Junior Week-end, Big Time of all the Year, Due Next With Athletics, Militarism, Eats

(By Gladys Wilkins)
 Instead of being a frenzied round of social stunts, rushes and general scurry, Junior Week-end this year bids fair to be really enjoyable—a true campus event. To be sure, the fraternities are having guests, but their entertaining is of a far more simple nature than that of the sororities, and much less expensive.
 So it is that with the modified rush-week appearance put by the boards, the class of '18 is offering a simplified, patriotic, semi-military week-end.
 The program contains about all the usual features as a matter of fact. Formally opened with the canoe fete Thursday night, May 10, the usual campus day work will follow Friday morning. Walks will be built, the "O" on Skinner's painted by the usual bucket brigade of be-smear-ed Frosh with their senior foremen and a general clean-up and improvement campaign worked out under the supervision of Bert Breeding's committee. The campus luncheon following, always the work of Women's league, will probably be served between McClure and Friendly halls from attractive booths put up by each class.
 The first new departure of the program will follow the campus lunch; the annual Junior Week-end parade will leave the campus at about 1:30, and go down town. This year it is to be more military than otherwise, with all six University companies in line with their commanders, the University band and possibly the Radiator Boys' Drum corps, separate sections for faculty and regents and all available automobiles. It is also planned that every University woman shall march in the parade. A band concert will be a feature of the luncheon hour.

 Friday afternoon the interfraternity baseball finals will be played off, and Friday night the Senior class stages "The Climbers" in the Eugene theatre, under the direction of James Mott.
 The Women's Tennis club finals against Willamette will occupy Saturday morning with the preliminaries for the interfraternity track meet. It is possible too, that the Women's Athletic association may put on a series of folk dances on the campus lawns.
 Saturday afternoon the long-suffering frosh has his inning. There's going to be a bonfire especially in honor of his faded and battle-scarred green, and the class of '17 will watch the last green caps disappear.
 The interfraternity track events will be run off after the bonfire.
 Even the Prom is going to be a military affair, and Junior Week-end will wind up with pep and patriotism. The Prom committee has its plans under its hat, and refuses even a peek until the psychological time arrives. A Junior class meeting today will see the final details for the whole week-end complete, and at that time it will be decided whether or not flowers will be allowed. The Prom will be of a rather more informal routine than ever before.

FIJIS WIN IN DEBATE

Given Two Unanimous Decisions Over Sigma Chi Teams.
 Interfraternity League Considers Question of Altering University Calendar.

Phi Gamma Delta won two unanimous decisions from Sigma Chi in the opening contests of the Interfraternity Debate league held last night. Beta Theta Pi and Kappa Sigma won their contests by default. This leaves these two teams to fight it out with the Fijis in the finals.
 The question debated last night was "Resolved, That the University calendar should be changed so that the first semester should end at Christmas." In Deady hall, Joe Hedges and Carl Knudsen upheld the affirmative of the question for the Fijis against Owen Kewon and William Coleman, while in Villard hall the Sigma Chi affirmative team, composed of Douglass Mullarky and James Richardson, debated against Herman Lind and William Haseltine.
 The Sigma Chi teams showed a lack of preparedness on the subject.
 The judges were Manager A. R. Tiffany, Dean Elizabeth Fox and Ben Williams in Deady hall, with Walter Myers presiding; and Dr. James H. Gilbert, Professor Chester Kronenberg and Allen Eaton, with Professor Bert Prescott presiding, in Villard hall.
 The finals will be debated in the near future on the question, "Resolved, That the proposed $6,000,000 bond issue for good roads should be approved at the June election."

TO STAGE "THE BLIND MAN"

War Drama Written by Student Second of a Series.

"The Blind Man," a one-act war drama written by Leslie Blades, will be the second student production at the Eugene theater. Last Saturday, student actors presented a light comedy called "Too Many Tears," and as a result of its success, Manager Hollenbeck has decided to continue the policy of student vaudeville.
 "The Blind Man," to be given May 12, will present the unusual feature of having a blind actor in the title role. Leslie Blades, a blind student and the author of the play, will take the part of Philip, a soldier blinded in war. Mr. Blades is a postgraduate in the rhetoric department. He was the only University student who was successful in the recent Spectator contest. His poem, "Victory," was given second prize, and he also received the third prize in the short story contest. "The Blind Man" is the third of Mr. Bade's dramatic efforts to reach the public. His first one-act, "Even as Their Betters," a tragedy dealing with the laboring classes, was presented by Mask and Buskin during the summer session.

FEW WRITE PEACE ESSAYS

Only Three High Schools Have Entered Contest for Gold Medal.

Up to the present time, only high schools of The Dalles, Glendale and Marshfield have signified their intention of entering the gold medal peace essay contest which is to be held in Portland during the meeting of the National Education association, July 7 to 14. May 25 has been set as the time limit for entering essays in the contest. All high schools in Oregon are eligible.
 The contest, which is an annual event and held in the city where the N. E. A. happens to hold its sessions, is conducted under the auspices of the American School Peace league, of which William Howard Taft is president. At the invitation of the league, the extension division of the University of Oregon, through the Oregon High School Debating league, is handling the details of the contest. The subject selected this year is "The influence of the United States in a plan for permanent peace."
 A committee of three judges, Dr. Carl G. Doney, president of Willamette University; W. C. Winslow, president of the University of Oregon Alumni association, and Dr. E. S. Bates, head of the department of rhetoric in the University, will pick from the essays submitted by the high schools of the state the three best to enter in the final contest in Portland. The three contestants will deliver their essays before the N. E. A.

BIDS WILL OPEN MAY 4

Bids for the new drill hall will be opened May 4 and the contract for the same let, according to Professor E. F. Lawrence, dean of school of architecture. At present it is planned to erect the drill hall on the east side of the men's gymnasium, but no definite announcements as to its position have been given out as yet.

PROMISE MARRIAGE ADVICE

Data on the Family Asked for in Blanks Used in Eugenics Class.

Advice about whom to marry, diseases to be guarded against and occupation will be given upon the filling out of blanks containing questions concerning parents, grand parents, aunts, uncles, sisters and brothers, in the record sheets which Mabel L. Cummings, head of the physical department, has received from the Carnegie department of experimental evolution, which is located at Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island, New York.
 The questions about the different members of the family concern their health, appearance, favorite pursuits, occupation, ages of marriage, number of children, physical stature, mental capacity and, if dead, time and cause of death.
 Miss Cummings will give these blanks to the members of her class in eugenics, for them to fill out. The records will then be sent to the institute where they will be tabulated and placed on file, and to which they can be referred later, if so desired.
 In speaking of the institution, Miss Cummings said that it does the best work in the collection of human hereditary characteristics and that it aimed, ultimately, to have a working index of the natural traits of most of the better families of America.
