

A. T. O. AND FACULTY PUT OUT OF RUNNING

Sigma Nu and Fijis Win Yesterday's Contests by Large Scores.

FINAL GAME OF FIRST ROUND PLAYED TODAY

Semi-Finals Will Begin Tomorrow; Sigma Chis Meet Phi Deltas.

Two more teams were put out of the running for the doughnut league championship when A. T. O. lost to Sigma Nu, 9-0, Tuesday afternoon, and when the Faculty conceded defeat to the Fijis in the fourth inning yesterday with the score standing 10-0. This leaves but one more game to be played in the first round—Delta Tau vs. Dorm. They intend to play this afternoon.

One would have had to be an expert statistician to score the A. T. O.—Sigma Nu game. There were strike-outs, walks and errors galore. Just as a sample: In the first inning Dick Nelson struck out four men and yet Sigma Nu tallied three runs. Passed balls on the third strike account for the singular performance. With this three-run lead, Sigma Nu eased along with a run or so every inning, just to keep going. Glen Dudley struck out ten men and allowed only two or three hits. Dick Nelson started the twirling for A. T. O. but after the first-inning disaster changed places with Carner. "Bas" Williams went into the box in the fourth and fanned three out of the four men to face him. Brick Mitchell connected with one for a terrific drive into Ray Couch's territory, and before Couch could get the ball back to the infield, Brick had made the circuit.

Along about the third inning the A. T. O. began to shake up their lineup to find a winning combination, but here is the way the game started.

Sigma Nu—Beckett, c; Dudley, p; Comfert, 1b; Kiddle, 2b; Geary, ss; Mitchell, lf; Holman, cf; Parsons, rf; Green, 3b.

A. T. O.—Carner, c; Nelson, p; Williams, 1b; Howell, 2b; Pease, ss; Pennington, 3b; Zumwalt, lf; Adams, cf; Couch, rf.

Sigma Nu ..... 3 1 4 1 *—9
A. T. O. .... 0 0 0 0 0—0
A good-sized crowd was on hand to see the Faculty endeavor to take the measure of the Fiji nine. Professor Hopkins was supposed to do the receiving for the professors but failed to show up, so Sandy Leonard was drafted into service. The commerce department, by the way, had its full strength out, except Hopkins. Neither Bill Hayward nor Coach Bezdek would play but contented themselves with watching from the sidelines.

The Faculty went out easily enough in the first. Then the fun began. Grebe singled through short, Lind was out, and Sheehy got a life when Professor Smith kicked his grounder. Bill Tuerck picked out a hole in the outer works and plunked the ball there for a homer.

Five runs was the total for the inning. The second was a repetition of the first. With Grebe on first base, Lind sent up a high fly to McAuslan in right field. Mac set himself for the catch, but the ball hit the ground five feet behind him. He tore furiously after the sphere and made a desperate heave to head Lind off at the plate, only to have Williams cut off the throw at first base. The Fijis added three more runs before the inning was over.

Morton won glory among his teammates by slugging one of Bill Tuerck's choicest curves for a questionable two-sacker in the fourth along the left field.

$25 PRIZE OFFERED SENIOR

Oregon Chapter American Institutes of Architecture to Give Books.

A prize of $25 worth of books on architecture has been offered by the Oregon chapter of American Institute of Architecture to the senior in the department of architecture at the University of Oregon who has shown the most consistent work during the course. The decision will be made May 23 by Ion Lewis and Maurice Whitehouse of Portland, members of the education committee of the Oregon chapter.

FRIENDS ONLY INVITED ACTORS SHUN PUBLICITY FIVE PLAYS SCHEDULED

Not unless one has a friend in the 11 o'clock dramatic interpretation class will he be able to see the five one-act plays that will be presented in Guild hall Saturday, May 19.

The division has busied itself during the last semester in putting on one-act plays before the members of the class, and recently a vote was taken as to the five best plays. Those that won the most votes were "The Gaol Gate," "The Shadow of the Glen," "The Marriage Proposal," "In His House" and "The Maker of Dreams." These plays were coached, respectively, by Hester Hurd, Beatrice Thurston, Kathryn Hartley, Russell Fox and Emma Wootton and will be presented soon.

