

PLUMMER ADDRESSES STUDENT ASSEMBLY

Portlander Is President of School Board Association of United States.

Declares That Students Owe It to Taxpayers to Do Good Work.

O. M. Plummer, member of the Portland School Board, president of the School Board Association of the United States and secretary and treasurer of the Portland Union Stock Yards company, spoke at the associated student body assembly yesterday morning. Mr. Plummer was introduced by President Campbell as a warm friend of the University. Mr. Plummer said his object in coming to "Oregon" was not to deliver any particular message but to receive a re-charge of enthusiasm himself.

He charged the older students to make the freshmen feel at home, for he said the average new student feels like a cat in a strange garret. Make him a part of the college life at once, Mr. Plummer advised. Gain his support and co-operation in every activity.

Interest in all University activities and support for debate and athletics as well as for the organization in which the student is particularly interested, is advocated by Mr. Plummer. "Be all around men and women," he said, "every thing you learn in college is of use to you in your business life. Ability to express oneself to the point and quickly is a great asset in business and debating is the best possible training for this."

Success or failure comes to any undertaking through its support or lack of support and according to Mr. Plummer "Oregon" needs the support of the students in every activity. "We can't all be foot-ball heroes or orators but we can and must give our enthusiastic support. Little parts consistently done are of greater importance than the big parts." According to the speaker the University needs every single man and woman back of her in every thing.

"The realization of the necessity of good work is the duty of every student," said Mr. Plummer, "for a return is expected by the taxpayers who support the University and success in life is the only way in which they can be repaid. Make the best of your opportunity and the supporters of your University will not regret the millions spent that it might have existence. Be a success for your parents sake. Make good that they may not regret the sacrifice of sending you to college. You don't realize how much we are wrapped up in you. If you did

PIPAL'S MEN IN PORTLAND

Orange and Black in Portland Today Enroute to Pullman.

Thursday, October 12, Coach Pipal and a squad of some twenty or more Orange and Black moleskin warriors will board the 11:30 northbound Southern Pacific train en route for Pullman, Washington, where they stack up against Coach Dietz's championship eleven next Saturday afternoon, in the second conference game of the year.

The squad will stop off in Portland for the afternoon and will run signals on Multnomah field to familiarize themselves with the clubmen's gridiron in anticipation of the Nebraska battle, which will be staged on this field a week from this coming Saturday. They will leave the Rose City Thursday night and will attempt to rest up at Pullman the night before the game.

Although Coach Dietz's men were defeated by the Alumni last Saturday, for the first time since the former Carlisle star has taken charge, all accounts agree that the Pullman collegians evinced no interest in the game until after the Alumni had scored on a lucky fumble, when they started in to show their real class and had crossed their opponents goal line once and were well on their way to another touchdown and victory, when the final whistle blew.

Washington State has practically the same team that won the championship last fall and so decisively defeated last season's team of veterans, and what these men will do to Coach Pipal's light and inexperienced eleven, only next Saturday's game can tell.

Practically the same men that made the trip to Moscow last week with the probable addition of A. Anderson, Proctor and Rose, will be taken on the trip. — O. A. C. Barometer.

Mr. Dymont and Mr. Williams attended a meeting of the Oregon Safety Forum, in Portland, yesterday.

CO-EDS LIKE SPORTS

Canoeing and Hockey Popular With Women.

O. A. C.-Oregon Hockey Game Has Been Postponed Until October 28.

Women of the 'U' can be seen every hour in the day crossing the campus on their way to the athletic fields. They closely rival the men in their enthusiasm.

Twelve have taken up canoeing and a number promise to make excellent paddlers. Because of the breezes in the afternoons, which has a tendency to baffle beginners, the classes are held in the mornings. No girl is permitted to take canoeing unless she is able to swim and every safeguard is resorted to in order that the sport will not be dangerous. Only four beginners are allowed in each class. The best record of this season was made Monday when the girls went to the quarry. Later they will be able to reach the head of the race and be back at the end of the hour. It is expected that some of the girls will enter the tryout next spring and compete for the trophy, which will be a pair of paddles.

The hockey game with O. A. C., which was set for the fourteenth has been postponed until the twenty-eighth of this month.

Girls taking playground work meet every Saturday from 9 until 11 in the outdoor gymnasium with the school children of the city. They teach the children the dances and exercises they have learned during the week, which not only affords instruction to the youngsters but gives the University girls practice for future work in this line.

The Women's Athletic association met Thursday evening at five o'clock in Guild hall. A number of interesting talks were given.

Miss Mabel Cummings spoke on "College Girls Athletics."

Gladys Wilkins—"Aim of Athletic Association."

Miss Harriet Thompson—"Last Spring's Field Day."

Miss Freda Goldsmith—"Hockey for the Fall."

Margaret Crosby—"Our Team."

The heads of sports were elected for the coming year:

The head of archery—Ada Hall.

The head of canoeing—Mary Chambers.

The head of golf—Gladys Wilkins.

The head of baseball—Esther Furuset.

The head of basketball—Harriet Garrett.

The head of track—Clara Warner.

Tennis—Francis Elizabeth Baker.

Walking—Gene Bell.

Ruby Bogue was elected secretary and Mildred Garland reporter, Alice Baker was chosen custodian.

STRAUB TO THE RESCUE

HAS FLESH-MAKING RECIPE

By a Bachelor.

Hail fellow sufferers! All who suffer from overdrawn slimmness of shanks and can feel ribs rattle against the internal pivot, hail! Relief is here at last. No longer need you feel agonized because you must stand twice in one spot to make a shadow. No longer is there occasion to moan and pine because you feel heavy at the top and bottom and exceedingly light in the middle section. The gods have heard your wailing and knocking of teeth. You can now add to your frame, solid, everlasting avoidupois at such a rate that in a short decade you will tip the beam at a quarter of a ton!

No other than our own revered Dean Straub has come to our rescue. He comes to have us and in a most amazing manner. Listen!

"You must live right," says the prophet. "The constitution can endure everything and anything that the hardest working student can cause it to undergo. It is made of iron. You simply cannot break it down by hard work—if you live right."

Here is his plan:

"The whole secret lies in your diet. Eat plenty but not too much. First of all let nothing slip past your adam's apple that skids into your lower anatomy with a thud like a ton of coal and then splash around in the bottom of your pit like a freshman in the millrace."

Here is the Dean's pet morning recipe:

"Eat a small bowl of oat-meal followed by a soft boiled egg (cooked on both sides). Wash the whole with a generous supply of fresh milk and then taper off with a half slice of brandied peach.

"I am very fond of milk and drink it all the time," says the Dean.

"If you are married don't eat any more reads as follows: "To act as a board of directors for the University of Oregon co-operative store" and inserting to article 3, section 3, clause 4, which reads: "The executive committee shall act as board of directors for the University of Oregon co-operative store," and to strike out of article 15, the words, "student council" wherever they appear, and inserting the words "executive committee."

Homecoming announcements were made by Martin Nelson, chairman of the publicity committee, who asked that all the students get behind the plans and make November 4, a big day for Oregon. There will be a campus concert at 12 o'clock on that day, a campus luncheon at one o'clock, and the Washington-Oregon football game at three. Stationery advertising the events of the day is on sale at the co-operative store and Nelson requested that the students write their letters on this for the next two weeks.

The last of the hour was occupied by O. M. Plummer of Portland, who spoke briefly on the students' relations to the University and to the state.
