Merry Dance at Shack Concludes Canoe Fete
The raceway was artistically lighted with Japanese lanterns for the dance at the shack given after the canoe fete, Thursday evening. Walter Grebe started the merry couples off with a tune on the trombone until the Hendershotts arrived.

Two rows of lanterns extended across the race and a large "O" containing an United States flag hung in the trees across the way.

The young couples danced until nearly midnight.

Archie Bird, ex-'18, of Vancouver, is a guest at Friendly hall for a few days.

The senior women of the University are to be entertained by the Y. W. C. A. on the morning of May 19 with a picnic breakfast. At 8 o'clock Saturday morning jitneys will leave the Y. W. C. A. Bungalow for "Dead Man's Ferry" near Coburg where a camp fire breakfast will be served to the guests by a committee of association girls, Ruth Pearson, Dorothy Collier, and Mrs. Katherine Johnson, of the social committee have charge of the arrangements. The Maxwell jitney service have donated the use of their cars to the association.

The members of Y. W. C. A. through Miss Tirza Dinsdale, secretary, cordially invite all the women of the senior class and members of the advisory board including Dean Fox, Mrs. P. L. Campbell and Miss Mary Watson to help them inaugurate this delightfully new custom on the morning of Saturday May the 19th.

Men in the Military Information class of the University of Oregon were inadvertently treated to two holidays last week. The first one was occasioned by the loss of a lantern with which Professor Sweetser, head of botany, intended for lecture. The other came because Dean Allen, school of journalism believed that Junior Week-end started Thursday noon instead of Thursday night.

MISS CALKINS IS HOSTESS FOR DELIGHTFUL LUNCHEON.

Miss Jeannette Calkins entertained delightfully with a luncheon at her home on Eleventh street Saturday. Spring flowers made charming table decorations. Especially notable were the individual bouquets of forget-me-nots at each place and the tiny springs of japonica and forget-me-nots which floated airily in the finger bowls. The guest list included: Miss Louise Allen, Miss Emma Wootton, Miss Bernice Lucas, Miss Lucy Powers, Miss Adrienne Epping, Miss Helene Delano, Miss Helen Johns, Miss Lillian Littler, Miss Marian Grebel, Miss Miriam Page, Miss Cleome Carroll, Miss Grace Edgington and Miss Marian Neil.

The Junior Prom in the armory tonight will be the crowning event of a patriotic junior week-end which was ushered in by the canoe fete Thursday night.

The grand march led by Kenneth Moores, president of the Junior class, and Florence Sherman will begin promptly at 8:30. This will be a patriotic dance. Flags and red, white and blue streamers will ornament the ballroom.

Dorothy Dunbar and Lucy Powers will give out the programs during the grand march. In the receiving line will be Governor and Mrs. James Withycombe, President and Mrs. P. L. ## WEAK ENDINGS

(By Lucile Saunders)
With such an eminent colyumist as Dean Collins in the same issue, we feel our own offering quite superfluous. Yet the roving eye will not stay still—so day night.

Dean Straub adding something new to the definition of hazing.

Every member of the frosh football team earning his O.

Skirmish practice on Skinner's butte. Clean up day getting free advertising in the water fete.

The Y. M. C. A. turned into a dressing room following violent shower baths in the nearby all-student dip.

Skinny Newton disclosing more unsuspected talents on the Delta Tau canoe.

Fred Kiddle has requested us to discontinue his ad. He found a girl to take him to the picnic. Moral: Advertise here—it brings results.

As near as we could make out, a good many fellows spent most of their time yesterday morning posing for pictures and watching the baths.

Roscoe Hurd is seriously considering retiring from his law studies. He finds he can make a better living pitching horse shoes.

Dr. Smith had a topography class the night the circus was here. Maybe some of the boys wanted to go to the show too but they remembered that duty was the first consideration. But Dr. Smith, poor Dr. Smith forgot all about duty—and he went to the circus.

At the senior play last night we saw Gladys Wilkins and Lynn McCready trying to sit near each other. But they couldn't. Sad fate put a post in between and for some time it looked as though both would pay close attention to the stage only.

No matter how small the foot, if you put it in the way as Bernice Lucas did you can make it stop even a stage curtain.

Yesterday the vigilance committee found Chuck Dundore on the street with a couple of girls when he should have been working. They asked him if that was the squad they gave him and without further ceremony took him to the court beside the fountain. Chuck pleaded guilty to the charge and the judge looked to the crystal liquid in the pool beckoning to them. He could not, no he could not defile its pristine beauty with auburn hair so the case was dismissed.
