second strings did not return to school this fall, and the new men turning out for the varsity sport did not come up to his expectations. Where last year he had 35 men in training, he barely has 25 this year, and all the 25 are green material, with two exceptions.

"I had some good men worked up into good trim for this year when the season closed last year," said Shockley. "But they have all left school and with them went the second string men, too. Last year's captain is back and with him is our star 158 pounder. Outside of them—well, it is a guess. We are scheduled to meet O. A. C. soon and I understand they have a wealth of material that is showing all kinds of speed. But I don't say we haven't a chance."

Shockley is using Rutherford, a 145 pounder, and captain of the team two years ago, and the star in the 158 pound class, as a nucleus around which he will build up a new team this year. The only definite dual meet is the one with O. A. C. that will take place the latter part of February. A. R. Tiffany, graduate manager, announced today that arrangements would be made to schedule a preliminary match, possibly with the Multnomah club, in order to work a little of the greenness out of the men.

It is possible that Leon Jackson, who wrestled in the 108 class in 1914, and who had his head split open in the northwest meet in Portland, causing him to drop school for the 1915 season, will return to school the second semester. As it stands now, there are but two letter men on the squad. Both of these men have held captaincies and both of them are the only men eligible for the same job this year. They can not be said to be absolutely sure of their places. "