K. K. K. STANDS FOR FUN FEST MARCH 3

Student Body Affair Will Help Swell Women's Building Fund.

MONSTER CARNIVAL IS BEING PLANNED

Best Feature Wins First Brick to Be Used in New Structure.

K. K. K. What is it? K. K. K. stands for that big "fun fest" the student body is to pull off March 3 at the armory, but the real meaning of the three letters is as dark a secret as the real nature of the committee's plans. Everything is to be shrouded in a cryptic mystery. Even the music for the affair promises to be absolutely original and in perfect tune with the general spirit of the celebration.

The committee in charge of the big affair promises to offer a prize to the class putting on the best side show or feature attraction during the half hour intermission between the fore and after part of the program. The prize is to be a brick a highly polished brick of unique design, which is to be the first brick in the new women's building, for which the funds from the entertainment are to be donated.

Chairman Stoddard of the management committee says that no restrictions will be placed on the costuming. In fact, he reiterates, the more lucid the idea in dress for the affair, the better. At the same time, it is to be understood that the celebration is not to be a pants, bulldog shoes, and Belmont collar. No 1917 taboo. Middy blouse, for women will be most correct.

Dancing will take place when something else isn't going on. This will be most of the time. Plenty of entertainment of a peculiar brand will be interspersed with the dances, however. A period of thirty or forty minutes will give the classes an opportunity to make a headlong dive into the pockets of the helpless onlookers, circus side-show style.

Pop-corn, dancing, ice cream, punch, hot dog, fancy will be cheap in order that everybody may have more jitneys to spend on other forms of fun. The above mentioned eats and drinks will be dispensed by girls with the assistance of Charlie Johns, "Mike" Harris, "Slim" Crandall, Clifford Severts, Harold Gray, Rodney Smith, and "Bill" Steers.

The public will be allowed to view the carnival from the gallery, and during the intermission, through which special stunts will be in process, they will be allowed to mingle with the throng of merry-makers.

De Witt Gilbert, advertising manager of the enterprise, promises something startling as a medium to open the eyes of the public and students of the University and high school to the importance of the grand frolic.

WRESTLING MEET IS OFF

Chances for a wrestling meet with the University of Washington went glimmering yesterday on receipt of a telegram from the Washington manager stating that his team would be unable to meet Oregon. The purple and gold meets O. A. C. tonight and the following Saturday takes on the Washington state grapplers. If they came over here Monday it would mean three meets in eight days which their coach thought was too strenuous.

This leaves the varsity without any other matches for the season.

VESPER FOR SUNDAY MARCH 4

The next University vesper service is planned for a week from this Sunday. Dr. Kelsey, Mr. Adam's manager, was to have conducted the meeting but he was unable to stay. It is not known yet who the next speaker will be.

Oregon's Freshmen defeated the O. A. C. Rooks this afternoon in basketball 24-12.

YES, HE WRITES LETTERS MAILES THEM IN A BOX OREGANA RECEIVES THEM

Over at Friendly hall is a student who heard there was a mail box in the library. Now this bright young man had four letters to write so he sat himself down and addressed one to Miss Blank at Gaston, then he prepared one for Mr. Blank, of Monmouth, one for Mr. Blank at Aulse, and the last he wrote to Mrs. Blank of Corvallis. When they were completed he sought the convenient box. That, at least, is the supposition of the feature editors of the Oregana who found the four stamped envelopes when they opened their collection box which for some time had reposed on the radiator in the main reading room of the library.

Be it known the Oregana feature box is for feature campus news and the Oregana editors had no intention of usurping Uncle Sam's prerogative of carrying mail.

NEW STUDENTS TOTAL 102

Final Figures Show 25 per Cent Increase; School of Medicine Decreases.

One hundred and two new students have enrolled since January first, making the total enrollment on the campus 1030. The greatest number at any time before has never exceeded 861. This is a gain of 175 or over 25 per cent. Total registration in all departments except the extension and co-response courses is 1639.

The decrease in the school of medicine was not because of the lack of applicants but because the entrance requirements have been raised. Admission is refused to conditioned students.

CONCERT DATE IS CHANGED

Orchestra Will Play March 23 Instead of March 16.

