

STUDES RALLY THIS AFTERNOON IN ZIP BANG PEFFEST ON KINCAID

Formation Starts in Front of Deady at 4 o'clock and Serpentine Down Eleventh to Alder, Then Up Thirteenth to Kincaid Where Coach Bezdek Stages Scrimmage.

New Yell Leader, Jack Dolph, on Deck With Trusty Lieutenants "Skinny" Scaiefe and "Tootsie" Crandall. Old Grad and Former Varsity Yell Leader Punches "Oregon Spirit Solar Plexus" of Rooters and Prays for the Olden Days.

By Haman
The rally season at the University started off with a zip and a bang this afternoon in the first serpentine and rally-rooting practice.

With the new yell leader, Jack Dolph, on the job, and backed by his two trusty lieutenants, "Skinny" Scaiefe and "Tootsie" Crandall, the line formed at 4 o'clock sharp in front of Deady. An impromptu band called out on the spur of the moment lead the procession as it headed down Eleventh, thence up Thirteenth to old Kincaid field.

The rooters thronged into the bleachers and the fanettes filled the grandstand. Coach Bezdek staged a scrimmage for the general effect and then the yell leader got busy with their drill.

The old fighting top, Rolland Kennedy, varsity yell leader of 1912, was on the field and gave the rooters a punch in the solar plexus for the lack of "pep" and spirit they seemed to be showing. His usual jovial face was covered with a frown as he poured "Oregon Spirit" into the rooters. He told of the old days and compared them with the present. He helped the yell leader get off on the right foot.

Kennedy dropped into Eugene yesterday to get a line on how things were going at the university. He had intended to leave in the afternoon. But he got rally fever in his veins and stuck by until today to see if he couldn't inspire the men with a little of the "Old Oregon Spirit."

As the "Oskies" boomed across the field the stands reverberated to the tunes of the older days and the football teams seemed to have a bit more dash and vim to their practice.

The yell leaders announced that practices would be held on the field and that every student in the University who did not put in an appearance would be served with a subpoena to do so.

TENNIS GAMES PLANNED

Two Intercollegiate Games Will Be Held With O. A. C. and McMinnville.

Two intercollegiate games have been planned for the women's varsity tennis team by Manager Adrienne Epping. The colleges that will be played are O. A. C. and McMinnville College. A varsity tennis squad has been formed to work up expert players for the team and only the best players are eligible for work on the squad. The squad will be coached by Miss Epping.

"We wish to urge every girl who plays tennis at all to try out for the tennis squad," she said, "because, it is from this squad that the tennis team will be chosen."

Five girls have already qualified. They are: Caroline Alexander, Vivian Pallet, Echo Zahl, Dorothy Wheeler, and Frances Baker. All girls wishing to try out will see either Miss Rader, of the physical training department, or Miss Epping and try outs will be arranged for them.

There is a vacancy on the tennis team owing to the failure of Roberta Killam to return to college this year and a tournament will be held in a few weeks to provide a player to take her place. All girls on the varsity squad are eligible to try out for the team. The two members of the team now are Miss Epping and Frances Elizabeth Baker.

Nearly 100 girls were present on Monday afternoon at a tennis meeting held in the woman's gymnasium. The crowd was divided into three groups: beginning, intermediate and more advanced players. The tennis squad will be recruited from the more advanced group.

PRES. CAMPBELL UNKNOWN

O. A. C. IS DARK MYSTERY

FRESHMEN ARE IGNORANT

There are plenty of students in the Varsity who have never heard of Nottingham, many students here who have never heard of Sheffield, but there are a very few of them that have never heard of P. L. Campbell, president of our college. There are very few of them who have never heard of O. A. C.

The exception occurred yesterday in one of the classes in journalism. Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism, was quizzing his class as to how, in the identification required of names that are to be printed in the stories, P. L. Campbell should be identified. He called on one pupil, asking for the required information.

The student could not give the answer, so the question was put up to the next in line. The answer came, "P. L. Campbell, president of the University or Oregon."

