BARKER HERE MARCH 10

Noted Theatrical Manager to Visit University.

Will Address Students on Subject, "Why Worry With Art?"

Harley Granville Barker, London actor, playwright, and manager, will deliver an address at the University on "Why Worry With Art?" on Saturday, March 10. Mr. Barker, is 40 years old and a veteran of the stage. He first appeared in 1891 when only 14 years old. He has been engaged in theatrical work since then.

Mr. Barker was the first manager to produce George Bernard Shaw's plays successfully. He was closely associated with the work of the Stage Society. In 1904 he joined J. E. Vedrenne in the management of the Court Theatre, of London, where many new plays were successfully produced under the joint supervision of the two men. Later he became manager of the Kingsway Theatre, assisted by his wife.

Mr. Barker began to produce Shakespearean dramas at the Savoy Theatre soon after and directed in the production of the "Winter's Tale" in 1912. After that he produced several other Shakespearean dramas in quick succession.

"The Marrying of Anne Leete" was Barker's first play, appearing in 1901. Other plays written by Barker are "The Voyage Inheritance," 1905; "Waste," 1907; "The Madras House," 1910.

The necessary funds to bring Mr. Barker to Oregon have been guaranteed by the Associated Students, asserted Professor A. F. Reddie, professor of dramatic interpretation. "This will be a very interesting address, especially to those taking theatrical work, but is of unusual interest to everyone. The man himself is an interesting study," said Professor Reddie.

Miss Wootton, who is editor of the Oregonian, says that the book will be ready for the press by the time she leaves.

EXTRACTS STUMPS PAINLESSLY

They are making an experiment at the University of Washington to remove stumps from a field by means other than dynamite. A sheet of iron is placed over the stump and a fire is placed in the sheet and left burning for twenty-four hours. At the end of that time the stump is completely destroyed.

Crime Runs Rampant---Unknown Senior Purloins Koyl Cup---Three Suspected

The Koyl cup is gone! Nick Jauregui, its last owner, has issued a call for private detectives. Come early and avoid the rush. No reward is offered. Nick says he has his suspicions and all he needs in order to take legal action is evidence. There is enough of the circumstantial kind but the whereabouts of the cup itself is a mystery.

However, on this campus there are four persons who have recently been conducting themselves in rather a shady manner. Glenn Dudley, "Scoop" Rathbun, "Skinny" Scaiefe, and Fred Kiddle each has openly stated that he considers the president of the student body a man unfit to own the cup which is awarded to the best all round student in the University each year by the Y. M. C. A. They claim that as a committee they were entitled to remove the elegant stein from his room. The methods used they refuse to divulge, likewise the name of the one who committed the deed.

Nick was fearful for the safety of the cup after the last class meeting so took it off the shelf in his room and hid it in some old clothes. Shortly after he met Dudley on the campus and the latter stopped him with the question, "Where's your cup?"

"In my room," was the reply. That was all but the remark had made him curious. When he got back to the dorm he looked for the silver bauble. It was gone.

"Personally I suspect Scaiefe," Jauregui told an Emerald reporter.

Scaiefe was then given the third degree which elicited the following: in answer to "Did you take the cup?"

"I refuse to answer. Our class prexy is the biggest crook I college. He would be just as likely to take it as I."

"Do you think Nick is a deserving character?"

"Deserving of being hung. Nick is perverted. I have signed statements from members of the class to that effect."

"Have you a guilty conscience?"

"Not since my freshman year."

"Are you acquainted with the complainant?"

"Yes, much to my sorrow."

"Were you ever in the penitentiary?"

"Yes, two years ago."

"How did you happen to get in?"

"Went visiting."

"Have you ever seen the cup?"

"Yes, in Nick's budwor."

"Where would you keep it?"

"In my budwor, of course."

"Did you ever notice that the complainant was careless about leaving his clothing lie around?"

"Yes, he came to physics class without any vest on. Besides that, I know something else about him. One of the gardeners said Nick was no good in the head because he wanted to ask the board of regents to let him work 10 hours instead of eight."

"But if you are seeking information. I saw a number 12 shoe print around Nick's room and a dark figure stealing down the stairs with something under his coat. Now, Dudley here wears a shoe that size."

Dudley, upon being questioned admitted that he had seen prints of a boot, size number 8 around the room. Mr. Scaiefe wears a number eight. Dudley claims he never desired to own the cup. Scoop Rathbun, who is implicated in the matter says he held a committee meeting one dark night in the cemetery and unanimously voted that he was the proper man to own the cup. "The trouble is I don't know where to find it or I would help myself," he says. Kiddle also admits that he had a consuming desire to own the token and went there with the other three to see it a month ago, but he couldn't get it.

PRESS NOTICE

Doctor Herbert I. Travelutte certainly had the large crowd a "lafin", at the Eugene theatre last night when a much larger class of subjects responded to his invitation to try out the mysteries of hypnotism.

Monday afternoon at 4 p. m. he presented a novel free out-door exhibition called the "Blind Fold Automobile Drive." A local committee hid an article and Dr. Travelutte drove a powerful Overland car loaned to him by the Overland Garage Co., over the same course they had previously, blind-folded and produced the article hidden by them, a slip of paper up at the Atlas club.

Tonight he announced he would present one of his feature tests, the hypnotic circus, said to be the funniest ever.

MUSICIAN MAY COME

Mrs. Edward MacDowell Is Invited to Stop Here.

Will Interpret Compositions of Noted Husband in Lecture-Recital.

Efforts are being made by R. H. Lyman, dean of the school of music, and Allen Eaton, of the architecture department, to secure on the campus the presence of Mrs. Edward MacDowell. Mr. Lyman and Mr. Eaton hope to have Mrs. MacDowell give a lecture-recital in which she interprets the musical compositions of her husband, Edward Alexander MacDowell, who died in 1908.

"I have not yet heard from Mrs. MacDowell in regard to the date of her arrival here," said Mr. Eaton. "But she intends to visit the coast soon, and I am making every effort to have her in Eugene."

Mr. Lyman says that Mrs. MacDowell's appearance here in interpretative work would be an excellent thing for the school of music. "MacDowell ranks as one of the best composers of his age," said Mr. Lyman. "He composed a number of well known pieces, the most notable being the 'Sonata Tragica.' Mrs. MacDowell's interpretations of her husband's work rank high in musical circles."

Mrs. MacDowell, in addition to her recital work, is at present director of an artists' colony near Petersburg, New Hampshire. This colony is composed of musicians, artists, writers and sculptors.

Blossom Time in the Golden State

A friend just back from Southern California says: "The weather was fine, in fact too warm for heavy clothes. Many were bathing at the beaches. Oranges were ripe in the valleys, while the mountains nearby were covered with snow."

With warm sunny weather it will not be long before the blossoms on the trees will be everywhere announcing that spring time is here.

Take a vacation trip now where life is different; where climate surroundings and amusements are out of the ordinary. Spend a different February.