The date of the annual concert to be given by the University Orchestra, which had been announced for March 16, has been changed to March 23. In announcing the change Miss Winifred Forbes, director of the orchestra, said that due to the fact that the orchestra had been called upon to play so many times lately for different University entertainments enough practice had not been given to the selections for the annual concert program.

MU PHI HOLDS MEETING

Discuss Children's Music; Program Includes Talks and Music.

Mu Phi Epsilon held its regular meeting this afternoon in the recital hall of the music conservatory. The subject under discussion was "Children's Music." Miss Winifred Forbes, who had charge of the meeting, arranged for the following program: "Songs for Children," Rose Powell; "Piano Study for Children," Jessie Farris; "Violin Study for Children," Winifred Forbes; Haydn's "Toy Symphony," given by some of the members of Mu Phi Epsilon.

27 MAJORS IN DEPARTMENT

Women Will Teach Physical Training and Playground Classes.

Twenty-seven University girls are majoring in the department of physical education, according to Harriet Thompson, assistant in the department. Most of these girls intend to teach physical training in high schools or conduct playground classes. The year 1914-1915 there were 32 girls registered in this department.

GLEE CLUB TO SELECT MEN

Seven Places to Be Filled by Tryouts Mar. 5.

The Men's Glee club will hold a tryout March 5 in Dean R. H. Lyman's office for two or three first tenors, one or two second tenors and three second basses. The Men's Glee club has lately been placed on the same footing as the Women's glee; meaning that once a man has made the club he will hold his place through his college course and will not be required to try out each year.

CO-ED DEBATE TEAM IS SELECTED TODAY

Vivian Kellems, Amy Carson, Roberta Schuebel Are Successful in Tryouts.

Women Will Journey North to Seattle to Engage in Forensic Battle.

As a result of the tryout for the co-ed team held in Guild hall this morning at 9 o'clock three girls were chosen to represent the University. The successful contestants were Vivian Kellems, Amy Carson and Roberta Schuebel.

These three will take the trip to Seattle in April when Oregon debates the University of Washington on the question: "Resolved, that the United States should pass a constitutional amendment granting equal suffrage to men and women in all states of the union." Washington will defend the negative, the University of Oregon taking the affirmative.

This same question was used in the tryout Saturday morning, each contestant being allowed to choose the side she preferred. Ten minutes was given to a constructive speech and five minutes for rebuttal. The judges were Coach Prescott, Manager Walter Myers, and Miss Julia Burgess. There were ten contestants registered.

Misses Kellems, Carson, Schuebel have the honor of making the first Oregon co-ed team in four years. The last co-ed team disbanded in 1913 after a successful debate with the University of Washington on the immigration question.

When asked about the chances for this year, Coach R. W. Prescott said, "The University of Washington has a strong team and we are under the disadvantage of lack of training, but nevertheless I think there will be some surprises. We have mighty good material to work with. Miss Kellems is a member of the regular varsity team, having made her place in open competition with the men and she will have the advantage of taking part in the O. A. C. debate next week. Miss Carson made the varsity team as a substitute last year and she has been interested in debating ever since her freshman year. Miss Schuebel is the first sophomore to make the team. She is especially quick on delivery. 'Taken altogether the outlook is very favorable,' he concluded.

The new squad will have its first meeting March second, at 4 o'clock, in Coach Prescott's office.

EXHIBIT IS COMING SOON

Work of Great Artists to Be Shown on Campus

An exhibit of 189 etchings sent out by the Chicago Society of Etchers will be installed in the exhibit room of the architecture building next week, and on Friday on, will be open to students and townspeople from 10 until 4 o'clock each day. The exhibit will probably remain here for one week.

Procured through Andrew P. Willetson of Seattle, who collected the exhibit of color prints recently shown on the campus, this collection represents an unusually wide range of artist life. The etchers come from Paris and London, Detroit, Salem, Mass., Seattle, San Francisco and Boston. They live anywhere on the globe from Pawtucket, R. I. to Sicily and Florence, Italy, from Spain to Minneapolis, Brooklyn to Stockholm, or Toronto to San Remo, Vienna, St. Louis, New York, Cincinnati and Philadelphia are also represented in the list of more than 73 different exhibitors. All the exhibitors are members of the society.

Some of the most familiar names on the list are those of Frank W. Benson, who had a painting in the exhibit of oils at the chamber of commerce two years ago; Lester Hornby, Helen-Hyde who is known chiefly for her wood-block prints which were on exhibit shown here during the holidays; B. F. O. Nordfeldt, Ralph Pearson, who is a painter etcher, and Ralph Seymore, famous as a printer and designer of type.