Mr. Allen turned back to the first student and asked the reason for the seeming lack of ability to qualify the name, as it should be qualified.

"Why, Mr. Allen," came the response, "how could I identify him when I have never heard of him before?"

Miss Mozelle Hair, of the extension department, has found a student who has never heard of O. A. C. While crossing the campus, she came across two freshmen talking, and overheard one of them asking the other: "O. A. C.? What is that? I never heard of it."

There may be students who never have heard of places in the war in Europe. That is to be expected. But oh, oh, that students could go to the University of Oregon, and not know that their president's name was Prince L. Campbell, and that one of the greatest football and baseball rivals that the University has, or has had, is the Oregon Agricultural College, at Corvallis.

FLEISHMANN TO TAKE EXAM

Only Man in Eugene Who Has Signified Intention of Taking Rhodes Exam.

Earl Fleischmann, '17 of Eugene is the only man in the state to date who has signified his intention of taking the final examinations for a Rhodes Scholarship this year. Examinations will be held on the Oregon campus October 3 and 4, and will be in charge of President P. L. Campbell who is chairman of the Oregon committee on Rhodes Scholarships. Oregon already has one Rhodes Scholar at Oxford, Luton Ackerson, '15 having gone last year.

Scholarships yield an income of 300 pounds per year and are tenable for three years. The selection is made from candidates who have passed the qualifying examinations in Latin, Greek, and mathematics. Conditions to be fulfilled by the candidate are: that he has been a citizen for at least five years, is unmarried, is between the ages of 19 and 25 and has completed his sophomore year at college.

The Rhodes Trustees desire that the candidate qualify in scholarship, and fondness for outdoor sports, and that he possess qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, kindness, unselfishness and good fellowship.

Selections are made by January 1 and residence taken up at Oxford the following October.

Rooters---It's Up to You

Our Yell Leader has been chosen. Now back him up!

The election of a leader to that all-important place of putting the rooters through their paces is settled. And now that leader is handicapped by almost three weeks of an unorganized student body. Besides that the leader faces a football season for Oregon that agurs the most important in the history of the institution. Rooters get out now for the leader and yell for him until your vocal chords emit sounds like the croaking of the bull frog.

Washington has a rep of outdoing us in rooting. And you may be sure they will endeavor to uphold this rep this year. They are coming strong in a special. And if they beat us we are rotten poor in our Oregon Spirit.

Now everybody out and back the yell leaders to a finish!

YELL LEADER CHOSEN BY STUDENT COUNCIL

Jack Dolph to Lead Leather-Lunged Peace Disturbers During Ensuing Year.

Upon recommendation of the yell leader advisory committee two names were submitted to the student council last night to be voted upon as student yell leader for this year. The names submitted by the committee were Bernard Breeding and Jack Dolph. These names were placed in nomination and the election resulted in the choice of Jack Dolph.

There were twelve of the fourteen members of the student council present at the meeting with eight voting for yell leader. Upon the placing of the names for election voters Karl Becke, Harold Tregilgas and Harold Hamstreet withdrew their prerogative of voting. Voters Ernest Watkins, George Cooke, Jennie Huggins, Fred Kiddle, Laura Jerard, Frances Shoemaker, Ray Couch and Floyd Westerfield balloted, resulting in the choice of Jack Dolph five to three.

The duties of the new yell leader were taken up this afternoon in the first rally-rooting practice of the year. Forming at the front of Deady hall there was a short serpentine to the field where the rooters were put through a strenuous drill and given a good, old-fashioned ginger talk by Rolland Kennedy, former varsity yell leader.

The serpentine and rally resulted from action taken by the student council last night favoring this innovation.

The meeting of the student council opened with President Pixley of the fresh man class in a chair under cross-examination from the council members regarding the recent violation of campus traditions in the painting of numerals in green paint on the sun dial, senior bench and Oregon seal. The freshman president announced he would take the matter up with the class; meeting this afternoon and make recommendations, these recommendations to be acted upon and the results published in the Emerald. The question of the wearing of the green cap must make personal appeal to the student council.

