SEEKS VARSITY MEN

"Fighting Second" Puts Posters on Campus in Hope of Enlisting Students.

Orders to Recruit to War Strength Received by Commander Thursday.

Posters are out on the campus today urging students of the University to join the second company coast artillery thereby getting in line for officerships in the drafted army when it is formed. The coast artillery has received orders to recruit to full war strength, immediately, and the fifty-five University men in the company are making an effort to get as many college men, as possible, to enlist among the forty-seven recruits that are needed by the second

The posters were distributed under the direction of Stam, Jaureguy, Cox, and Belding who are non-commissioned officers and especially interested in seeing the company as near a Universityman company as possible.

The telegram instructing the captain to hurry enlistments to war strength was received and read to the men while at drill, Thursday night. It is believed by the University boys in the company, to indicate an early call to service.

Captain Van Svarverud believes the Oregon companies of coast artillery may be needed in General Pershing's army which is soon to go to France. He bases his opinion on the fact that there is hardly enough artillerymen in regular

An effort will be made to have all the University men, who pledged themselves the company nearer war strength.

No drill will be held after this week until the first of next September or until the company is called out.

By announcement of the government, the coast artillery will be mustered into federal service July 15. The men in the company will be allowed to go home after the semester is over if they are not called into actual service before that ◆ | time or immediately after the University
