

DIAMOND BREVITIES

By Jimmy Sheehy.

Baseball's annual call to the various major and minor league training camps finds several ex-University of Oregon athletes on their payrolls. Lyle Bigbee, a former baseball, football, and basketball man under Coach Bezdek, is basking in the warm Honolulu sunshine with the Portland Beavers. In a practice game against an all-Chinese nine, one of the Celestials, Ayan by name, plugged one of Lyle's fast balls far out of the lot for a home run. "Skeet" Bigbee, a brother of Lyle, is in Eugene, prior to leaving for the Pittsburgh Pirates' training camp. His rise to fame last season after being let out by Portland to the Tacoma Northwest team was the talk of the baseball loving public.

Junior class meeting tomorrow, 10 a. m. in Guild hall.

FAMOUS PLAYWRIGHT TO SPEAK SATURDAY

Granville Barker Will Stop on Tour for One Lecture in Eugene.

Writer, Actor, Producer Is Foremost Figure in His Field in United States.

Granville Barker, actor, playwright and producer, the foremost figure in his field in the United States, will give an address in Villard hall Saturday evening, March 10, on his most popular lecture, "Why Worry With Art?" He is being brought to Eugene under the auspices of the Associated Student Body, the University and the Fortnightly club.

Granville Barker is one of the few playwrights who champion the new idea in the drama. One of his purposes in lecturing through the country is to scatter suggestions on making the theatre more attractive, both from the standpoint of the play itself and the stage setting.

"The two things that I want most to make the public feel are, first that the theatre is important, and second, that a good play doesn't mean a solemn play," said Mr. Barker. "On the contrary, the better a play is, the jollier it is, and the better fun. A good play should exhilarate and entertain. It must be a vivid and natural expression of something. The sociologist who claims that it doesn't matter what sort of plays are seen by the millions of people who go down to the theatres every day, is writing himself down as a callous person."

Mr. Barker has been the champion of this new idea since 1902. His presentations have included plays by Bernard Shaw, Anatole France, St. John Hankin, and John Galsworthy. Part of the credit for the popularity of Shaw's plays is due to Mr. Barker, for it was through his efforts that many of them were put on the stage.

In his own plays and in his productions of the older playwrights, Barker has set forth ideas that have come as a long needed and wished for change in stage work, and play producing. He is not in sympathy with the old, conventional, and artificial methods of producing. One of his famed presentations was the "Midsummer Night's Dream," with music written by Cecil Shaye, an English composer, which he showed both in New York and London.

The lecture has been placed in the hands of the student body and President Jaureguy has appointed a committee of management consisting of Ed Harwood, chairman, Eva Hadley, Margaret Crosby, Percy Boatman and Roberta Killam.

thank, who says that if a heavy course in military science is required, other requirements will be modified to enable the students to take that work without undue labor.

"Under the recent law passed by Congress, uniforms will be supplied the men," said Mr. Onthank "and some arrangements are in view by which men electing four years of military work will have their board and room furnished by the government, during at least the last two years of their residence at the University."

CAMPAIGN ON AGAIN

Greater Oregon Committee to Be Organized.

To Advertise the University in State High Schools; Will Issue Booklet.

Plans are being made for the revival of the "Greater Oregon" committee for the purpose of advertising the University among the high schools of the state. A similar organization was active last year.

The committee is to be composed of about twenty-five members of the upper classes, the chairman to be elected from among the number. Nicholas Jaureguy, who is in charge of the organization of this committee, has called a meeting tomorrow afternoon, when plans for the work this year will be discussed.

Among the plans to be suggested will be the issuing of a booklet telling of the advantages of the University. Another plan which will be considered will be that of using stereopticon machines and slides in the high schools showing views of the University and campus life.

It is probable that the state will be divided into districts with committees of two or three members in charge of each one, making each committee responsible for the publicity in one district.

STUDENT ASSEMBLY GRANTED BY FACULTY

Committee Will Allow One Hour Some Time in April or May.

Suggestions Desired; Program to Be Decided at Meeting of Student Council.

The much discussed student assembly will probably be held some time in April or May, according to Karl Onthank, secretary to President L. L. Campbell. The faculty committee which met last week allowed one hour to the student body to be used for an assembly, the program for which was to be decided upon at a joint meeting of the student council committee and the committee of the faculty. This meeting has not yet been held nor will it be held until at least next week. The coming meeting of the board of regents scheduled for Saturday of this week interferes with a meeting of the committees before that time.

The chairman of the student committee, Ernest Watkins, is anxious to have students hand suggestion to him or to other members of the committee, Jennie Huggins, or Harold Hamstreet, in order that when the meeting of the faculty committee is arranged something definite may be considered. The members of the faculty committee are: President Campbell, and Professors John Straub, E. W. Allen, James Gilbert, Mabel Holmes Parsons, F. S. Dunn and Ralph Lyman.

All assembly dates before April have been decided on according to secretary Onthank.

MATH. CLUB TO MEET.

The Mathematics club will meet tomorrow evening, March 7, at the Alpha Phi house. Professor E. E. DeCou will speak on mathematics he has met at the institutions where he has studied and taught. The evening will be devoted largely to social amusements, and a committee will report on mathematical diversions.

SHOCKLEY ORGANIZES CLASS IN SWIMMING

Purpose to Arrange Branch of American Red Cross Life-Saving Corps.

Feats Taught in Diving, Rescue Work, Breaking Death Grips and Resuscitation.

Ed Shockley, men's instructor of gymnastics, is going to organize a branch of the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps here if there are those in the swimming class who show a sufficient advance to warrant it. Mr. Shockley holds an examination card in the association and is qualified to give the tests to all those whom he thinks qualified to pass in it. The men will be taught swimming and diving feats, rescue work, means for breaking the death grips, swimming out with a drowning person and methods of resuscitation.

The object of this organization which has its headquarters in Washington, D. C., is to reduce the accidental drownings to a minimum. Their slogan is "Every Swimmer a Life-Saver."

Mr. Shockley organized his class in swimming two weeks ago with a membership of 35. The class meets every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 4 o'clock, and is for beginners as well as more advanced students. The side strokes and speed strokes are taught. If Mr. Shockley finds sufficient material he will arrange for a swimming meet with O. A. C.

J. D. FOSTER IS HONORED

Elected President of Oregon State Y. M. C. A. Convention at Salem.

J. D. Foster, secretary of the University Y. M. C. A. was elected president of the Oregon state convention of the Y. M. C. A. at Salem Saturday.

Those who attended the convention from here were Dr. A. E. Caswell, Loren Roberts, J. D. Foster, and A. L. Webb. The local delegation led the discussion previous to the selection of candidates for the district offices and helped in organizing the meetings. They also pledged $20 to the state association subject to the ratification of the University Y. M. C. A.

WILL VOTE ON HONOR SYSTEM

Campus vote will decide upon the honor system issue that the student council of the University of Oklahoma is advocating. Students have the opportunity to speak for or against the movement in a public discussion meeting.
