

INTER-FRATERNITY SPORTS WILL BE AN APRIL EVENT

Gerry Watkins, Proprietor of the "Shack," Plans Races, Under Hayward's Regulation

Canoe races and a tilting match are a part of the program that Gerry Watkins proprietor of the "Shack," is arranging for the interfraternity aquatic day to be held in April.

A large bronze loving cup, inlaid with silver, has been hung up by Gerry Watkins for the winner of the dashes, which will be for a distance of 300 yards. The course will be laid out from the spillway to the boat house, and the dashes will be run off in heats. The cup will be a perpetual prize, the organization winning the first contest being allowed to keep it one year. The next year it passes on to the next winner. The cup will be on display at Laraway's jewelry store.

A marathon race, starting at the boat house, to the first portage, down the river to the spillway, and back to the boat house will also be held. A tilting contest between canoe teams will be held also. This is considered a great aquatic stunt and provides plenty of amusement for the spectators. The tilters fight with long poles with plenty of padding on the end to prevent any danger. One man sits in the stern of each canoe, the other two men stand up and attempt to shove each other into the water.

All the organizations are to enter the contest, and as many canoes may join as they desire. The event will be staged on some week-end, when the baseball team is away on a trip, and good weather will be selected.

"Bill" Hayward, track coach, and Ed Shockley are conducting a set of rules and regulations which will be presented to the organizations for their approval. Racing canoes will be barred from the contest to give all canoeists an equal chance.

DR. SOWERS WILL LECTURE ON CARNEGIE INSTITUTION

Professor of Municipalities Was for Six Years Employed by Institute as Magnetic Observer

A lecture upon the work of the Carnegie Institution of Washington will be given in the Architectural building next Wednesday by Dr. D. C. Sowers, professor of Municipalities at the School of Commerce.

Travelled Abroad.

Dr. Sowers was steadily employed by this institution for six years as magnetic observer. In this capacity he made several trips to foreign countries. In 1908 he made a magnetic survey in China, India, Asia and Europe as well as to the islands of the Pacific Ocean. He represented the government, as magnetic observer, in two surveying expeditions in Alaska, for the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey. On this expedition he assisted in correcting the instruments of the Alaskan explorer Amundsen, the first man to succeed in making the Northwest passage.

Makes Observations at Sea.

On an expedition, sent out by the Carnegie Institution, he sailed on the ship Galilee with three other scientists for the purpose of making observations at sea. They left San Diego in December 1906, sailing by way of the Society Marquises, and Samoan Islands to Shanghai. From there he sailed to Alaska, thence to Honolulu, New Zealand, Peru and back to San Francisco, taking eighteen months to make the trip.

Special Expert to China.

As a representative of the same institution he was put in charge of a special magnetic expedition to China. He sailed to Peking and went overland through the interior of China passing through Honan, Sianfu, Kashgar, thence crossing the Himalaya mountains into India and down through central India to Bombay. From there he sailed to Cairo, Naples, Paris, London, and New York. During the whole trip he took observations and records of the variation of the magnetic needle. The research of the institution has been of great assistance to navigators at sea, as well as to surveyors on land.

Professor Sowers has many photographs and lantern slides which he took on these trips. He gave an illustrated lecture to the students of Industrial and Commercial Survey this afternoon in which he showed slides taken on his trip through China and India.

PORTLAND WOMEN TO PLAY "CRAWFORD" TO AID FUND

Members of the Portland Women's club will play "Crawford" (Mrs. Gaskell) at the Lincoln high school auditorium Saturday, January 28, in the interests of both the University scholarship fund and the Woman's Memorial building.

Mrs. George Gerlinger, who attended the meetings of the Board of Regents this week, said that she has found a commendable spirit of co-operation among the women's clubs and organizations over the state.

Women Enthusiasts

"The women are thoroughly enthusiastic and eager to do their share," said Mrs. Gerlinger. "The chairman of the state alumnæ committee has recently formulated several plans for raising money. Mrs. Beach has already raised a considerable amount by tag days and benefit performances in various parts of the state."

"Some of the University people at Hood River have set a date for a benefit dance to be given the last of this month. "Walter C. Winslow, president of the state alumnæ association has just appointed a committee covering the entire state and containing a member from every class. It is his plan to get some co-operation work started so that the men as well as the women can have a big share in the raising of this fund."

LITHOGRAPHY ART SHOW

Mr. Allen Eaton Will Supplement the Exhibit With Lecture on Process

The exhibition of lithographs to be seen at the University architectural exhibit room Friday, Saturday and Sunday, is not only the first exhibition of the kind to come to Eugene, but probably the best that has yet come to the Pacific coast for circulation, according to Allen Eaton, who is in charge.

