Every Soul on Campus to Get Bumped In Feature Section of Oregana, Threat

(By Gladys Wilkins)

With a winged "O" in the upper corner of each page, a 1918 in the lower corner, and a double green line around it all, the first 60 pages of the Oregana come off the press this week. Before May every one of the 400 pages will be chucked full—not 350 pages or even 308; just exactly 400.

Ye Adrienne Epping has us all pigeon-holed somewhere behind those glasses; she's got the dope on everybody, and wants it distinctly understood, and duly prepared for) that every soul on the campus is going to get bumped in the feature section.

Enough pictures have been sent to Portland engravers to make over $500 worth of cuts and an industrious staff swears that nobody has been missed. This should remind everybody that the higher-ups have quit bluffing, and that Friday absolutely sees the last installment of pictures mailed to the engravers.

The 1918 Oregana is going to have punch and back-bone and pep from the ground up. It's so full of features that one-third of the whole book is included in that section. There's going to be one shock for everybody and a dozen or so thrills around.

Listen to this—no two pages of the whole section printed in the same kind of type; not one old picture used from cover to cover; entirely new and original title pages, with names that have been chosen as particularly befitting the University campus; new treatment of the fraternities, suggested by "those who know, and Old Father Dopster."

Then, the worst blow yet, there's going to be a Cream de Mint section, just to get everybody cooled off on those first hot May days.

And hear!—set up in the vivid hue of frosh ignorance are the words of sages; there is advice for everybody for every month in the year. By careful investigation it has been discovered that even the most highly respected members of the faculty and student body can be lost in the devious windings of a "Year At College." With this fact in mind, bits of hopeful advice have been gathered together and will be handed to the puzzled prof, his wife or his student grates, free-for-nothing. It is therefore quite possible that the cooling purposes of the Cream de Mint section may fail of its mission, and cause it to be rechristened the Mint Julep.

Out of a collection of 162 prints of Kaiser campus photographs, 20 of the best have been selected to compose a whole section near the front of the book. They will be of campus buildings and particularly attractive views, and are to be made by a new process of engraving never before used in an Oregana.

The Oregana has every assurance of success this year. It will be out in time to be a May-basket for everybody with the necessary $2.50.

EXTENDS TIME FOR OREGANA PAYMENTS

Tregilgas Allows Until April 1 for First Installment on Annual.

Present Pledge Sale Is 500;
Publishing Cost $5.10;
Student Price $2.50.

Notwithstanding the fact that the pledge card system of securing subscriptions for the Oregana has resulted in 500 orders from students, the time for payment of the $1.50 installment on the pledges has been extended to April. The extension is made in order that students heretofore short of funds may take advantage of the special offer.

"During these two weeks of additional time everyone will be interviewed by contestants in the sale contest," is the statement made by Harold Tregilgas, manager of the Oregana, who hopes for a record circulation this year.

The extra two weeks will also allow all contestants a better chance to come out long on their sales. The following are doing their best in selling at the present time: Jeanette Calkins, Hunt Malarkey, Walt Kennon, Don Roberts, Henry Thorset, Willy Knighton, Loren Roberts, Harold Mason, Jim Vance, Lucile Saunders, Ross McKenna, Bob Atkinson, Ed Harwood, and Earnest Watkins.

Tregilgas says no reports or relative standings will be published until the final report and the winner is announced.

To reach a paramount sale is the ambition of the staff because they believe every student needs an Oregana and that each is able to take advantage of the easy payment system of $1.50 down and $1.00 on receipt of the book.

This year the Oregana is to exceed the one of last year in contents, but the price remains the same—$2.50. This year's subscription has exceeded that of last year by about 75 at the present time, that of last year being about 450.

The actual cost of the Oregana is $5.10 while a student gets it for $2.50. Thanks to the earnest endeavor of the staff the deficiency is made up in the advertising.

PRISON FUND GROWS

Faculty and Students Have Now Pledged $378.

Reports Yet to Be Received From Alumni and Two Houses on Campus.

Fifty-five dollars more has been pledged by faculty and students of the University for prison relief, thus swelling the fund to $378. The recent pledges as given out by J. D. Foster, Y. M. C. A. secretary, are $17 more from the faculty, $24.50 from one sorority and $13.50 from another.

The fraternity which a faculty member promised would pledge $300 has not been heard from.