PROGRAM COMPLETED

Commencement Week to Be Busy; Schedule Full.

Baccalaureate by Dr. E. H. Lindley; Address by Dean Briggs of Radcliffe.

The commencement-week program has been completed. All the events are planned, and a full schedule, commencing Friday, June 1, and ending with a reception at the president's home Monday afternoon, has been made.

Dr. Ernest Hiram Lindley, professor of philosophy of the University of Indiana, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, June 3. Dr. Lindley spoke to the University earlier in the year.

The Friday evening preceding will probably be the time selected for "Midsummer Night's Dream," a play directed by Professor Reddie, to be held outdoors on the campus.

Saturday noon will witness the alumni banquet, either in the men's gymnasium or on the campus.

The same evening the Failing-Beekman oratorical contest will take place in Villard hall.

On Monday morning the commencement address will be given by Dean Le Baron Russell Briggs of Radcliffe College. In the afternoon a reception at the president's home will be given.

Tuesday morning the annual combat with exams will start for all other than the new alumni.

The faculty commencement committee will meet within a few days and will definitely decide all details of commencement which are not yet arranged.

JUNIORS TABU FLOWERS

Class in Meeting This Noon Takes Action on Week-End Plan.

The Junior class held a special meeting this afternoon in the lecture room of the Education building to discuss unfinished business of Junior Week-end. The report of the treasurer, Harold Tregilgas, was given, showing a balance of $210.93 on hand, and in the report of the finance committee for the week-end, Mr. Tregilgas announced that he expected all expenses would be met by the receipts from the junior prom. Fifty dollars have been allotted to the canoe carnival and it was urged that all organizations expecting to enter canoes make an effort to come up to the qualifications for the award of the prizes for the best floats.

The flowers for the prom were voted tabu and a committee will be appointed to see that no flowers are worn.

If the class funds are not drawn upon to make up a deficit on Junior Week-end the Juniors will give a class picnic some time soon. It was announced that Oreganas will be ready for distribution Friday or Saturday of the week-end. A meeting of the prom committee was held immediately after the class meeting adjourned.

M'GUIRE OFF TO BREMERTON

President Architectural Society Joins Uncle Sam's Navy.

John McGuire, a senior in the University and president of the Architectural society at the University, will leave next Saturday for Bremerton, having been appointed as architectural draftsman in the United States navy.

RED CROSS TO SHARE IN PLAYS' PROFITS

Proceeds of Two Nights' Productions Will Be Given to Society.

Program Includes "The Game," Written by Louise Bryant, '08.

In order to do their share toward national preparedness, the class in dramatic interpretation at the University, assisted by the two dramatic societies, will produce three one-act plays in Guild hall May 4 and 5, the proceeds to be devoted to the work of the Red Cross society. It is hoped by those in charge that the house will be filled both nights, as this would insure a substantial gift to the cause.

The production is made especially interesting by the fact that one of the plays is from the pen of an Oregon alumnae, Louise Bryant Trullinger (Louise Bryant, '08). Mrs. Trullinger, who is now in Washington, D. C., doing special writing for the New York Tribune, sent the manuscript to A. F. Reddie, head of the department of public speaking, as an indication of her love for her Alma Mater.

The play, "The Game," was first played by the Provincetown Players of New York. This group of players originated from the effort of a group of artists, actors and authors, who spent much of their time in Provincetown, Mass., to amuse themselves. They started by producing plays written by local artists. They realized such success that they originated the Playwright's theater in New York, where plays are produced with attention centered on art and not the commercialization of art.