The exhibition comes here direct from Seattle, and will not be shown in any other Oregon city. The class in art appreciation will meet Tuesday for the first time, when Mr. Eaton will lecture on "American Etchers" in anticipation of the exhibit.

EATON TELLS HOW U. MAY RAISE STANDING

Many of His Colleagues Want Domestic Science Taught, Says Legislator.

Tells Also of Demand for Training of Teachers for Work in Grade Schools.

To get a first-hand analysis of the way the University stood in the opinion of the state legislators at their recent session in Salem, the Emerald obtained an interview with Mr. Allen Eaton, for several years a member of the legislature. He spoke freely to the reporter, showing how the University fails in several respects, emphasized the growing sentiment over the state for the pledging of students their second year in college rather than their first, and urged the need of a home economic course at the University. The interview follows:

When asked how the University of Oregon stands with the state legislature, Mr. Eaton replied:

"Better every year, but still not so well as it will in ten years from now if the University continues its extension work and includes in its campus activities the things for which there is a demand. There is much encouragement in the attitude towards the University today as compared with that in 1907, when I first went to the legislature. I remember there were ten members of the joint ways and means committee, including myself. Three of these men and several other legislators did not know where the State University was located. I was reminded of this condition a few evenings ago when the chairman of the 1917 ways and means committee referred to the 'Eugene University.' However, most members now speak of the State University or the University of Oregon. It seems to me almost a century since, in 1907, the standing appropriation of the University was raised from $47,500 to $125,000. There was much dissatisfaction in certain sections of the Willamette valley and Governor Chamberlain vetoed the bill. It was then passed over his veto and just when we were relaxing from a long, hard struggle the referendum was called on the bill and it was referred to the people. These difficulties which seemed misfortunes then, were not unmixd with advantages, it seems to me now, for the campaign was then begun to make the people of the state understand the University, its needs and its work, a campaign that must never stop.

"When Governor Chamberlain vetoed this bill he stated that he did not believe in the state supporting an institution of higher learning. Today are thousands of voters in Oregon today who hold the same view, but the growing generation is gradually modifying this. The millage tax under which the Agricultural college and the State University are operating, is a help to both in their efforts to prove their desire to serve the people, but neither is as strongly entrenched in public confidence as their friends would like to see them.

"But to get back to the University in the legislature, the fact that the appropriation for $65,000 was carried without opposition in the house and with only two dissenting votes in the Senate is an index of the growing popularity of the institution, but it should not be forgotten that it was the approval of the ways and means committee report rather than a thorough knowledge of the University that brought such a vote. The treatment of the ways and means committee is due to an number of things which I can not take space to enumerate here, but two of which I must not overlook. One was the visit of the legislators which was so successfully handled by citizens, faculty and students; the other was the presence of Cap. Kubli as chairman of the house ways and means committee. Kubli is a graduate of the University and his loyalty found a gratifying opportunity in the University bill. I hope many students and alumni will make it a point to express their appreciation to Cap. Kubli. The habit of showing some appreciation to those who support the University is one that should be encouraged; it would, if practiced, double the loyalty to the University in a short time. Very few men, comparatively, carry out their student day resolutions, keep the Uni-

JUNIORS WILL FROLIC MOORES INSURES LIFE LIVE MEETING PLANNED

The Juniors, 1918, you know, are going to hold a class meeting a week from next Wednesday that will make history, so says the committee on perpetration.

These four cuprits have generated plans that they claim are to make any mustache-shaving head look like Kincaid field before the Washington game alongside of Lake Superior.

All juniors are warned to be present. An official physician and hears will be provided by the committee and for the committee.

"Be sure your lungs are in good condition that day," advises Don Newbury, head instigator. "You may have to stand up and battle for your rights. Forensic powers will be at a premium. Moores has already taken out an insurance policy. That's what I call gyping the company."

"Not a dull moment," promises the rest of the committee. Emma Wootton, Charles Crandall and DeWitt Gilbert. "Even Newbury won't escape. This will be a live meeting. Requiescat in pace."

The expenses were $203.70, an itemized account of which follows:

The slides used to advertise the meetings at the moving picture houses were donated by J. A. Wells.

