

New Spring Coats and SUITS

Youth is in the air this Spring and the smart garments in our store show its charm.

When the sun pops out bright and warm on these March days, how Springy it is—just the day of days when you will most enjoy donning your new Spring coat or suit and responding to the call from the glad outdoors.

Its surprising how young the new clinging silhouette can make one look and feel.

And here for your pleasure are the very latest creations in young women's garments. Let us show you these new coats and suits—the new materials and colors alone are worth going many blocks to see.

TRYOUTS FOR TENNIS WILL BE HELD SOON

Elimination System Employed Last Season to Be Used Again.

Captain Bond Says Material Is Limited; Paul Bond and Willard Hayes Absent.

Tryouts for the tennis team will be held after spring vacation, according to Lewis Bond, captain of the Oregon team and will be run off as fast as possible. The system of elimination tournaments used last year will again be adopted. The squad will be picked about April 1. After that date the court will be reserved at 4 o'clock for varsity practice.

The tennis schedule which has been partially completed provides that a team of three men shall play the University of Washington in Seattle May 25 and 26. This team will probably play Multnomah Club on the way to Seattle. The dates for these matches were put late to increase the probability of good weather.

In order to provide tournament practice for the team before the intercollegiate matches, a contract has been made with Pacific University for a week-end match, May 5 to 6. The Salem Commercial club has also signified that its team would play Oregon. Formerly, little tournament practice was given the team before its big matches.

Captain Bond states that a hard fight awaits Oregon at Seattle, for although the members of last year's team have graduated, the freshman material last year was better than the team which beat Oregon 3 matches to 2 in Eugene.

Also the material for the team this year is not as good as that last season, due to the absence of two men, Paul Bond and Willard Hayes. Several of the men who are practicing regularly are showing up good, according to Bond, all of whom are eligible to the team. Among them are Hershner, Wright, Hurd, Downard, D. Roberts and Walter Church, who went to Seattle two years ago with the team.

O. A. C. has no tennis team this year, as has been the case for the two past years. Captain Bond says that O. A. C. gave up tennis after its team of 1914 was beaten by Oregon and has never attempted another squad.

The freshman tennis tournament will be held soon, according to Bond, who wishes all entrees in that tournament to hand their names to him before eight o'clock Tuesday evening. This tournament is an annual contest, which was won last year by Lawrence Hershner.

A student at the University of Kansas was held up and robbed by two negroes the other night. The robbers obtained 55 cents.

NO EXTENSION CHANGES

Work Will Follow Play Begun by Shafer, Says Kilpatrick.

Earl Kilpatrick, new director of the Extension division, announces that he has submitted no new plans to the administration. His work will be only a continuance of that of Dr. Schafer, his predecessor, he declares.

The extension work began in Oregon in 1907. At this time correspondence courses were offered by only a few professors. There was no central organization or consistent development of the work until 1912 when Dr. Schafer took charge of the correspondence study department. He at once mapped out and instituted a program including all the present extension activities and others which the department has not been able to undertake. Mr. Kilpatrick asserts that, "It is due to Dr. Schafer's initiative and vision that the University of Oregon is among the leading Universities of the United States in the development of extension work."

Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism, has been confined to his home the past three days with an attack of la grippe. He is reported improving and expects to meet his classes Monday.
