

FROSH GIRLS GET SPONSORS; SOME ARE BLESSED BY TWO

First-Year Women Outnumber Uppercas Members, so Some Second-Semester Freshmen Are Drawn Into Service.

The official list of sponsors for freshman girls has been issued and is published below. So many freshman girls are registered in the University this year that there were not enough upperclass women to go around, and so several second-semester freshmen were enlisted in the service. Despite this fact, the list shows several frosh who are blessed with two sponsors.

The official list follows:
Aday, Marian, Frances Elizabeth Baker; Allison Bessie, Evelyn Foster; Andrews, Marian, Celeste Foulkes; Anderson, Myrtle, Essie Maguire; Antle, Hazel, Ruth Wilson; Appel, Anna, Hattie Garrett; Auld Lillian, Lillian Hausler.

Yoder, Gladys, Evelyn Smith; Young, Grace, Margaret Dixon; Zimmerman, Isabelle, Ruth Montgomery.

Because of the shortage of upperclass members, no sponsors have been appointed for these girls: Mildred Dodds, Dora Currin, Elizabeth Hadley, Elizabeth Hall, Mary Gaffney, Edith Gardner and Gladys Jessie Gilson.

BULLETIN BOARD WELL FILLED
"The War Bulletin Board," in the library, has many interesting pamphlets on display. "Facts About the War," published by the Paris Chamber of Commerce in English, is full of vivid war pictures, bringing the reader into the very atmosphere of the French government. The Red Cross Bulletin contains facts about war relief work, both at home and abroad, and "The Official Bulletin" is up to the minute on all war news. Maps of the fighting zone with the latest changes, enable the students to follow the movements in the trenches. A minute or so a day would keep the student well informed on the present war situation.

LECTURE ON RUSSO-JAPANESE WAR FOR CLASS IN ORDANCE ACCOUNTING

Commercial and Industrial Relations In Orient to be Illustrated by Hon. H. B. Miller.

Hon. H. B. Miller, director of the School of Commerce, has agreed to deliver an illustrated lecture before Prof. C. C. Jeremiah's class in ordnance accounting, in Villard hall at nine o'clock, Wednesday morning, on the subject of the Russo-Japanese war.

During the period of this war in the Far East, Mr. Miller represented the Japanese government, as well as the United States, in Manchuria. Just before the end of the war he was sent to Yokohama, where he served the United States as consul-general for five years. During all this time Mr. Miller gave careful study and attention to the commercial and industrial conditions in the Far East, and since returning to his home in this country has kept in close touch with the trade conditions there.

His fund of stereopticon pictures, taken while he was in the Orient, will serve as an interesting and instructive sidelight on his lecture. While his address will be given primarily for the information of the class in ordnance accounting, it will be open to all students on the campus and doubtless will be helpful to many of them.

CHILDREN MAY HAVE CLASS IN RED CROSS

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIAL WELFARE OF EXTENSION DIVISION PROPOSES JUNIOR ORGANIZATION.

Twenty-Four Lectures by Members of University Faculty Included in Course.

The social welfare department of the University Extension division is now aiding in the organization of a junior Red Cross, and at the present time is considering the establishment of a Red Cross class on the campus for those who desire the course. The junior Red Cross is to differ from the regular organization in that it is primarily for school children, who may become Red Cross members by paying the membership fee of 25 cents.

While the proposed campus course is to consist of 24 lectures by University faculty members, it is to be given with the aim of reaching persons who otherwise would hear nothing of the organization, and no collegiate credit will be given for the work. With the lectures there will also be given 25 hours of field work of a sociological nature among the dependent families of soldiers.

Other Work Proceeding.
Other Red Cross work of the social welfare department is going ahead with unabated interest, according to Alfred Powers, who takes the place of Ben Williams as secretary of the Extension division.

Since the institution of the Red Cross campaign last spring, the department has constituted itself a body for the distribution of information, for aid in organizing, for aiding local chapters, branches and auxiliaries in obtaining Red Cross exhibits, for the publication of articles and pamphlets, and for the organization of local relief work. So far the department has answered by letter many requests for information and has sent out 2,500 copies of the Red Cross Extension Monitor.

Exhibits for Fairs.
Exhibits have recently been secured for the state fair at Salem, for the National Educational association in Portland and for Red Cross chapters at La Grande and Culver. The division contributes a Red Cross department to the Oregon Teachers' Monthly and Mr. Powers has written several articles for the Oregon Journal. The division has also prepared a series of slides and expects to secure a film on Red Cross from the national headquarters very soon for the use of the Oregon organizations.

CLASSES IN BOMB THROWING
Men in the classes of physical education at the University of California are being taught hand-grenade throwing in their regular gym classes. Sham "bombs" of the regulation size and weight are used, the chief difference between those thrown on the campus and those thrown "somewhere in France" being that the California ones are made of eucalyptus wood.

WIDER FIELD OPENING FOR WOMEN STUDENTS

COLLEGE GIRLS PREPARING TO FILL POSITIONS VACATED BY ENLISTED MEN AT FRONT.

Courses in Law, Medicine, Journalism, Are Fitting Co-eds for War Emergencies.

Several new courses are being offered women at Oregon to prepare them for war duties along the lines of commerce, law, journalism, medicine, household arts, social service, and teaching. At this time, when women are asking how best to serve their country, they are being asked to fill places never before open to them—the places left vacant by men who are assuming new responsibilities.

The School of Education offers courses to prepare women definitely for principals, heads of departments, teachers of science and commercial courses.

Commerce School to Help.
The School of Commerce will help the women who wish to prepare for positions in banks, chambers of commerce, business management, cost accounting, etc. A young woman from this state was one of the first two draft women employed by the Pennsylvania railroad in New York City. There will be exceptional opportunities in the business world for women who are equipped. Dean Morton, formerly of the University of Oregon School of Commerce, says that at Boston University he has 250 women in commerce courses.

In Law School.
For the duration of the war women may enter the law school as partial students at the beginning of the freshman year and there elect two courses without the payment of any special law fees.

The School of Law opens its doors to women who wish to know their rights and duties as property owners, or who wish to equip themselves with a knowledge of the law to be used in business positions, or who are planning to become lawyers. There are some distinguished and accomplished women lawyers at the present time, and the future will doubtless find more women entering the professions.

In Literary Work.
In the field of journalism, reporters, editors, writers for magazines and newspapers, experts in advertising, are all wanted, and women are filling these positions.

Many women are entering the ranks of active service as nurses—a few as physicians. One of the honor students of last year's class at the University of Oregon Medical School was a woman physician.

PRESIDENT CAMPBELL EXPRESSES HEARTY DISAPPROVAL OF HAZING

Says War Year is No Time for Pranks—Serious Purpose Characterizes Men.

Although hazing has always been under ban in the University this year more than ever men are urged by President Campbell to refrain from anything that can be so construed.

"Since this is a war year," President Campbell said Monday afternoon, "We should leave out everything that falls below the general seriousness of the times. Most of the men returned this year for the purpose of fitting themselves for some future work that the government may have in store and everything should be done to help this preparation."

President Campbell says that the men are already catching the spirit of seriousness, and that he is well satisfied with the beginnings made this year.
