DR. LANDSBURY TOURS

Instructor Visits Four Coast Cities in the Interest of the School of Music.

Last week Dr. J. J. Landsbury of the school of music, was absent in the interest of the school of University extension. During the week he gave lectures in four of the coast cities, Marshfield, Bandon, Coquille and Myrtle Point, on musical subjects.

"My trip was not only to arouse enthusiasm for the school of music of the University, but to talk Oregon as a whole. I found many Oregon boosters in that part of the state and the prospects are very good for several students entering here next September from those sections," said Dr. Landsbury.

All of the cities visited showed great interest in the lectures and the school houses or court houses in which they were given were invariably filled, according to Dr. Landsbury. Some of the subjects which were discussed were, "Futurism in Music," "Music in the University of Oregon."

Not only has much time been spent in extension work to extend interest in the school of music of the University but also booklets have been sent to all musical people in Oregon, who might wish aid from the use of library books. The school of music has grown considerably this past year and much good has been done not only in increasing interest in the University but in educating the public to have higher musical ideals.

"COMUS PLAYERS" PRAISED

"Splendid Success So Far," writes Ralph Ash, ex-17, With Trio.

The "Comus Players," who are appearing on the western circuit of the Ellison-White Chautauqua System, are having phenomenal success, according to Ralph Ash, ex-17. The troupe consists of Prof. A. F. Reddie, head of the department of public speaking, Ralph Ash, Janet Young, '14, and Earl Fleischmann, '17.

"We have had splendid success so far," writes Ash. "We opened up in El Paso Monday. Everywhere royally received. We crossed the border into Mexico and saw the trenches at Agua Prieta where Carranza and Villa had their little argument last fall. Showed in Tucson, Arizona last night. I met a Mr. Williams there from New York City. He has played with Ellen Terry, Robert Hilliard and

FEWER THESES THAN USUAL

Most of This Year's Written in Sociology Economics or History.

There are fewer theses being written this year by the seniors in the University than previously, due perhaps to the fact that not all heads of departments require the seniors in their departments to write a thesis in order to graduate.

Most of the theses are being written in the departments of economics and sociology under Professor F. G. Young and in the department of history under Dr. J. Schafer. In the department of sociology most of the subjects chosen by the students deal with economic conditions in Oregon. R. H. Hurd has chosen "Public Dogeage for Oregon Municipalities;" Lamar Tooze, "The Problems of Assessment in the Oregon System of Taxation;" Harry Kuck, "The Ideal Country Newspaper and Its Duty to the State of Oregon;" Fred Dunbar, "The Central Oregon Railroad Situation;" Chester Miller, "Promotion of Corporations in Oregon;" Max Sommer, "Relation of the Newspaper to Society;" E. R. Morrison, "The Present Status of the Road Situation in Oregon;" Prentiss Brown, "Unemployment in Oregon;" Leslie Tooze, "What Will the Federal Act Do for Oregon?;" Mandell Weiss, "An Equitable Distribution of the California-Oregon Land Grant."

Beside the writing of these each senior in this department is required to draw a graph showing the development of his subject; the graph will be used by the department for exhibition purposes.

There is but one thesis being written in the department of modern English literature under Professor H. C. Howe which is the least number in years, according to Miss Mary Watson of that department.

Most of the heads of departments allow their seniors to write a thesis if they desire to do so in order to make up credit.

John Drew, and he said that Reddie, Janet and I worked as well together as any trio he has ever seen. He says that Reddie is an artist and as good as any on Broadway."

The Comus Players are filling a ten weeks' engagement, and are playing in the principal cities of ten states, Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Colorado, Arizona, Texas, New Mexico, Nevada, and Montana.

GIFT TO BUILDING IS SENIOR MEMORIAL

16ers Pledge $6 Each to Woman's Building; Inscription to Whallon's Memory.

The senior memorial will this year take the form of a gift toward the new woman's memorial building. A tablet bearing the name of the class will be placed on an arch in the front of the structure. It will be inscribed to the memory of Owen Whallon, the senior who was drowned in the Willamette river last week. This plan for the senior memorial was adopted at the suggestion of Mrs. George Gerlinger, the regent who is directing the woman's building campaign.

Each senior is to pay $6 in three annual installments of $2 toward the gift. In addition to this all money left in the treasury at the end of the year, including the profits from the senior play, will be applied toward the gift. Pledge cards will be sent out to aid in collecting the tax.

Any person or organization that gives $500 toward the new woman's building is entitled to a tablet in the arch inscribed with his or its name.

The seniors expect their gift to amount to more than $500.

Syracuse University held a Progressive dinner May 6 in which both fraternities and sororities took part. Jitneys took the guests from one house to another on the circuit. The idea was suggested to them by Miss Grace Sawyer who has been house mother here at the Alpha Phi house this year.

"HONESTY DAY."
"Take out that old gray bonnet, with the moth balls on it, and walk it gently across the way—to the guy who owns it, and who sadly bemoans it, since you borrowed it from him last May."
Thus begins an article in the Daily

Palo Alto of Stanford University, which goes on to tell of the novel idea of having an "Honesty Day," when everyone in the college shall return every borrowed article in his possession—except pencils. This plan was suggested by the student conference in a recent meeting.

Each senior at the University of California is assessed $57 toward a memorial fund of $50,000. Payment is due in installments of $2.85, due in April of each year for twenty years.