Mr. Foster hopes to have $500 contributed by the students and the same amount by the alumni, although he has not heard from the alumni yet. There are still two more houses on the campus to turn in reports of their pledges.

The money is used for the relief of prisoners in the camps in all the warring countries. The relief work is being done by the International Young Men's Christian Association. Testimonies from the prison camps show that the scope of the work is extensive and that the relief is sorely needed and much appreciated by the prisoners, many of whom are professors and students.

Books of all kinds from novels to grammars are much appreciated by the prisoners. In one camp there is a library of nearly 500 volumes, and so far, not a book has been idle a single day.

Contributions, either money or pledges may be turned in at the Y. M. C. A. headquarters in Deady hall or given to Loren Roberts, Louise Allen, Dean Straub, or Miss Burgess.

ORATORS WILL COMPETE

Preliminary Tryouts for Failing-Beek- man Contest April 28.

All who expect to tryout for the Failing and Beekman contest should hand in their names to Professor Prescott at once. The date of the preliminary tryout has been set for 9 a. m., April 28 in Guild hall.

Orations for the tryout should not exceed 1200 words. The judges will grade on both composition and delivery. From this contest five seniors will be chosen to enter the finals May 31st.

The winning orator receives a prize of $150.00, the second oration receives $100.00. These prizes were given to the University by Henry Failing of Portland and C. C. Beekman of Jacksonville.

Last year Harold Humbert and Lamar Tooze tied for first place and Cleveland Simpkins won second prize.

PORTLAND DATE STANDS

Although deprived temporarily of their regular coach, Dean Ralph H. Lyman, who was called east by the illness of his mother, the Mens' Glee club is continuing rehearsals under the direction of Thomas H. Annett. The club will appear in Portland as scheduled April 6. Mr. Lyman is expected to return March 27.

FACULTY MEN JOINING

University Club Asks Oregon Professors to Affiliate.

Twenty Apply From Here; Initiation and Membership Fees Not Required.

University of Oregon faculty members are accepting the invitation from the University club of Portland making all faculty members of Oregon colleges eligible to membership in the club.

About twenty have now made application and many more will probably do so in the near future, according to Karl Onthank, secretary to President Campbell.

New faculty members from Oregon colleges are to be admitted without paying the usual initiation and membership fees which are required of all resident members. The initiation fee amounts to $50. Graduates from the United States military or naval academies are also eligible as members.

In asking college professors to join the organization, the club hopes to create a closer bond between the college men throughout the state of Oregon and the University club of Portland.

In the dormitory of the club house on Jefferson and 6th Streets there are transient rooms which, though not extraordinary are sometimes better than those in hotels, according to Robert Treat Platt, president of the University club.

There are University extension lectures given by men distinguished in literature, the arts and the sciences, besides social activities of many kinds, all of which add to the enjoyment of membership.

TENNIS ASPIRANTS OUT

Will Meet Washington and Per- haps Multnomah and Pacific.

Captain Bond and Four of Last Year's Squad After Var- sity Positions.

Now that spring is here, the aspirants for the tennis team are bringing their racquets from the winter hiding places to start practice. Tennis, in company with track and baseball, suffered through the continued reign of old Jupe Pluvius. While the other sports had a chance to use indoor equipment, the racquet wielders had to wait until the cement court was free from moisture.

Manager A. R. Tiffany has promised one and possibly two trips this season. During the first part of May three wearers of the lemon-yellow will journey north to engage the University of Washington in the annual series of five matches. Tiffany is also trying to schedule a trip down the valley to meet Pacific college, Salem Commercial club and Multnomah club.

The only man in school who played against Washington last year is Captain Lewis Bond. Roscoe Hurd, Kenneth Moores, Robert Wright and Donald Roberts from last season's squad have all signified their intention of coming out. These men together with the sophomores who were ineligible last year ought to provide keen competition for the two places that are open. Lawrence Herschner and Paul Downard of the second-year men both show promise.

Through an oversight in the rules of the Pacific coast conference it was thought for a time that freshmen would be eligible but in looking over the minutes of the faculty meetings Manager Tiffany found that there was a residence requirement of one year besides the eleven-hour rule before a student could represent the University in athletics.

Captain Bond is trying to have the courts back of Kinraid field fixed so that an open tournament can be held to bring out any new material there is. This is impossible with only the cement court available.

The annual freshman tournament is to be played in a couple of weeks. Mortimer Brown is the only one of the frosh of whom much is known. He played well in the state tournament in Portland.