It was the sentiment of the council members that there are insufficient student body dances to foster the democracy of Oregon and to cause the compact union necessary for the Oregon Spirit to live. Whereas now there are dances nightly down town with many students attending and the students are taken from the campus, this could be remedied in a more tactful settlement of the social activities question, was the opinion of the council members. A committee composed of Leura Jerard, Harold Tregilgas and Floyd Westerfield was appointed on this question.

There was some discussion as to the homecoming day. Jeanette Wheatley, George Cooke and Jennie Huggins were detailed as a committee to look into the general committee of the day to have Kiddle was appointed as chairman of the general committee of the ay to have subordinates chosen from the students at large. The program committee was placed in charge of Ernest Watkins.

OREGON SPIRIT GETS HOLD ON FRESHMEN

Babes Imbibe Freely of Effervescent Flow of Gingerly Pep.

"It is because the Oregon spirit is based on love that it lasts, grows and gains in strength" Hugo Bezdek told the 600 or more students who crowded into Villard hall yesterday morning for the first pep-fest and student rally of the year. "Not simply a love for the name of the school but for all of the institutions, memories and traditions of it."

Into the hour of the assembly were crowded, songs, yells and speeches of a nature that brought from the last year students all of the spirit and fight of the "good old days." To the new men and women of the school these served as their introduction to the famous Oregon Spirit, the power of which they had probably all heard of even before entering the school.

Led by Bernard Breeding and Jack Dolph, the first real rooting of the year was held. Villard echoed and re-echoed with the voices of the students, the older ones shouting with intense earnesty and the freshmen poring over their "frosh bibles" and eagerly putting in a word here and there, when the opportunity presented itself.

Following a few words of welcome by Nick Jauregui, president of the student body, President P. L. Campbell emphasized the importance of cultivating a democratic spirit both on the campus and throughout the state.

"We have in Oregon probably the best machinery that there is for a perfect democracy. It is the central business of the university to make of the commonwealth a truly great democracy," said President Campbell. "And on the campus we should recognize the fact that there is absolute equality of opportunity."

That the football team needs more men, men with brains if not weight, was the message that Bill Hayward brought to the students. "There must be a second team," said Bill, "for sometime, somewhere, someone is going to get hurt and then there must be a trained man to step into his place."

The mere announcing of the names of Hayward and Bezdek was enough to draw from the students continuous applause and shouting, but at the sight of the men their joy and excitement was doubled.

"Good prospects won't make a team," said Bez. "It was a saying at Chicago that when Stagg had a team of old men the chances for victory were not as good as when he had a new team. Discourage if you can the feeling of over-confidence that seems to be present not only among the students but also among the members of the faculty. No team falls harder than a cocky one, for when its defense is punctured it falls absolutely flat."

Freshman football was represented by Dean Walker the new coach of the frosh team, who urged that some proper recog-

INSURES FORD FOR $400

IS STOLEN; BUYS ANOTHER

WELCH POCKETS THE $80

A chap had his Ford auto stole 'Twas insured for 400 in gold— The Fords dropped in price, So with $8 on ice He left the ins. co. in the hole.

While Fords were still more expensive than talking machines, Johnny Welch, one of Portland's most prominent crawfish consumers, bought one.

By talking hard, Welch was able to convince an insurance concern that it was insurable to the extent of $400.

Two days after Henry Ford put another premium on the jitney profession, somebody stole Welch's car. After an insurance adjuster had looked through all the nooks in the Welch house to make sure the car was not misplaced, his company paid over the $400.

Welch went out and bought a new Ford and put the rest of the money in the bank—Telegram.

Johnny Welch, '15, was somewhat of a phenom in his college days when it came to deceiving the batters. In his senior year he captained the varsity leaguers. Johnny is a Torch and Shielder and a member of the A. T. O. fraternity.

EX-STUDENTS ARE MARRIED

Miss Marion Stowe Becomes Bride of Dr. C. A. Downs in Portland.

