POTTERY EXHIBITION HERE

Two Oil Paintings by Bruce Horsfall Also on Display.

Allen Eaton, instructor in art, is conducting an American pottery exhibition in the art room of the Architecture building. Part of the exhibit belongs to Mr. Eaton, but a larger part of it at the present time is pottery sent out by the Rockwood Pottery at Cincinnati, Ohio. Various kinds of pottery are on display, Rockwood, Paul Revere, Marblehead, Cruiby, Van Briggle, Newcomb, Waldrath and some Moravian and Batchelder tiles. In connection with the exhibit Mr. Eaton is showing some examples of pottery made from native clays and is giving an explanation of the process of pottery making from raw clay to highly glazed and decorated pottery.

In addition to the potters exhibit are two unusual oil paintings showing birds in flight in the fore ground, by the celebrated painter of birds, Bruce Norsfall.

ORCHESTRA CONCERT SCHEDULED MARCH 22

University Musicians Will Mix Popular Music With Classical.

Program to Include Solos, Readings, Violin Duets and Feature Numbers.

The University Orchestra will present a program combining classical popular and semi-popular music at its concert Thursday evening March 22 in Vallard hall.

"We have been told that our organization shows up much stronger this year than formerly," said Miss Winnifred Forbes, director of the orchestra. "For the first time in its history the orchestra is composed entirely of students, which proves much more satisfactory. Some outside musicians play with us for pleasure and they help out a great deal, but they do not belong to the organization."

The Surprise Symphony, a classical piece by James Haydn, the greatest composer of the eighteenth century, sounds especially pleasing, said Miss Forbes. Ballet music from Faust, which is old but always popular, finds a place on the program this year too.

The Katinka selections by Frelm, a resident of California, and the Toy Symphony represent modern music on the program. The Toy Symphony requires several instruments such as nightingale, coo-coo, and quail whistles in its rendition and children will enjoy it especially, Miss Forbes believes.

The entire evening, however, will not be devoted to orchestra music, but flute solos by French Moore, violin duets, and a vocal solo by William Vawter, baritone soloist in the Men's glee club, will also be included in the program.

Charlotte Banfield, who entertained one evening this winter for the benefit of the Women's Building fund, will give a reading.

Members of the University Orchestra are:

First violins: Alice Van der Sluis, Robert Scaree, Genevieve Rowley, Viola Crawford; Second violins: Ada McMurphy, Franklin Folas, Bryon Garrett, Lucy Powers, Lillian Boylen; cello: Glen Macey; piano: Martha Tinker; flute: French Moore; clarinet: Loren Butler; Cornets: Harold Simpson, Morris Morgan; trombone Walter Grebe; drums: Lee Bown; tympani: Maurice Hyde.

Miss Forbes said that the money received from the 25 cents admission will be used to buy more equipment.

A resolution read by Harold Hamstreet favoring the abandonment of the present forensic system by which each debater takes part in but one intercollegiate debate was passed by acclamation.

The by-laws of the associated students were amended to make definite provision for the submitting of a candidate's name by petition after the regular nominations have closed.

Karl Becke, chairman of the committee on millrace rules, offered a resolution favoring a strict enforcement of the legislation passed last year. It also carried.

The executive committee reported that with the $5000 voted by the board of regents Saturday, the new athletic field was assured and that work on it would be begun during the summer.

Harold Tregilgas, chairman of the student body dance committee reported that no dances had been planned owing to the failure of any organizations to relinquish their unused dates and requested that any offer of these be sent to Dean John Straub as soon as possible.

Announcements were made of the underclass student body dance, March 31; the Orchestra concert, March 22, and of the Oregon circulation campaign.

SCOUTING FROWNED AT.

The Yale Alumni Weekly says that football has become too much commercialized. This publication is opposed to "secret football practice, scouting among the smaller colleges and prep schools for new men, and giving men scholarships in order to secure their football services."

WANT GIRL SWIMMERS

Program for Meet Under Consideration by O. A. C.

Women May Have Chance to Demonstrate Pet Diving Stunts.

Judges of the first O. A. C.-Oregon women's swimming meet to be held here probably on March 31 will include a member of the Multnomah club of Portland and a representative of each of the competing schools.

Try-outs for the positions on the team have not brought out as many girls as should swim in the meet. At the class Tuesday afternoon there was a better representation but all the swimmers have not responded to the call. There is a general feeling that only experts are wanted, but anyone who can keep on top of the water and has a good stroke can qualify for form. Oregon must have at least eight girls on the team and if there were a demand for places, the squad might be enlarged to twelve.

Those girls who have been doing good work, or who should be out on account of their previous experiences are Marian Coffey, Jeanette Moss, Ethel Murray, Genevieve Keller, Marie Beach, Ruth Trowbridge, Evelyn Tregilgas, Marian Grebel, Adrienne Epping, Dora Birchard, Olive Risley, Sara Barker, and Allyn Johnson.

The tentative program which was presented to the Women's Athletic association at its meeting Tuesday afternoon by Evelyn Tregilgas, head of the department of swimming, is divided into three parts; speed, form, and diving. The events under speed are; a plunge off the side of the tank for distance a 20-yard crawl, a 40-yard swim with the side stroke, and a 20-yard shuttle relay race of the entire squad.

The events based on form are exhibitions of the crawl, side stroke, Trudgen, and breast strokes.

There will be three diving events, a running dive from the front, a standing dive and one which will be optional with the individual diver.

This plan is in the hands of the physical education department of O. A. C. awaiting adoption.

NEXT!

There is a rumor that Barnard college is to have a "Chair in Advanced Skating." The rumor also says that the head of the "School of Advanced Skating" will be Charlotte, an expert skater, who is appearing at the New York Hippodrome now. The rumors have not been confirmed, but two tennis courts have been flooded and frozen and about fifty of the young ladies of Barnard have appeared on them.

HERE'S TO THE WOMEN!

Texas women combined last week at the class elections and organized a steam roller which elected a co-ed for every office. Who says women are not politicians?—Daily Iowan.

WRIST WATCH ENCOURAGED

More than 300 students at the University of Illinois have gone on record as being in favor of the use of wrist watches. A petition was circulated and no trouble was experienced in securing names.

BLESSED' BE THE JITNEY!

Kansas students have no excuse for being late to class. The university has installed a "jitney" service at its own expense, and a decrease of 50 per cent in tardiness has already been noted.

ARMY TEAM TO PLAY WEST

The West Point football team is to play a game in one of the middle west cities from now on. It is only allowed to play one game off the home grounds each year, and as a result of the requests for a return game, it will play in that district.