Two Lectures Arranged

Friday evening, at 7:30, and Sunday, at 3 o'clock, Mr. Eaton will speak informally on the art of lithography, explaining the process and its advantages and disadvantages as an expression for the artist. In this connection he will illustrate the process with a lithographer's stone, which has been worked upon and from which impressions have been made. This stone and materials were loaned by Bushong & Co. of Portland for the demonstration, and the work was prepared by Mr. W. J. Hill of Eugene, who understands the phases of the lithographer's trade, having served many years in the work.

Works of Famous Artists

Lithography is the art of printing by a chemical process from stone. Commercial engraving is often used in connection with the work, but the examples shown in connection with the work, but the examples shown in this exhibition are all printed from the flat surface of the stone. Among the well known artists whose work will be shown here are Joseph Pennell and J. M. Hamilton of America and Frank Brangwyn of England. In addition to the lithographs, which come from the Lenefelder club of London, there will be shown a few etchings and lithographs from Hill Tolerton of San Francisco. These latter prints will be interesting in themselves, but particularly so as a means of comparing the different processes used by artists.

RAH-RAH SPIRIT CHECKED ON UNIVERSITY CAMPUS

Sophomores Hear Voice From Above; Decide Not to Make Classmates Wear Corduroys

University of Washington, Jan. 20.—"Kangaroo courts" and the traditional "hothead" will have no part in determining the fashionable dress of undergraduates at the university. A warning issued by President Suzzallo seems to have had a persuasive effect on the sophomores, who had intended making all second year men wear corduroy trousers. The "vigilance committee," which was to have executed the will of the majority, has now degenerated to an organization for the heckling of those who dislike the "cords."

Dr. Suzzallo isn't opposed to the wearing of distinctive garb by college students. He merely objects to the methods which the youngsters threatened to employ.

Tradition Versus Coercion.

"Traditions endure," he told the students, "because they are useful and beloved, and coercion creates a dislike which interferes even with utility. While there is nothing to be said for coercion, there is also little to be said in favor of the sophomores who haven't enough sentimental interest in their college comradeships to join in the folkways when there doesn't happen to be a good reason for standing apart. Such a reason sometimes exists. Boys living in the city or who are engaged in part time employment often find a special college garb inconvenient."

Against Snobs.

"If the merely snobbish desire to wear better clothing than someone else keeps certain college dudes out of sophomore's garb, that is largely their own business, but they might indulge in a little self-examination with profit to their own character."

Professor Suzzallo thinks the location of the university in a large city, where the students constantly meet outsiders, and the large number of self-supporting students who find distinctive apparel a handicap, prevent the success of the class garb system, here.

Three students were dismissed from the University of Illinois by the students council for fraud in securing tickets for the Illinois-Chicago game.

form, and kept the Betas' basket well protected throughout.

Sigma Chi and Iota Chi furnished the slap-stick comedy for the evening. The score printed on the bills announced a 16 to 2 score in the former's favor. After perhaps five minutes of rotten play, in which neither team scored, the Sigma Chis began to get anxious and then it was worse than ever. But in the second half things went better and they got away without the golden goose cackling once under their arms.

Tuesdays Games.

The first half of the A. T. O.-Oregon club game ended in a 3 to 3 tie. But in the second half the A. T. O.'s started some of the best playing that has been seen around these parts and ran their end of the score up to 20, while the Club could not grab any more than 8 for their whole play. Kirk proved himself one of the best guards of the series in this game, continually taking the ball away from his man and getting it out of dangerous territory. The two forwards played well, and made their share of the points, while Nelson was there as usual. Cate, the Club forward, was kept well covered at all times.

Farley is Dorm Star

The Dorm. ran up another of their high scores against the Sigma Nus when they took the game 17 to 3. The first half ended 13 to 1, and was in truth the walk-away the score indicated, while the last half was more of a game. Farley was the star of the game, continually putting the ball in the basket.

Kappa Sig-Uma Chi Game Close

Sigma Chi defeated Kappa Sigma, 7 to 3. This was a hard fought, thrilling game, which held the spectators under tension until the end. The Sigma Chi team was the same, and used the same tactics with which they defeated Delta Tau Delta. The Sigs seemed unable to annex the baskets, but this was partly due to the effective guarding of the Sigma Chis.

The Beta and Fiji football-basketball teams put on a good game. There was a little too much beef to make the game fast, but at times the play warmed up. The goose-egg score of both teams at the end of the first half. Then the Betas began to get excited and grabbed 7 points while the Fijis ended the game with the same score with which they began—a cipher.

the other infielders who will turn out when the time arrives.

Jim Sheehy, center fielder on last year's nine, is the only regular left in the sunfields. Skinny Hargraves will return to school in February. He is a good judge of fly balls, but is a weak hitter. Walt Kirk also expects to be out.

Coach Bezdek will issue the first call for indoor work immediately after examinations. It will consist of throwing, running, starting, sliding, and other muscle loosers. The pitchers are anxious to cut loose in the gymnasium in order to remove the winter's kinks. Outdoor practice will commence as soon as the weather permits. Until the proposed new diamond is constructed, the old lot back of the library will be utilized.
