UNIVERSITY DECLARED IN NEED OF FUNDS

Administrative Heads Say Money Must Come, or Expansion Be Checked.

RESULT OF DECREASED TAXES THROUGH STATE

$200,000 Shy This Year, Authorities Say, Will Handicap Extension.

The University of Oregon is in a serious position. Either it must settle into a financial rut and have its expansion checked, or funds must be forthcoming. This is the edict that has gone forth from the administrative offices.

When in 1913 the legislature put the income of the University on the millage tax, allowing the University $3000 upon every million dollars of taxable property in the state, the tax commission assured the University authorities that the valuation of property within the state would steadily increase and keep pace with the growth of the University.

But just the opposite has happened. The University, it is true, has grown, but the valuation of taxable property has decreased, and this year the amount of taxable property in the state is just one million dollars less than a year ago. Thus the University is shy $200,000 this year. Unless this $200,000 is secured, according to the administrative heads of the University, the University will be handicapped seriously in its mission to the people of the state.

In a letter to secretary of state, Ben Olcott, Comptroller L. H. Johnson, of the University said today:

"The rapid increase in enrollment during the past two years amounting to 27 per cent gain over the enrollment at the time of the last legislative session indicates that both additional teaching force and additional room will be seriously needed at the University before the close of the biennium.

"The extension division of the University has reached its limit of growth on its present available budget. The enrollment in extension courses has more than doubled during the past biennium. The demand throughout the state for enlarged service by the extension school is pressing and persistent and indicates its value to the public.

"The University at present needs several new buildings, amongst which may be noted a women's dormitory, an auditorium and a recitation building. The women's dormitory and the recitation building are most urgently demanded. No adequate provision has been made for the housing of the women of the University, although a good dormitory has been provided for the men.

"In order to provide for the growth of the University and carry out the plans of the campus adopted by the board of regents two years ago, it is important that provision be made in the near future for the purchase of twelve acres adjoining the campus before the land is platted into city lots and sold in subdivision."

A summary of the estimates for the budget of the next two years that will be submitted to the legislature at its session in January totals $796,936, while the total income is $578,400. The income is derived as follows:

University land fund interests...$12,000
Current expense fund (fees etc) 22,000
Villard endowment fund interest. 4,400
Millage tax fund .....540,000

The millage tax fund was based on advice from the state tax commission that the valuation of property in the state would be $900,000,000. This is at the rate of $270,000 a year or the $540,000 for the biennium as required by the state legislature.

The campus enrollment of the University has increased 27 per cent in the last two years and 18 per cent this year alone so far. This enrollment includes bonafide four year resident students. In other words the enrollment this year is 930. Summer school students were 314, music school students are 73, school of medicine 77, correspondence (active) 530 and extension classes 1300 regularly enrolled, making a total of those securing benefits from the University in the state 3224.

An interesting item in connection with this is the fact that 4694 teachers of the state are taking reading circle work and handling in their work to be corrected. This requires a staff of faculty members in the extension work that will have to be sliced in case the demanded budget is not forthcoming.

"The tendency of the times is for the University to serve the people of the state more and more," says K. W. Onthank, secretary to President P. L. Campbell. "As a result the people are becoming more and more dependent upon the University. Impairing, then, the growth of the University is sending the youth of the state to the schools of other states, a thing Oregon schools have been preventing especially in the last two years."

PRESS NOTICE

There are in the world today scarcely more than half a dozen musical celebrities whose names are familiar to everyone, and of these, the name of Schumann-Heink is second to none. She it was who blazed the trail for concert artists in many parts of this country. A less remarkable woman could never have survived the strain of constant travel under frequently the most disagreeable conditions. Into the thinly populated country of the Northwest and through the poor sections of the south, Schumann-Heink carried the banner of music.

his weight and drive makes him doubly valuable in advancing the leather.

Tuesday night will see the regulars lined up against the scrubs reinforced by outcast Johnny Parsons. It will mark the first real test of the new combination under fire. Wednesday night, providing Walker's hirelings are convalescent, they will furnish the entertainment for an hour or more.

"ON TO CORVALLIS"

Big Rally to Be Held in Gymnasium Friday Night.

Saturday Is O. A. C.'s Homecoming Day; Aggies Planning Great Reception.

The Saturday game at Corvallis will be the occasion for the annual O. A. C. home-coming and bonfire rally. The Beaver club has made strenuous efforts to arouse feeling over the biggest game of the season and the windup of Northwest football for this fall. Business men and students will co-operate in backing the O. A. C. eleven. Every bit of energy available, both in football brawn and rooster's noise, will be put into play against Oregon.

"On to Corvallis! is the watchword. Victory! is the prayer. Save your tin, don't blow it in; let Saturday see you there."

Think about that game, plan on going, and you of meagre means lay aside a few extra beans to spend for eats and railroad fare.

"I want to emphasize the importance of genuine old Oregon spirit for this game Saturday," said yell leader Frank Scaife yesterday. "We are going to have a hard scrap despite the fact that odds are ten to seven in favor of Oregon. I am afraid our rooting section won't amount to much unless a revival of "pep" takes place here this week. We must make a formidable showing. We've got to furnish the psychology for Bezdek's men. We have pulled them through before; will we do it this time?"

"I want to urge every Oregon student who possibly can to buy a ticket to Corvallis this week-end," said assistant yell leader "Scoop" Rathbun in speaking of plans for the excursion. "Our team will need every ounce of "jaz" we can muster. It's not an expensive trip by excursion rates; let's concentrate on it and carry the lemon-yellow back to Eugene unscathed."

Scaife and Rathbun have plans under way for a rousing parade through town and a rally at the men's gymnasium Friday evening. Bishop Sumner, Don Orput and O. M. Plumer of Portland have been requested to come down for the meeting and help stir up interest. Dr. Reed and Dick Smith are local men who have been invited to speak at the meeting. More complete arrangements for the big rally will be announced in a later issue of the Emerald.

A big stunt between halves will, no doubt, be part of Oregon's rooting scheme if sufficient students accompany the players to make such a venture a success. Scaife will not divulge his ideas for a between-half show but promises something interesting. The University band will enliven the Oregon section with those well known songs that led Bezdek's aggregation to Multnomah field for victory two weeks ago.

Excursion rates on both lines will be given to Corvallis and return for the week-end. A good time in Corvallis is insured everybody who attends. The home-coming committees have planned a gorgeous reception for all visitors, according to reports from O. A. C.

$25 ADDED TO THE FUND

All Co-ed Lottery Dance Swells Sum for Woman's Building.

Approximately $25.00 will be added to the Woman's Building fund as a result of the all co-ed lottery dance held Friday in the men's gymnasium from 4 till 6 o'clock.

One hundred and eighty girls danced, became better acquainted with each other and had a general good time from their own declarations.

Ninety "men" made their dates, hunted up their "ladies," took proper care of them at the dance and even "saw them home."

"I consider this dance a splendid form of student activity," said Dean Elizabeth Fox, one of the patronesses of the occasion.