"The Game" depicts symbolically a game of dice between Life and Death with the life of a youth and the life of a girl at stake. The youth, a poet, despondent and seeking death because of the loss of his sweetheart, comes upon Life and Death. The game follows and Life wins. At this moment the girl enters. Upon hearing the youth's name, she recognizes him as the author of several songs that she knows, and sings and dances for him. The youth, forgetting his sorrow, falls in love with her. Life and Death have another game, this time for the girl, and Life wins again. The part of the youth is taken by Margaret Crosby; the girl is played by Frances Frater; Harriett Polhemus represents Life, and Burt Thompson, Death.

The two other plays, "Nance Oldfield," by Charles Reade, and "Neighbors," by Zona Gale, are both comedies guaranteed by the producers to draw many a laugh from the audience. Professor Reddie, who will take the part of Nathan Oldfield in "Nance Oldfield," has played the part professionally in the east. He will be supported by Charlotte Banfield as Nance. The part of Susan, the maid, will be taken by Grayce Sage. Robert McNary plays Alexander Oldworthy, a cousin of Nance.

"Neighbors" is a small-town comedy and tells the story of kindly neighborliness. The scene is laid in Miss Abel's kitchen where the women of the neighborhood have gathered to talk things over. Their efforts to help a fellow neighbor in distress bring on some humorous situations and end in an unexpected manner. The cast boasts of no stars, but each part is a character part that requires careful handling. The women, played by Mary Alice Hill, Hester Hurd, Helen Bracht and Claire Gazley, and the girl, by Eva Hadley, are assisted by Tracy Byers and Arlo Bristow as village men.

TRIPLE SOCIETIES PICNIC

Underclass Girls Will Go Across the River for a Frolic Saturday.

Ten o'clock and Eleventh and High streets is the time and the place. And the girl? Why, every girl in Triple A, and every girl in Triple B. This joint picnic is to be given on Saturday at Young's Pasture. The freshmen will provide the food for the picnic, while the sophomores are most mysterious in regard to the entertainment they will furnish. Bring an Indian blanket and prepare for a good time.

NEW ATHLETIC FIELD; CONTRACTS ARE LET

Building Work Already in Progress; Will Be Rushed to Completion for Next Year.

Grandstand Bonds to Be Placed on Market During Summer Despite the War.

The contracts for the building of the new athletic field have been let and the work is already in progress.

All of the contracts that have been let so far are to local firms. A. C. Matthews secured the contract for the gravel for the foundation of the field. The bid called for from four to six thousand yards at 36 cents a yard. The Fairmount Brick and Tile company received the contract for the tile which will be used for draining. The amount of the contract could not be obtained at the business office. J. W. Mahoney was awarded the contract for the ditching and laying of the drains. This work will cost about $190.

Work has already been started on the tiling and will be rushed forward so that the field will be ready for next year.

The bonds for the grandstand voted by the student body will not be placed on the market until some time in the summer, according to A. R. Tiffany, graduate manager. The war has not injured the chances for the sale of the bonds, thinks Mr. Tiffany. "You may say for me that I think the bonds are all right," he said yesterday. Offers have been received from at least three firms to buy the bonds when they are put on the market, but no deal has been made yet. The names of the firms bidding for the bonds could not be obtained.

The bonds will probably be for a term of five years. The rate of interest has not yet been set, nor has the committee been named who will have charge of the sale. It will undoubtedly be in the hands of the graduate manager and a committee from the board of regents.

The committee in charge of the examination of bids and awarding of contracts was composed of A. R. Tiffany, graduate manager; L. H. Johnson, comptroller, and A. C. Dixon, chairman of the executive committee of the board of regents.

UNIVERSITY DAY IS NEXT

Leaflet Issued Outlining Work. Will Take Three Forms.

The first state-wide University Day will be observed Friday, May 11, 1917. A leaflet has been published outlining the work, and this will be used by the local county chairman of the campus day committee.

The suggestions for observance were prepared by motion of the alumni council, which is composed of Walter C. Winslow, president; Jennie Harris, vice-president; Ben Williams, secretary, and Henry McKinney, Camille Carroll Board, Andrew Collier, Francis Galloway, Edward Bailey, Agnes Geary, Carlton Spencer and Thomas Townsend.

