TENNIS PROSPECTS NOT ENCOURAGING

Hurd, Hirschner and Downard Are Strongest Contestants for Places.

The tennis team of this year will be on about an equal footing with last year's team, according to Captain Lewis Bond. Captain Bond is the only remaining member of last year's team. His brother and doubles partner, Paul Bond, will not be here this season nor will Willard Hayes, the third member of the team.

Roscoe Hurd, who made a strong bid for the team last year will be out for the team as will Lawrence Hirschner and Paul Downard of the last year's freshman team.

Mortimer Brown, of Portland, ranked sixth in the tennis tournaments of the Multnomah club last season, is expected to enter Oregon the coming semester.

The team has always had the drawback in the past, says Bond, by not having enough good men to play against. He thinks such a condition will not exist this year.

The University of Washington is suffering this year by the loss of their entire last year's team; Muiuria, Canfield and Kaufman. However it was reported last year that their freshman team was equal to the varsity.

The Oregon team expects to have two matches with O. A. C. teams this season as quite a little interest is growing in the sport there, and reports say they will produce a fairly strong team.

Bond requests all men interested in the sport to come out and get into the competitions as soon as good weather begins. The annual freshman tournament will commence soon after the close of the present semester.

In the Pacific Coast Conference this year there was some discussion held in an endeavor to prevent the playing of graduates in tennis tournaments but the conference decided that it would not make any regulations concerning a minor sport.

SCHOLARSHIP CUP IS WON BY PI BETA PHI

Silver Emblem Presented to Winning Fraternity at Assembly.

Dr. J. S. Kirtley, Chicago, Lecturer, Speaks on "The Debt That Grows."

Dr. James S. Kirtley, lecturer and author of Chicago, spoke on "The Debt That Grows" at assembly yesterday. A large silver cup was awarded to the Pi Beta Phi for highest average standing during the past year. This cup was presented to the University student body by the Portland alumnae of the Chi Omega, and is awarded annually to the woman's sorority having the highest average scholarship.

Doctor Kirtley stated that he had heard from indirect sources that Oregon is rapidly coming to its place among the great state universities of the country so he came to Oregon to breathe its atmosphere and get some of the Oregon Spirit.

The functions of a college education can be divided into five classes, according to Doctor Kirtley. The first one is to put the student in possession of knowledge. "College is an institution for localizing the universal knowledge. It is a sort of wireless station which transmits universal truths and localizes them."

The second purpose given is to develop each power used in gaining the knowledge offered. The conscience and will are developed by study, and long after the facts are forgotten the benefits remain, asserted the speaker.

A college education puts a student in possession of those powers which are dormant until brought out by college conditions. The student should have imagination, but should not be governed by it. Rather he should govern it, and put it to its right use.

The Co-Op will handle your second-hand books. Bring them in before the next semester begins.

The personality of the student is developed through his courses. "The work in college is to finish a character and not a course." You will always know it if you do something unworthy, for you build it into yourself." Doctor Kirtley believes that the development of human beings comes from the reaction caused by their environment. "Some reactions are good and some are bad, but they all leave a deep impression on your character."

Education prepares the student to find and find his vocation. Often men and women go through school without finding what they are fitted for, but the inspiration usually comes in college, "like oil is suddenly found in oil wells," said Dr. Kirtley. Another function of education is to enable men to discover new vocations, he believes.

H. W. Davis, pastor of the Eugene Baptist church, began the assembly with a devotional service.

YALE SETS ALUMNI DAY.

The third Saturday in May will be homecoming day for Yale's undergraduates in 1917. The student council has decided that the students may return to their preparatory schools for the weekend without taking cuts. The closer contact thus gained between the schools and college is planned to be beneficial to the schools, but will serve as an advertisement for the college.

PUSHBALL EXPLODES.

The pushball which Coe college borrowed from the University of Iowa, exploded a short time before the contest between the warriors of the two underclasses was to take place. The ball is the only one available at the present time, so that a settlement of the differences which exist between the two classes cannot be concluded for some time to come.

Fifty eligibles for the varsity and freshman teams turned out at the University of Washington last week in response to a call for basketball candidates.

urrences in football in Oregon in its early years.

Father Moran, of the Eugene Catholic church, told of his interest in the Oregon team and sports in general. He commended the team work of the eleven and brought out the point that "the old fight" goes a long way toward winning athletic contests. He drew an analogy with the fight of life in this respect also.

E. O. Immel then presented A. R. Tiffany, student graduate manager, a stuffed goose, supposedly the remains of a goose enjoyed by the Oregon eleven shortly before Christmas day, and reported to have belonged to Mr. Tiffany. Mr. Tiffany replied that "if the eating of the geese had anything to do with the victory he was willing to sacrifice it."

Coach Hugo Bezdek was called upon to tell "How It Was Done", naming some of the things that aided in defeating the University of Pennsylvania. The coach told how he had come West and tried the Eastern style of play with the Western boys and found that it would not work. By changing to a style of play that suited the Western boy he said he made out better; he said he would take the Western boy to coach in preference to the Eastern.

Trainer "Bill" Hayward then gave comments on the game and the trip. "In years to come, whether I am interested in the team or not, I want to be seated on the Western side of the field at an inter-sectional game—for that is the side that is going to win," said Bill.

Captain Johnny Beckett, who spoke last, expressed the thanks of the team to the Chamber of Commerce and the people of Eugene for their support throughout the season.

During the banquet a student quart sang Oregon songs.

pects to win. Oregon has been out of intercollegiate basketball and there is no way of comparison.

This same fact causes her to be doped for a loser this year. Yet with at least four good men contesting for every position on the varsity, Oregon may be in the "dark horse" class.

There can be no comparison with teams in the conference until after the game with Dallas next Saturday. Dallas defeated O. A. C. by a score of 32 to 4. O. A. C. was also defeated by Pacific University by a score of 34 to 25, which seems to indicate that O. A. C. was not playing in their best form when they played the Dallas team.

All of Oregon's opponents in the conference have bright prospects with practically all the best men of last year's games back on the floor.

The success of Washington State winning the conference championship last year with eight victories out of ten games played, is attributed to a fast machine with no individual stars. They had but one man picked on the all-Northwest team. None of the team was lost by graduation and they have a good opportunity to duplicate last year's team and last year's victories.

O. A. C. was runner-up in the conference last year but late reports have given a heavy blow to their prospects. Sieberts, captain of last year's varsity and of the all-Northwest and all-Pacific coast selections, has taken a position in the employ of the college and will not play while the report is current that Captain Mix has left college. He has not returned from the Christmas vacation.

The loss of these two men is a body blow to the Aggie hopes but with the other members of a winning squad still on hand they are formidable contenders for title honors.

Whitman college, in third place in the northwest conference last year, is losing Young, guard; and Clearin, forward; and will be considerably weakened. Dement, all-Northwest center, is still playing in his position.

Although Washington was in fourth place last year, they are expected to have a strong team this year with the old letter men back including Davidson, coach, captain, and all-Northwest and all-Pacific coast man. Last year they had but one letter man to build their team around.

Idaho has good chances for a winning team this year. Last year all games were lost by narrow margins. They often led during the first part of their games but seemed to lack endurance.