"APRIL FROLIC" MARCH 24

Committee Working Out Plans for Annual Stunt Show.

Plans for the "April Frolic," March 24 are well under way. The committee consists of Charlotte Banfield, Kate Schaefer, Frances Shoemaker, Rosamund Shaw, Cleone Carroll, Adrienne Epping, Olive Risley, Ethel Murray, Sara Baker, and Roberta Killam.

As usual a silver cup will be given to the sorority or women's club putting on the best vaudeville stunt. An individual prize is offered to the girl dressed in the most becoming or original costume. Last year Ethel Murray, representing an alarm clock, won the prize. Those not appearing in fancy costume will be obliged to sit in the balcony—25c please! A new scheme of stage arrangements will be tried this year. Two stages are to be provided in order that one organization may be getting ready for their stunt while the other is giving theirs.

TO PUBLISH BEST PLANS

Class in Playground Work Will Make Out Field Meet Events.

The class in playground work under the direction of Miss Cummings, head of the department of physical education, is working out plans for a field meet and play festival. The plans which are the best will be printed in a booklet which will be sent out through the state by the extension department. There has been a demand for plans of this sort by rural and small town schools.

Ten days was given to complete the work, for considerable study of conditions is necessary. Two members of the class, a man and a woman, each work together, as the work divides itself into plans for girls and small children, and games for boys.

GIRLS' GAME DECIDES STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Louise Bailey and Anthony Jaureguy Head Rival Fives Which Will Play Here.

OAKLAND AND PENDLETON WILL VIE NEXT FRIDAY

Eastern and Western Oregon Represented. Teams Are Unbeaten. Rivalry Keen.

Final arrangements have been completed for the all-state girls' championship basketball game. The Pendleton team of eastern Oregon and the Oakland team of western Oregon meet Friday night, March 2, in the men's gymnasium.

In a letter to Graduate-Manager A. R. Tiffany this morning, Anthony Jaureguy, coach of the Oakland team, wrote: "I have just received a telegram from H. T. Drill, of Pendleton, saying they want to play off the game on Friday the second. That date is all right with us. The Oakland team will go to Eugene, arriving on the 5:30 train, accompanied by a member of the faculty. We will try to decide on officials for the game either tomorrow or Sunday. Will let you know as soon as we agree."

H. T. Drill, of Pendleton, who has the managing end of the game from eastern Oregon in hand, graduated from the University last spring and is the principal of the Pendleton high school. The coach of the Pendleton team is Miss Louise Bailey, also a graduate of last year and in her undergraduate days prominent in student body activities. She was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Jaureguy will be remembered by the older members of the present student body as the manager of the Emerald during the editorship of Leland Hendricks two years ago. He is both the coach of the Oakland team and the principal of the Oakland high school.

This is probably the first state championship game of its kind ever attempted. Both teams have shown a fight and dash and the superior game they have been playing has led to the exchange of challenges as published in the Emerald of recent date. Now comes the acceptance and the staging of the game in the men's gymnasium next Friday night.

It is expected the gymnasium will be packed with the eastern Oregon backers lined up in behalf of their round-up girls while the western Oregonites will be loyal to their Oakland Amazons.

After the game a dance will be given under the auspices of the management of the two teams.

ALUMNI HELP START CLUB

Bend Will Have College Men's Organization; Oregon Grads Interested.

Former university men met recently in Bend, Ore., and laid plans for establishing there of a university club. The plans of this club will be similar to those of the same organization of other cities. The members have a view, besides their own pleasures, the betterment of the community life.

A number of prominent members of the alumni association of the University of Oregon, who are living in Bend, have become connected with this movement. Among them are: F. Lambert '12, H. J. Overturf '04, D. F. Miller '13, Henry N. Fowler '14, H. H. DeArmond, Steve Steigl and Gerald Eastman.

ARCHITECTS WILL VISIT

Portland Men Coming to Judge Work of Students.

The Architectural club will on certain Wed. A. H. Pipes, Edgar M. Lazarus, Alfred H. Smith and W. C. Knighton at a banquet at the Hotel Osburn, 6 o'clock, Wednesday night. After the banquet there will be speeches and a musical program.

They are coming down from Portland to judge the work of the architectural classes. This will be done in the afternoon and the awards will be announced after the banquet. Mr. Knighton is the architect who designed the Administration building.
