In the executive committee's decision to disallow the University band's request for uniforms there was nothing but the most friendly spirit for that organization. It was not a mere matter of temporary economy that influenced the decision, although the $450 that would have been required is no little sum yet it would have been expended most readily were it not for the fact that compulsory military drill will enter the University next year and the band will then be uniformed in regular military style.

Reservations have been telegraphed from the University of Washington for 300 seats for rooters for the Homecoming Day game on the campus November 4th. A Tribute.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 21, 1916. Editor, Oregon Emerald:

It was with a great deal of pleasure and enthusiasm that I watched today's game between Oregon and California. Not having been able to attend an Oregon game for four years, I can truthfully say that I have been eagerly antion of Oregon possible. It was Ernie Vosper.

As you know, Vosper has been a student of U. C. for over a year, but, in this game at least, his loyalty to old men's department of the republican na-Oregon was unquestionable. First, he obtained permission from the manager, she would be glad to co-operate with the at the risk of incurring the disfavor of the California students, to rope off reserved seats in the center of the grandstand for Oregon supporters. He then got word to all Oregonians that he could, the club work. ever sendingout printed postals stating where we were to get together. When we arrived at the grandstand, Oregon pennants marked our place and there we met many old-grads and ex-students we probably would never have seen had we been scattered throughout the big crowd.

Ernie, himself, had charge of the section and acted as yell leader,-a dandy good one he made, too. He jollied the bunch along, told us the team needed us, and when it came to "Osky-Wow-Wow" I think we made almost as much noise as California and its band. I was never in a crowd where there was more enthusiasm or where a finer feeling of fel-

Those of us who are now so hoarse we can scarcely speak above a whisper, have Ernie Vosper to thank for the privilege of getting together and rooting for our team again. I think the students in Eugene should know something of his loyalty.