The leaflet contains a message from the President of the University, which is an appeal for cooperation from the alumni and all former students of the University and the establishing of University Day as an annual event.

"In suggesting that University Day be hereafter observed annually throughout the state, the alumni council suggests that local observance take at least three forms in every community. (1.) Closer organization of alumni. (2.) Celebration of the day in good fellowship. (3.) Some work for the University," said Mr. Williams.

PLANS FOR DORM PROGRESS

Contract to Be Let in June; Building One Unit of New Quadrangle.

Dean E. F. Lawrence of the school of architecture announced today that the plans for the new women's dormitory will be finished in two weeks and the contract will be let the first of June. The building will be along the Free Georgia or Colonial style of architecture, with the new Women's Memorial building, the Refractory and the two dormitories forming an enclosed quadrangle.

GIRLS LIKE HARD WORK PREFER MILITARY CLASS

MISS CUMMINGS PLEASSED

"I've decided that girls like hard work," said Mabel L. Cummings, head of the physical training department, when she found that many of the people who had enrolled in the military training work temporarily, until outdoor sports were open, now want to continue with it in preference to some of the less strenuous outdoor sports.

"The military training work will be good practice for field day," Miss Cummings continued, "as we are really doing quite strenuous work. The girls can now run a minute and a half, in their places, then march a few minutes and run a minute and a half again."

HONOR EMBLEM SELECTED

Plain "H" Adopted to Be Badge of Scholarship for Next Year.

The members of the Honor Students' society of the University met last night in Professor Howe's room and selected a plain "H", about three-eighths of an inch long, as a fit emblem for their scholarship.

Ernest Watkins, senior, is president of the organization, and Dorothy Dunbar is vice-president.

Most of the work for the coming year will be left in the hands of Dorothy Dunbar. It is the plan of the organization to call a meeting of those who will try for honors next year some time during the first month of school, in order that the organization may be started earlier in the year.

CLASS PLANS FIELD DAY

U. Women to Direct Children's Track Meet and May Pole Dances May 25.

The playground class, with the teachers in the public schools and Superintendent Rutherford, are busy with plans for the children's field day, which is to be held on Kincaid field on the afternoon of May 25.

The meet will include all, except high school students. There will be track work and Maypole dances. Nine Maypoles will be going at once. The girls' playground classes are directing the dances.

"The work is good practice for the girls," said Miss Cummings, head of the physical training department, "and I think the field day will be very interesting."

Eulogistic speeches introduced 35 candidates for student body offices to the assembled students Wednesday morning and enthusiastic applause welcomed each new aspirant into the race. Competition for the various offices promises to be keen, for the rival candidates are evenly matched and heartily supported. The introductory speeches would indicate that whatever the result of the elections next Wednesday, the wheels of government at Oregon will turn next year with a velocity and smoothness never before attained, for every student- orator was eloquent in describing the ability of his candidate. The list of nominees represents almost every organization and department on the campus.

Harold Tregilgas was the first nominee for president. He was introduced by Floyd Westerfield who enumerated his present offices as member of the student council and member of one of its standing committees, circulation manager of the Oregana, and treasurer of the junior class. He added that Tregilgas was a good mixer and was willing to work without reward.

Ernest Watkins nominated James Sheehy, emphasizing the fact that he was thoroughly familiar with student activities and was essentially a man of action, had won his letter in baseball and had been president of the sophomore class.

The call for nominations for vice-president brought Jack Elliott to his feet with the name of Ray Couch, whom he considered the man for the place in view of his all around activity as member of the student council athletic, and good student.

Frank Sciaefe proposed the name of Emma Wootton for secretary, characterizing her as a versatile and capable girl worthy of the "highest honor tradition decrees to be given to a girl." He mentioned her position as editor of the Oregana and her activity in Theta Sigma Phi, University Players, and Girls' Glee club.

Roland Geary followed with the nomination of Leura Jerard. He said that her experience as member of the student council, where she did good work, fitted her for the position of secretary of the student body. He mentioned her activity in other student undertakings, and her general familiarity with campus organization.
