Word reached Eugene today that Miss Georgia White, Corvallis' candidate for queen of the Portland Rose Festival, has withdrawn from the race. The action was based on the belief that Corvallis has no chance to elect its queen.

The resignation of Miss White, coupled with the fact that Miss Edel Fraasch is now leading the race for queen gave impetus to the campaign in Eugene. Hopes of electing Miss Fraasch were expressed everywhere.

It was stated at a meeting held Saturday in Corvallis that 259,970 votes were given to R. P. Richardson, of the Portland Rose Festival campaign committee and that Mr. Richardson had promised to vote them in time for their appearance in the Sunday Portland papers. Because of the failure to publish the votes when they were sure Miss White's standing would be first on the list, the Corvallis committee decided it was time to withdraw, it is stated.

Miss Fraasch, who is backed by the business men of this city, took the lead in the race yesterday and in the latest count last night was still more than 2000 votes ahead of her nearest opponent.

Miss Lillian C. Hendricksen, candidate of the Foresters of America, was second. She and Miss Fraasch have a long lead over the other contestants, but it is still anybody's race and changes in the relative standings are liable to come in any count, for heavy votes are being sent in from various cities.

Eleanor Jackson of McMinnville, supported jointly by the Modern Foresters and the Moose, has shown a steady strength in the contest and is expected to be one of the candidates to be reckoned with in the final count.

Just four days remain in the contest and the voting is becoming heavier each day. The final count will be made Friday night, or as soon thereafter as the last mailed ballots reach the contest headquarters.

A benefit for Miss Fraasch's fund will be given at the Savoy theatre tonight.

FATHER O'HARA SPEAKS

Chairman of State Industrial Welfare Commission Scheduled for Assembly Wednesday Morning.

at Portland and chairman of the State E. V. O'Hara, Rector of the Cathedral Industrial Welfare Commission will deliver an address during assembly Wednesday on Social Legislation and the work of the Commission.

Father O'Hara is a brother of J. P. O'Hara, instructor in history and will be entertained by Professor O'Hara during his stay in Eugene.

Father O'Hara has been much interested in industrial welfare and social work for a number of years. He was a member of the Consumers League and four years ago he raised funds and wrote the bill providing for the Industrial Welfare Commission, of which he was made chairman.

The Industrial Welfare Commission in the state of Oregon is a pioneer Commission in its field according to Professor O'Hara. California, Washington and Massachusetts, now have similar commissions.

The duties of the commission is to fix the standards of hours of employment, standards of conditions of labor and surrounding conditions, sanitary and otherwise, and standards of minimum wages for women and minors in any occupation within the state under the provisions of what is known as the Minimum Wage Law.
