20 OUT FOR HOCKEY:

Regular Outdoor Work Carried on Without Interference From Coach.

Women's New Out-Door Gym to Be Completed by Latter Part of Week.

The lively interest taken this year in hockey was manifested by the turnout Tuesday afternoon of twenty girls for two hours of hard practice preparatory for the contest with O. A. C. The fact that more are expected to swell the list at the beginning of next week gives positive assurance that a winning team

According to Miss Cummings, the head of the physical training department for girls, the new out-door gymnasium will be completed the latter part of this week and regular fall work will ity and versatility of Mrs. Bates. begin next Monday. This comprises approximately three hours a week of any one of the elective out-door sports offered by the department. However, the event of inclement weather, the priviledge of the use of the out-door gym will be a great advantage, for Miss Cummings declared that there are facilities for outdoor sports and rain can now in no way interfere with the regular fall work as here-to-fore.

A dubious aspect arose at first, due to the close proximity of the psychology and chemistry laboratories and journalism department on one hand, and the extension offices on the other. It was even rumored that an exaggerated interest might be taken by members of these classes in the work taking place in the gym. However, it has been ascertained that the location is not as propitious as expected, so it is safe to as- Those in Charge Declare Prossume that regular work may be carried on in the outdoor gym with out serious interference from a curious crowd of non-participants.

THE DOLL'S HOUSE

Play by Henrik Ibsen to Be Staged in Guild Hall October 6-7.

Exceptionally Strong Caste Is Chosen, According to Dr. E. S. Bates, Director.

Martha Beer "The Doll's House," by Henrik Ibsen, has been decided upon for the faculty play, the first dramatic offering of the Guild Players this year. "The Doll's House" will be produced in Guild hall on the evenings of Friday and Saturday, October 6 and 7.

The Guild considered giving "Real Things," a play by Mrs. M. H. Parsons, instructor in English, but since the six men suitable for a well casted production of this play are not to be found among the ranks of the University of

Dr. E. S. Bates, head of the English department, who is to have charge of the dramatic interpretation classes dur-Professor Reddie's absence, will direct the production. Dr. Bates staged "The Doll's House" in Phoenix and in Tucson, Arizona, when he was a member of the faculty of the State University

The caste of characters has been announced as follows: Torvald HelmerW. F. G. Thacher Nora, his wifeMrs. E. S. Bates Nils GrogstadR. W. Broecker Dr. RankJ. F. Bovard

LindeMrs. H. D. Sheldon

The caste which has been chosen is a particularly strong one, according to Dr. Bates, practically every member having already distinguished themselves histrionically, both here and elsewhere.

Mrs. Bates, who is to play Nora, the lead, spent a season with the Sothern and Marlowe company, and will also be remembered for her splendid work in numerous plays given on the campus can easily be picked a week before the the past year. Her work as Vivien first game, the date of which is not yet in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," the faculty play last year, as Katherine in "The Taming of the Shrew," a Drama Guild production, and as Hedda in the Campus Players' summer performance of "Hedda Gabler," serves to show us the etent of the abil-

Professor E. C. Robbins read a paper entitled, "A Practical Application of the Social Sciences," which was an explanation of the plan for Commonwealth Service which has been developed at the University of Oregon by Professor F.

Professor Robbins pointed out that the department of economics and sociology looks forward to establishing a School of Commonwealth Service, a branch of university training wherein the chief aim will be to assist the people of the state to realize a more perfect democrary. The school would accomplish its purposes by co-ordinating all social agencies within the state, ooth public and private, so that each would work at its maximum capacity, and by giving courses in the university especially fitting students to take up public service positions and to engage in social service work.

Professor Robbins emphasized the fact that while many universities throughout the country are moving in the direction of creating such schools, that Professor Young has been the first to develop a comprehensive plan concretely outlining the work of such an organiza-
