CHURCH BODY ELECTS

Campus and Town Religious Council Organizes 17-18 Work

Boynton, President; Sheehy, Treasurer; Dinsdale and Foster Secretaries.

The Council of churches elected officers for the next year at a meeting Monday night in the Y. W. C. A. Bungalow. This council which was formed last year meets once a semester and aims to bring all the churches and religious organizations in a closer working basis. It is composed of five members from each church, five from each association, two from the University at large, two from Eugene Y. M. C. A., and one faculty member and one student from the Bible University.

A. R. Sweetser, chairman of the Bible study and religious education committee, said that the Bible study classes would be continued next year. It was decided to have Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. stage parties September 14, the first Friday after registration, the boys to meet in Villard and the girls in the Y. W. C. A. Bungalow. The Church receptions will then be held on September 21 and the joint parties will be in Villard on the twenty-eighth.

The officers elected last Monday were: W. P. Boynton, president; Dr. L. E. George, vice-president; James Sheehy, treasurer; J. D. Foster, executive secretary, and Tirza Dinsdale, recording secretary. Dr. Boynton was given power to choose representatives from the churches for the executive council.

TALKS ON VOCATIONS

F. C. Southworth, D. D., Addresses Wednesday Assembly.

Discusses Law, Medicine, Divinity; Defends Ministry as a Profession.

Franklin Chester Southworth, D. D., president of Meadville Divinity School, Meadville, Pennsylvania, and a brother of Dr. C. W. Southworth, a Eugene physician, spoke yesterday morning at assembly on the subject, "Choosing a Vocation." Mr. Southworth limited his discussion to just three professions: law, medicine, and the ministry, dwelling at length upon the latter.

In his lecture he showed the great chasm between the ideals of the profession and the actual work in law and medicine, and explained the combination and working out of these ideals in the ministry. Like the lawyer, he said, the minister works for justice, but justice in human relations, not in legal relations. Like the physician the minister is the healer of disease, but spiritual disease rather than physical.

"I know of no other work where men are admitted to the hearts and firesides of so many people as are the men in the ministry," declared Mr. Southworth. He answered what he considered the three most common objections of young men to becoming ministers. They are: first, that they are not good enough; second, that they lack time to adequately prepare themselves for the work; third, that some other institution may arise to take the place of the church.

In regard to the latter objection, he maintained that it is his belief that the great days of preaching are yet to come. He declared that the church can not be done away now after it has lived since ancient times.

The assembly yesterday was the last assembly of the year.