Dr. Chester Athur Downs, a graduate of the University in 1910, and a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity was married day before yesterday in Portland to Miss Marion Eugenia Stowe, also of the University and Tri Delta. Concerning the newly married couple the Portland Oregonian says:

They will sail at once from Vancouver, B. C., on the Empress of Russia for Shanghai, China, where Dr. Downs has accepted a position as surgeon in the hospital maintained by Yale University.

The home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Seth Levens, 1796 East Yamhill street, was artistically decorated for the occasion in Autumn tints. Yellow chrysanthemums and other flowers of the same hue harmonized beautifully with the golden glow of the shaded lights, and with the warmly tinted Fall leaves. Miss Gladys Johnson played on the "cello" "The Evening Star," from Tannhauser. To the strains of the "Bridal March" from Lohengrin, played by Mrs. Curtis Gardner, of Eugene, the bride entered, preceded by her little cousin, Margaret Wood, dressed in yellow silk and carrying the ring in a dainty basket of yellow flowers. The bride wore a shimmering gown of white silk net over cloth of silver.

Dr. Downs was graduated from the University of Oregon in 1910, where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He then went to Johns Hopkins University and obtained his medical degree in 1914. While there he joined the Phi Chi fraternity. Since then he has been house physician in Hartford Hospital, Connecticut, and has done special work in the United States Public Health Service. Mrs. Downs attended the University of Oregon, where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta fraternity. For the last two years she has been in the municipal social service of New York City.

By Jimmy Sheehy.
Shares of Oregon football stock rose above par last night when Johnny Parsons, halfback, "par excellence," and captain of the 1914 varsity, dropped his trunk off the 8:50 Oregon Electric, shook hands with his friends, and pronounced himself "ready" to start his fourth year on the gridiron.

Parson's arrival is nothing less than timely. Expected over a week ago, lemon-yellow fans were growing dubious, and doubted whether he would show up. Johnny's tardiness is explained by the fact that he stopped off a few days with his folks in Portland, en route from Butte, where he spent the summer laboring in the mines.

The appearance of the famous openfield runner ought to shoo the heavy pall of pessimism and secrecy that Bezdek has been dishing out the past few weeks. Likewise it should offset the late pranks of old grid injury and ill-luck who has been working overtime the past 10 days. Yea, verily, Parsons is the "Good Samaritan" to the Oregon team.

Using a made-over backfield, with Shy Huntington, Montie, Brick Mitchell, and recruit Peter Jensen doing the heavy work, Bezdek has set about the task of plugging up the holes left vacant by injuries. Hollis Huntington is out temporarily with a Charley horse, and Brick Mitchell is working in his place. However Mitchell is too valuable an end to be moved to a backfield berth. Any permanent change to the latter position would materially weaken the lineup.

McKinney, from last year's frosh eleven, is subbing in Mitchell's vacated place. Glen Dudley at guard, and Pete Jensen at halfback, showed they had the necessary stuff in the early week scrimmages, to mark them as varsity prospects. Dudley turned out for the first time in Monday's practice and made good from the outset. Jensen is coming fast and will keep someone humping to beat him out of a job. Dudley and Jensen, in company with McKinney, are the latest ones to break bread at Hayward's roundtable.

Despite the makeshift lineup improvement has stood out over the week's play. Realizing that an available corps of substitutes is essential to the moulding of a championship team, Bez has been devoting a major portion of each afternoon to the second-stringers. Last year the lemon-yellow was fortunate in that they were able to go through the entire season with but 12 men. This year the varsity will have at least 18 men who can be shot into the lineup at any minute.

As soon as Parsons gets the lay of the land he will alternate with Shy Huntington, Montie, Montie, and Bill Tuerek in carrying the ball through the opponent's defense. Hollis Huntington, Ray Couch, and Pete Jensen can step in the backfield when needed and Williams, Dudley, and Skidmore will be used for any line emergencies.

Fandon will get its first peep at the varsity in tonight's scrimmage. Thursday has been officially dedicated to yell practice on Kincaid; it being the only chance open to the students to view what the squad is doing. Open practice may also be held on Friday and Saturday.
